

TRIED TO SNEAK OUT OF COURT FOR PLOTS, LABORED TO GET CONDEMNED

Jury Is Being Selected Today at Pecos—Prisoner Is Looking Better.

SAYS SHE HAS BEEN FED WELL

(By C. A. Brown.)

Pecos, Texas, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Agnes Orner, of El Paso, went to trial today in the district court here before Judge S. J. Isaacs. This is her third trial on the charge of killing her 11 year old daughter, Lillie Orner, on February 18, 1911, at their home, 698 North Ochoa street, in El Paso. It will probably require all day today to secure a jury.

Three Jurors Secured.

But three jurors had been secured from the 15 salaried men named to serve in this case when the 7th district court adjourned for the noon recess today. Then men who occupy seats in the jury box and who are shipping clerk for the Pecos Mercantile company, father of six children; E. E. Reed, a physician of Alamo, father of two children; J. H. Chandler, a Toyah merchant, father of four children; Chandler was a juror in the case before the supreme court of the United States on appeal.

The defense challenged Ira Jackson, a liverman, of Toyah, who had been accepted by the state, and C. C. Cargill, of Toyah, who had been accepted by the state, but all others who were excused, were left off that account. It is believed that the jury will be completed before adjournment today, unless the state declines to indict the state generally on circumstantial evidence.

Witnesses are not allowed to remain in the courtroom while prospective jurors are being examined. They are called in the morning.

Judge Is Very Careful.

Judge S. J. Isaacs took nearly an hour to examine the jury duty and to explain the importance of the oath.

Mrs. Orner appeared calm and collected. She was dressed in a blue and white black veil, hanging loosely over her face, which was white from powder, evidently to give her a pale, ghostly appearance which she had not naturally. She signified a desire for some bananas when Mrs. Edw. W. Baker, who would like anything particular to eat.

In addition to the witnesses who came from El Paso, Mrs. A. K. Thomas is here.

The first trial of Mrs. Orner was held in the 6th district court in El Paso, with Judge James H. Harper presiding, in May, 1911, and when the jury found her guilty and sentenced her to life imprisonment, she appealed.

Previous Trials.

The supreme court of the state granted her a new trial on the ground that the jury erred in not seeing that the jury accepted the degree of murder of which she was convicted. A writ of venue was granted and the case went to trial for the second time on September 19, 1912, before Judge W. J. Douglas, at Marfa, Texas, and resulted in a hung jury. Because of the difficulty experienced in securing a jury, the case was removed to Pecos and is now on trial here.

Mrs. Orner has been in jail here for about a month, having been brought here from Marfa, Texas, where she was held after her conviction.

New Developments Expected.

New developments are expected in this case from the testimony of the defense. It is understood that the former will endeavor to introduce testimony to show that the child was not dead when she was put in the backyard of the Orner home, had died from eating it, and that this meat was part of a dinner prepared by the defendant, had eaten from a short time before his sudden and mysterious death, which occurred about a year before that of Lillie Orner.

Confession Told.

It is also reported that witnesses are to testify in regard to the confession of Mrs. Orner is supposed to have made to El Paso women friends, but neither the prosecution nor the defense will make public anything in this regard at this time. It is probable that such a witness will be held in custody until the trial is over.

At previous trials the prosecution failed to show that the child was dead when she was put in the backyard of the Orner home, had died from eating it, and that this meat was part of a dinner prepared by the defendant, had eaten from a short time before his sudden and mysterious death, which occurred about a year before that of Lillie Orner.

Mrs. Orner to Take Stand.

Mrs. Orner will take the stand herself and the defense will attempt to show through her testimony that she was a most unnatural thing for her to attempt the life of her own child and in line with testimony heretofore introduced that the child might have accidentally taken "Rough on Rats," which is an arsenic poison, it has been heretofore reported that she said that she showed no affection for the child.

Many Witnesses.

Mrs. Orner came here Thursday and the train leaving El Paso Sunday morning were Mr. Nichols and Mr. Owen and the following witnesses: Mrs. Sadie Archer, Mrs. W. F. Lucas, Mrs. J. B. Lee, at whose home Mrs. Orner and her child lived, is expected to give substantially the same testimony as she gave heretofore, during which she said that she showed no affection for the child.

MANY BUREAUS TO BE CHANGED

(By Winfield Jones.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—An important readjustment of the bureaus of the department of commerce and labor will be attempted by the new Democratic administration, according to Democratic congressmen today. With the creation of a new department of labor, which is expected to be consummated by congress during the coming winter, a number of the functions of the old department will be handed over to the new department.

Consular Publications.

The publications of the bureau of consular statistics will be amplified. There is much complaint now that persons who desire copies of the daily trade and consular reports are unable to get them, and provisions will be made for increasing the circulation of this publication among business houses and chambers of commerce.

To Modify Immigration Laws.

A modification of the functions of the bureau of immigration will be attempted also. Congress is expected to pass a new immigration law at the coming session and in the bill will be included some reforms for the immigration service. It will fall to the new administration to carry out the new law.

Walters and Colquitt at Oats.

Another interesting development in the Texas Democratic political situation is the break between governor Colquitt and Jake Walters. It is said that Mr. Walters, who was a candidate for United States senator and interested in that office in the preferential primaries by Mr. Sheppard, feels that Colquitt was largely responsible for his failure in that contest. It is reported that Mr. Walters will again be a candidate for United States senator to succeed Mr. Sheppard.

COLQUITT AND WALTERS BREAK

(Austin, Tex., Nov. 25.—) It develops that Joseph Walters, Bailey's proposed resignation as a member of the United States senate has a toe line tied to it.

Immediately following this announcement, or rather coincident with it, came an official statement from governor Colquitt that he would appoint E. M. Johnston, editor of the Houston Post, to succeed Mr. Bailey in the senate pending the filling of the vacancy by the legislature, which meets January 14, 1913. In connection with this statement, it was stated that Mr. Colquitt took occasion to say publicly that he had never been in Mr. Bailey's confidence and that the latter had never supported him for public office. The governor explained that his announced intention of appointing Mr. Johnston to the senate was a reward to the latter for his long years of service for the Democratic party in Texas, and for his unbroken friendship with the governor.

(Tombstone, Ariz., Nov. 25.—) W. J. Bruner is dead and Cave Adams is under arrest. Bruner was killed at Huachuca siding, on the Nogales line of the Southern Pacific, about 17 miles south of this city.

The shooting occurred about 7 o'clock Saturday night in the season of Gene Larrimer. Bruner was standing at the bar drinking a glass of beer with some acquaintances and had just finished saying to his friend, "I lost a little child about two months ago and I have two children who are ruptured, and I feel pretty blue over the situation" when the words "You are a son of a b—" were followed by a pistol shot, rang out and Bruner fell dead, shot through the head.

SENATOR RAYNER DIES AT THE CAPITAL

Was Leader Among Democrats in Upper House—Party May Lose Control in Senate.

(Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—) Senator Isador Rayner, of Maryland, one of the leading Democrats of the senate and a man who was offered to the Baltimore convention by W. J. Bryan as a suitable candidate for the presidential nomination, died here today at the end of a long illness resulting from continued overwork.

His severe illness covered a period of six weeks, dating from the efforts made to elect him to the senate in December, 1911. He had been in the hospital since that time, and his illness was largely due to overwork.
