FOREST FIRES.
Cloudcroft, N. M., Nov. 22, 1912.
Editor El Paso Herald:

As the protection of the national forests against fire is of the utmost importance and especially is this true of the Alamo national forest to the people of El Paso, the Tularosa valley, the Pecos valley, and the southwest in general, the fact that there have been few fires this year should be of interest.

The fire season for 1912 on the Alamo forest, which includes the Sacramento and Guadalupe mountains, and comprises 941,790 acres, is now past, and the record shows that the systematic methods of fire protection has resulted in the least number of fires, the least number of acres burned over, and the least damage to the growth within the national forest since its creation in 1907.

Only four fires occurred, which burned over approximately seven and one-quarter acres before they could be reached and extinguished. These fires destroyed 2500 feet B. M. of timber, with no perceptible damage to the reproduction. The causes of these fires have been traced in one case to lightning, in another to carelessness in clearing land, in a third leaving a camp fire unextinguished, while the cause of the fourth is unknown.

The residents of the forest have cooperated freely with the forest officers in protecting the forest from fire. They are more careful than in years past, and it is to their personal and general interest that the forest is not burned over. The forest is their source of water supply and its cover of timber and underbrush tends to insure the climatic conditions so favorable for the growing of farm crops, forage for stock, as well as future timber industry. It also serves as the source of the water supply for the towns of Alamogordo, La Luz, Shamrock, Orogrande, Tularosa and Hope, N. M., and it has a direct bearing on the water supply of the Pecos River valley.

Editor El Paso Herald:

Frank Curran.

A reduced rate on shipments for grain from El Paso to Las Cruces is also sought.

MINING CONGRESS OPPOSES PRESENT PUBLIC DOMAIN POLICY

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 25.—With the prospects of a lively fight being waged on what its opponents call "the political heresy of the new nationalism," as practiced by the last two administrations at Washington in regard to the administration of the laws governing the development of the public domain, the 15th annual session of the American Mining congress began its sessions here today.

The three main questions to be threshed out in the congress will be: A more liberal administration of the mineral land laws; the opening of the coal fields in Alaska; the framing of a workmen's compensation law, supplementary to the federal law, the chief feature of which will be making the cost of insurance to employers of workingmen a part of the cost of production and not a burden to the workingmen themselves.

CHINESE TROOPS SEIZE CITY FROM MONGOLIAN REBELS

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 25.—The Chinese government troops under prince Pohti, a loyal Mongolian, captured the city of Uliassutai, Mongolia, after a two days' battle, according to a Pekin dispatch to the Chicago Daily News. The Mongolian seceders have installed Russian telegraph operators on government lines they seized. It is believed, however, to be a counter move to the Chinese military operations in upper Mongolia.

ZACH WHITE FIRST ON NEW REGISTER

Matt Winn Is First Real Guest of New Hotel—Public May Inspect the Place Tuesday Evening.

Z. T. White was the first person to register at the Hotel Paso Del Norte when it opened Monday. Being president and one of the principal stockholders in the hotel company, Mr. White was given the honor of writing his name on the first room card issued. Having a fine, colonial home on north Mesa avenue, Mr. White will not avail himself of the parlor suite for which he made the reservation. M. J. Winn, manager of the Juarez race track, was the first regular customer of the new hotel. With his daughters, he was assigned to rooms 432, 434 and 436 and parlor by chief clerk Todd Rockstroh.

The public opening of the hotel will be held Tuesday evening from seven until nine oclock. An invitation has been issued to the public by Z. T. White, president of the company, and George R. GROGAN INJURED IN ACCIDENT AT MINE

E. L. Grogan, of Oro Grande, N. M., was perhaps fatally injured, and O. O. Hootman had three ribs broken and his leg badly bruised as a result of an accident at the Oro Grande Sunday afternoon at 4:30 oclock. Grogan, who is owner of the Oro Grande Copper mine, was riding on the motor car bearing ore cars from the mine to the town of Oro Grande. With him were Hootman and another miner.

On the road to the town a piece of timber had fallen across the track. This was seen too late to stop the car. Hootman and the other man jumped, but Grogan was caught between the gasoline engine and the ore cars and badly crushed about the ribs and abdomen, receiving internal injuries from which it is doubtful if he will recover. Hootman had several ribs broken when he jumped. The other man escaped uninjured. Physicians from El Paso were summoned. Hootman was brought to El Paso Sunday night and Grogan Monday morning. Both men are at Providence hospital.

Grogan has a wife and child in Oro Grande. Just before the accident he had closed a deal with eastern capitalists to take a half interest in the mine for further developing.

Pincham, it is alleged, is also wanted for the theft of other clothing and silverware, estimated, in all, to be worth $1200, all of which the city detectives recovered. Mr. Greer stated that Pincham was staying at the dead man's house at El Reno and secured the clothes, which had been packed by the man's widow.
