

Two Things Organized Ball Can't Shake Off Are Murphy and the Federal League

The "Outlaws" Are Still Talking About the "Peace Dove" Which Has Flown Away

LONG, LONG AGO.
Time when no manager would say Eddie Plank's price was too high. They think he's an old row.

COMING BACK.
They are killing so many folks with motorcycles that it makes people long for a bicycle revival.

BENDER AND COOMBS MAY JUMP; ARE EXPECTED TO LEAVE L.A.

Neither Feel Kindly Toward the American League Since
Mack Asked Waivers on Them; Federals Will Be Much Strengthened if They Get These Stars; Langford
Says He Plans to Leave the Ring Game Soon.

FROM the east is wafted the news that Bender and Coombs are expected to leave Los Angeles in a few days to follow in the footsteps of Eddie Plank and sign a Federal league contract. Efforts are being made by the owners of several big league clubs to secure the signatures of the redman and Coombs to contracts, but present indications are that they will take the burlesque and jump to the outlaws.

Like Plank, neither Bender or Coombs feel kindly toward the American league. After giving the best they had in their whips to the Athletics they were "canned" by Connie Mack, who to date has assigned no reason for his act in the loss of this trio of hurlers. Mack will find himself up against it next season when the pennant race starts. One thing sure, the Athletics will require a whole lot of building up to make them even pennant contenders. With the club as it is today Mack would have to step some to finish in the first division.

These three twirlers are far from being all in. It's true that Plank has been twirling for 13 years and is getting old, but the game he twirled in the world's series clearly demonstrated the fact that he is not a "nan beer" and is still a winning hurler. Bender last season led the American league hurlers with something like 19 victories and three or four defeats. Coombs worked only in part of a few games. He has been out of the game for two years because of an injury, but those who have seen him work predict that in 1915 he will return to his old time form.

The advent of these three to the ranks of the Federals will have a tendency to greatly strengthen the club with which they are assigned. It will also raise the standard of playing of the league and the trio will prove strong drawing cards in any city they pitch.

Sam Langford, one of the greatest fighters of all time, is to retire from the roped arena in 1915, according to an announcement he made in San Francisco the other day. It is not because he finds himself slipping, but because the Boston negro lonesome is a farmer. Langford, the time ago purchased a farm at Milford, Mass., and he intends retiring to the farm next summer.

But before he retires Langford wants to fill a long felt desire to fight Jack Johnson for the world's heavyweight championship.

Next year the National league will celebrate its 40th birthday. The league was organized in the old Broadway Central hotel, New York city, in 1875. Former Gov. Bulkeley of Connecticut, who is still living, was its first president. Two of the other three former presidents are also living. They are A. G. Mills and N. E. Young.

Lieut. A. C. Ayres has been named as coach of the Stevens Tech. college 11 because it is alleged he permitted an unsportsmanlike act to be played by his team during a recent game. A player, who was one of the stars of the team, was forced out of the game for rough work. He changed jerseys and swathed his head in bandages and returned to the game under an assumed name. It was an amusing case of putting an over on the referee, but when the president of the college learned of it he insisted on Ayres's resignation.

Next Tuesday Johnny Dundee and Joe Rivers will fight at Los Angeles, and this event will probably be one of the last big contests to be staged in the Golden State, the ban being clamped on the sport by the voters at the recent election. Dundee has been considered one of the most promising lightweights in the game and is a stronger contender for the championship than any other fighter in the world. Rivers has been near championship caliber for some time. The winner of this fight will be right in line for a match with Welsh for the crown.

The two fighters form an ideal combination and the contest will prove a thriller. Those who have seen Dundee work believe he will defeat Rivers, but it's doubtful if he has the kick to put a minister a knockout. Dundee fought a great fight at Juarez with Grover Hayes, but he lacked the punch to put his man out.

An eastern statistician announces that during the hunting season 111 hunters have been killed, a majority of these were killed by other hunters who were shooting deer with high powered guns. Thirty-seven were killed in the woods of Wisconsin and Michigan. It is estimated that more than 1000 deer were killed in the states during the past season.

Stanley Souk-em Soukum, and Hal Stewart of Fort Wayne, Ind., have been matched to fight 20 rounds at Dayton, Dec. 8, and the event will undoubtedly be a corker. Stewart recently battled Joe Mandot to a standstill in 10 rounds.

Duke P. Kahanomoku, the American world's champion short distance swimmer and George Cunha, have left Hawaii for Australia. The two expert swimmers will compete with the champions of the Antipodes in a swimming meeting soon to be held.

Chick Gandil, the lanky keystone of the Washington senators, is in ill health and has decided to leave his bowling alleys and spend the winter in the southwest. Gandil some weeks ago started coughing, but it was not thought caused by cigar smoking, but now it is feared the trouble is deeper seated.

Johnson Has Jumped To the Federals

Senators Who Lose Him Intend To Sue

Coffeyville, Kans., Dec. 4.—Walter Johnson, heralded as the greatest pitcher in the American league, has been signed by the Federals. Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Cubs, fixed it up with Johnson here late Thursday. Johnson was the mainstay of the Washington American team, who are expected to sue to retain his services.

"The price paid," said Tinker as he smiled broadly, "well, no matter, you can say he will make me money than anybody."

"Will it be more than $15,000?" a questioner persisted.

"It is," he said.

Tinker arrived here Thursday morning. Johnson motored in from his farm and the two went into conference. After a long distance telephone talk in the afternoon between Tinker and president Weeghman in Chicago, Tinker and Johnson quickly came to terms.

Walter Johnson, over the telephone from his Kansas farm, confirmed the story that he had been signed. He declined to say what salary the contract called for.

Johnson has been the star and prop of the Washington team almost ever since he began his major league career here Thursday night. It has been rumored that Clyde Miller, center fielder, and Johnson's closest friend, might go to the Federal camp.

Johnson Has Great Record

When Clarke Griffith took hold of the team in 1913 and turned it into a winner, Johnson came into his own, and started to smash records for games won, scoreless innings and strikeouts, etc. The strengthened team became a pennant contender, jumping from the bottom to second place the first year. It finished second again in 1913 and third this year.

Johnson's record for the seven years which he has pitched for Washington, follows:

Year	Won	Lost	Pct.
1908	14	25	.352
1909	13	25	.342
1910	25	17	.595
1911	23	23	.500
1912	22	12	.647
1913	34	7	.837
1914	28	18	.609

Started With Tacoma

Johnson started his professional career with the Tacoma club in 1905. He was drafted by the Wiser, Idaho, club and played with that team until secured by Washington.

In 1913 he eclipsed the shutout record held by Jack Coombs of the Philadelphia Athletics club by pitching 55 innings without being scored upon. In 47 games in 1913 Johnson permitted his opponents to cross the plate for an average of only 1.09 runs per game, a tallying the pitchers' record for the season. He pitched 216 innings, faced 1242 batters, allowed 236 hits, 54 runs and 145 runs batted in. His passes numbered only 23. This was his most successful year.

ARTILLERY TEAM TO PLAY CAVALRY

The football team of battery B, 6th field artillery, will play the 15th cavalry regimental team at Washington park Sunday. It has been decided this game is necessary to settle the championship of the border patrol. The cavalry team comes from Columbus, N. M.

Battery B team has gone through the season without a defeat. The 15th cavalry team is strong and fast playing, and a hard game is anticipated. It is stated that the artillery team would be glad to play the high school team, if no game is arranged between the high school and the University of Arizona team.

ABBOTT TEAM TAKES ALL FOUR GAMES

The Abbott bowling team took four straight from the Hart team Thursday evening on the Cactus alleys. Rogers carried off the honors of the evening, his score of 200 being high, while he tied Abbott for the highest totals with a score of 144.

The four teams each won two points in their games. Batesman rolled the highest individual game with a score of 184, while his total of 675 was also high.

Team	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Total

GRADUATIONS WEAKEN HARVARD; YALE AND PRINCETON STRONG

Though Coach Houghton May Be Able to Develop Recruits Into Good Players, It's Hard to Build Up Champion Team Around Only Three Veterans; Princeton and Yale Lose Few by Graduation.

BY FRANK J. MENCKE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Looking off into 1915 it seems to us that the Crimson tint along the football horizon is fading and that the blue of Yale and the black and yellow of Princeton are in the ascendancy.

Yale and Princeton have furnished picking for Harvard in a football way during the past two or three years. But the graduates next June threaten to wreck the Crimson machine that swept through to such great victories last year and this year. Of the 1914 regulars, only three will be left—Mahan, Parson and Wallace.

On the other hand, Princeton will lose only three of its regulars, including Capt. Ballin, its great tackle, while Yale will lose only two or three valuable men and will have left the nucleus for a great eleven.

Houghton may find stars of the first magnitude among the candidates who will present themselves for selection. Probably some may rise to such heights that stars of 1913 and 1914 will not be missed. But the outlook for Yale and Princeton for 1915 is much rosier than that of Harvard.

Most of those who played regularly for Yale and Princeton this season will return next year, and the experience they had this year will be of great value to the team's chance next year. On the other hand, Harvard must build a new team around three regulars which, even for a man of Houghton's wizardry, is something of a job.

Those Who Won't Be Back. Including in those who never again will wear a Harvard uniform are Brickley, the great fullback and drop kicker; Bradlee, halfback; T. J. Coolidge and "Tack" Hardwick, the regular ends; Atkinson, substitute linebacker; Swigert, substitute quarterback; Trumbull, man; Weston, linebacker; Withington, substitute linebacker; Logan, quarterback; Sigourney and Smith, substitute linebackers; Franks, fullback; Weatherhead, substitute end; Keen, substitute linebacker.

The usual weekly dance will be given Friday night at the Valley Inn, Yelita, at 8:45 o'clock. Good music.—Adv.

A GREAT HISTORY OF THE WORLD

Offered to the Readers of this Paper

Seventy Centuries of History in Five Beautiful Volumes.

The name of Josephus Nelson Larned carries weight wherever English is spoken. He is known as one of the greatest historians of his time. His genius for grasping essentials and for picking up the right words and weaving them into a fabric of clearly marked design has never been surpassed. It is this feature that renders his work unique. The reader understands the trend of events as never before, and it has been said by competent judges that an acquaintance with Larned's writings is equivalent to a liberal education. The readers of this paper have an opportunity that will probably never present itself again to acquire Larned's wonderful History of the World at a nominal cost—the expense involved in the actual distribution. No profit is sought, the coupons being the main consideration. The latter are printed daily in these columns, and our readers are urged to lose no time in cutting them out and securing a family treasure for many years to come.—Adv.
