

COACHES OFTEN INSTRUCT TEAMS DURING GAMES THOUGH FORBIDDEN

One Assistant Poses as Water Boy and Bears Messages to His Team Until Caught by Opposition and Chased From Field; Princeton's Stonewall Defence on One Yard Line is the Season's Greatest Play.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

EVERYONE who understands the football rules knows that after a game has started the coach is not permitted to openly direct operations. Likewise, as everyone knows, there are moments during every game when the coach would sacrifice his left thumb to be able to get a bit of advice to his men.

Coaches have tried many schemes to get words of advice to their men, but the prize for scheming goes to those who guide the destiny of the Princeton team.

During the recent Princeton-Rutgers game it was noticed that the Princeton players seemed to have a fearful thirst. They were almost constantly running to the water line and the thirstiest of the whole team seemed to be the captain. Likewise, it was noticed that whenever the water boy, a midwest dressed in shiny clothing, doled out water to the captain, he always seemed to utter quite a number of words, occasionally accompanying his remarks with a wave of his digits.

Water Boy is bogus. This kept up until a chap named "Doc" Bunting, a former Penn. Charter Academy man, and now vitally interested in the Rutgers team, got a close look at the water boy.

"Hey, you boy c'mere," bespoke "Doc."

The water boy didn't, and "Doc" pursued him.

"Oh, ho, it's you, 'Boots' is it?" said "Doc" after he had caught up with the fleeing water boy.

"Kinda funny that a water boy would be having so much to say to the players. Say, you, 'Boots' you get the field in about two minutes or I'll bust your head."

WRITE your friends about "El Paso Automobile Week," Nov. 29 to Dec. 4, and invite them to visit El Paso at that time, see the many exhibits and also the big illuminated parade on Friday evening, Dec. 3, which will be the biggest thing of the kind ever pulled off in the southwest.

VENUSTIANO CARRANZA, provisional president of Mexico, has purchased a Cadillac touring car and the next thing we know he will be declaring the lid off all speed limits in the neighboring republic. If Carranza puts the lid down on bull-fights and cockfights, we can at least feel sure that he will be a booster for motor racing.

BOXING promoters are trying to clear up the championship situation in this country and have given Willie Ritchie 90 days to engage in a title bout over the 20 round route for the American lightweight honors. As Willie would have to make 135 pounds for this bout, it is unlikely that he will be in any hurry to sign up.

greatest champion batter in either circuit and, perhaps, greatest left-hander, he is particularly formidable in the pinch.

Christy Mathewson, who has spent his life in the National league, might meet naturally prefer the batters in that circuit, once told me that Crawford was the hardest hitter he ever faced.

There is a profound unanimity of opinion on this point among American league pitchers. Furthermore, Crawford is a right-hander.

His final average may fall a shade below that figure this year, though not much. Crawford is not a true two-batter pitcher and has passed the mark, but once in his Major league career.

With the utmost respect to Crawford's great showing, we are nevertheless led by a survey of all the facts to prefer Crawford.

Johnson for pitcher. Alexander and Johnson are the selection without a dissenting voice. Each has been unrivaled in his league, each superior to any other pitcher who could be brought against him.

The National league has the best pitchers in the game for some years, and though the passing of Archer and Schuyler is a loss, it is impossible to overlook the claims of Snyder.

Snyder worked in 144 contests. He batted for even .90. He is acknowledged to be one of the greatest mechanical catchers the circuits have ever seen.

If Schalk with all his great ability can equal Snyder in the field, he is worthy of judgment or some mastery of baseball knowledge which does not appear in the records.

The figures tell us, and from the view of both men in action, we must prefer Snyder.

It is a great thing to choose a team made up of leading stars in the game. The National league has the best players in the game. This is the first time the high school boys have met in three years.

TUCSON has a new golf course which is said to be a pippin. It is an 8-hole dirt course and El Paso golfers just back from the Arizona city assert that it is the finest of the kind in America and a pleasure to play on.

JOE TINKER is being suggested in Chicago as manager for the Cubs when peace is declared in the big baseball leagues and the Federals unite with the Nationals. It is said that Charles Weegham is to take over the Cubs when the deal goes through and if he does it is more than likely that Tinker will be his manager.

ARE you a soccer fan? If you haven't seen this winter sport, turn out at Rio Grande park next Sunday and see the United Empires play the soldiers. It is far faster than the American brand of football and calls for much open play. The ball is kicked altogether and, except the goalkeeper, no player is allowed to handle it while in play.

TURKEY RAISERS HOLD TO PRICE

Market Men and Farmers Fail to Agree on Thanksgiving Turkey Contract.

Two cents a pound wholesale stands in the way of El Paso and it ability to get home grown turkeys for Thanksgiving day from local provision and market men.

If El Pasoans want valley grown Thanksgiving turkeys this fall, they may have to buy most of them direct from the farmers. This is the result of a conference Monday evening at the chamber of commerce, in which local valley representatives of the turkey raisers met the representative gathering of city wholesale market men, both sides failing to agree on a price at which all the turkeys in the valley might change hands for the benefit of the eaters thereof.

Graham Presents Argument. County farm demonstrator A. G. Graham called the meeting to order at a few minutes past 7 o'clock and went into the description of the wants of a right minded El Paso when it came to eating Thanksgiving turkey.

He stated that home grown turkeys were the bird El Paso hungered for. He brought forward the cutting out of the competition for meat market men in the Thanksgiving season if they would only agree with the farmers to take all their turkeys on a sell them basis. Pasaons who would murmur thanks with every chew on a valley bird on November 25.

Market Men Hold to Price. But the county farm demonstrator spoke in vain. El Paso market men stood firm on a quotation they were willing to pay—15 cents a pound for live weight and 17 cents for dressed birds. The farmers stuck steadily at their own quotation of 17 cents a pound for live weight and 19 cents for dressed.

S. R. Riddle, speaking as one half the committee of two appointed to represent the valley turkey growers, told of the virtues of the home grown bird, the heavier weight, the fatter condition, and the better flavor. He was followed by J. H. Swann, the other half of the farmers' committee, who gave also a vivid description of the home grown product.

No Decision Reached. The market men pointed out that they could get turkeys at 15 cents a pound, live weight, and 17 cents for dressed.

The meeting came to an end with no decision reached.
