RAIN OF GREAT HELP TO RANGE

New Mexico Highways Considerably Damaged By The Downpour.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 25.—Precipitation almost unprecedented in volume at this time of the year is noted in the weekly crop report issued today by the United States weather bureau. Charles E. Linney, the meteorologist, says: "The rains were heavy from the Rio Grande eastward and floods occurred over southeastern counties and in the lower Pecos valley. Considerable damage was caused to highways and traffic was delayed. Some damage occurred to oat crops in the fields, but the benefit to ranges and late crops was very material. Crops are practically matured and the cutting, shocking and stacking of corn, milo, kafir and flax crops continue, also the last cutting of alfalfa. Ranges generally are good and stock is in fine condition. The following are local reports: Lincoln: The heavy rains first of the week were of inestimable value to ranges, in insuring winter grass, but were injurious to some matured farm crops. Flood conditions were reached in the Pecos. Fairly warm, showery week; ranges good.

Mer Bin was not charged with illicit importation of drugs. Mr. Bin was bound over to the grand jury on a bond fixed at $2500.
