SMOKER TONIGHT

The most unique wrestling match that has ever been staged in Tacoma is billed for tonight at the Moose hall. James Reed, a one-handed wrestler, and Peter Buzukos, a Greek, are the principals. Interest is centered in the boxing matches that will form the preliminaries, four bouts being arranged. Frank Koepkey is due to meet "Ink" Loberg at 175 pounds. Koepkey is the man who put the veteran Steve Reynolds of Seattle on his "uppers" when they met last month. Harry Bishop is billed to meet "Foxy" Miller of San Francisco at 135 pounds. Bishop is of the South Tacoma lad who is matched to meet Danny O'Brien in Seattle on the 14th of this month. The winner of this match will be the lightweight champion of the Northwest, as O'Brien is considered the best man of that weight since Bud Anderson has gone south. Joe Crawford will meet Hal Benter in a return match. In their last meeting Crawford won by the sleep route in 42 seconds. Benter claims that he will win this time. Young Alling, who stopped Eddie Morrell at the last smoker, is due to meet Jack Murray in a four-round bout.

MRS. BAT NELSON IS WORKING

(By United Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 6.—After two weeks visit with her parents here, Mrs. Battling Nelson is today en route to Denver, where she will resume her duties as cartoonist on a Denver paper. "I guess I'll stick to my job until my five-year contract expires," said Mrs. Nelson before departure.

CAN BISHOP BEAT O'BRIEN

It may seem to Tacoma fans that matching Harry Bishop with Danny O'Brien, said to be the cleverest fighter in the Northwest, was a bad piece of management. Bishop is without a peer in the Northwest. He can beat any of the so-called "future" champions in Seattle, and Ernie Barriere, the Canadian champion, is none too anxious to meet him. Tacoma has two or three boys who with careful management will develop into wonderful boxers. Frank Koepkey, Harry Bishop and Joe Richmond are in the calcium the strongest at the present time. All three of these boys may appear at the Ballard Athletic club's smoker Feb. 14.

RANDOM SHOTS

When you've yielded to temptation And you've had your little fling; When you've tried each new sensation And you've sipped of ev'ry-thing; When you've been as soused as pickles And your voice is rasped and hoarse; Yea, 'tis then the meaning trickles In your brain, of Old Remorse! When the gay caffays have had you As a steady for awhile; When the Laffing-Water's had to Come in quarts to make you smile; When you've spent a bunch o' money And gone busted, too, of course; Yea, 'tis then it DON'T SEEM FUNNY, And you walk with Old Remorse. Friends of that Seattle doctor who wanted to get married told the county clerk that he oughtn't to give the doc a license because the doctor wasn't in his right mind, not quite. Well, Babette, didst ever hear of a poor gink who wanted to get married being in his right mind? O, take him back, the poor gel sobs To the boob-hutch with the rest o' the Zobs. Quite a lot of hinges fall down their kale; using income tacks, no doubt. Ouch! Pomo Under the spreading cocconut There dwelt a mutt within a hut; It should have been a palace, but The hut was good enough for Mutt. One day there fell upon Mutt's nut A playful bouncing cocconut! This ends the tale; I'm sorry, but That's all the rhyme-words I have gut! How can anybody live and be as foolish as that—huh? O, Welcome Lenten Days Well, we have our old friend Lent in our midst again. It is the season when we must swear off doing foolish and unnecessary things—especially things that were invented by Satan. Let's all swear off: Springtime mother-in-law gags. Stalling off the grocery bill to buy theater tickets. Telling friend husband that its funny how old he's growing. Telling friend wife about that Chicken down at the office.

"On Board the Good Ship Earth" By Herbert Quick

XIV. (Copyright, 1913, by Herbert Quick.) I have spoken in these letters of new lands to which man may go to support increased population. Let us see if these lands will suffice. One of the funniest stories of these times of ours is that written by Ellis Parker Butler, called "Pigs is Pigs." It relates to the troubles of a rural expressman, who kept all the rules of the company as to taking care of a crate of prolific pigs, while unraveling the red tape of a dispute over the rate. Long before the correspondence was ended, the office, the freight house, the platform, and the surrounding city blocks were full of guinea pigs. There was famine in all the things eaten by guinea pigs. And the young pigs were arriving by Nature's own express line, in hourly consignments each greater than the original one. In another month of such increase the guinea pigs would have been knee-deep in the streets. This humorous story illustrates strikingly the most wonderful, the most momentous fact about living things—embarked on our air-ship Earth—their tendency to multiply. In view of the fact that we are living things, that we have this same tendency to multiply, and that deck-room is already very valuable, let us consider the so-called command, "Multiply and replenish the earth." The first plants and the first animals were one-celled little bags of protoplasm. The long-shaped ones pinched themselves in two in the middle, and each became two, and so on. The round ones shoved out arms like snails' horns, and these horns pinched off near the parent, and went off as independent organisms, and thus multiplied. Some threw out buds which separated from the parent, or dropped off. Many peculiar ways of multiplication were developed—but the living things did what no non-living things had ever done—they multiplied. The most beautiful and most dreadful operation of life was set going. When the higher plants developed they multiplied by fruits and seeds. They developed ways for these fruits and seeds to live over winter when the parent died, and to be scattered, and for the plant to persist by a thousand ways. And among these higher plants, the crucial facts of all facts—sex—developed. The young plant was made up of the union of the mother-cell and the father-cell—a new individual organism made of the union of cells from two parent individual organisms. Another fateful step! The multiplication of the lower animals was accomplished—and still is—by ways quite similar in simplicity—splitting, budding and the like. And with animals as with plants, as soon as evolution produced species a little advanced above the lowest, the fact of sex developed—the greatest fact of life.

Short Sport

The wrestlers at the Y. M. C. A. will hold a tournament at the Y. M. C. A. Feb. 11 to decide the champions of the different classes. There will be twenty wrestlers, and the winners will represent the Y. M. in the Pierce county tournament to be held in the near future. The Stadium High school baseball squad will report for first practice next Monday to Coach Baird. Prospects for a championship team at the big school are bright. It is not known yet whether Russ Hall will coach the Puget Sound baseball squad or if that organization will have a baseball team. For the past three years they have started in great style and disbanded before the season was well under way. That basket-ball team of the Parkland Athletic club has the run on all the others in the race for the Pierce county championship. The team is composed of boys who work days and play nights. If they work as well as they play, they will all make good, alright, alright. The Gas Co. indoor baseball team seems to have the "goat" of the Naval Militia team. They scored their second victory of the season last night by a score of 19 to 11.

THREE MORE FOR TIGERS

President Joe McGinnity of the Tigers announced this morning that he had received three more signed contracts, one from McMullen, who was with the Tigers last season and had intimated that he would hold out this year, and the other from Churchill, who says he is in the best of condition and will make a better showing this year. The other contract is from a pitcher by the name of Wallinastus, who is so confident that he is going to make good that he is willing to pay his own transportation here from Fargo, N. D. He comes highly recommended and will be given every chance to make good.

MANDOT ILL; MATCH OFF

(By United Press Leased Wire.) SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—Following a wire from Harry Coleman, manager of Joe Mandot, that his boy is seriously sick with the grippe in New Orleans, Promoter James Coffroth has today called off the Mandot-Tommy Murphy fight scheduled for February 22 in this city.

SAILOR WINNER

(By United Press Leased Wire.) VALLEJO, Cal., Feb. 6.—Bringing his right from ahead behind his back flush to the point of his opponent's jaw, Sailor Ed Petroskey of the Goat Island naval training station, stowed Sailor Grande of Vallejo away in the 15th round of their battle here.

BAT—HE WORKS, TOO. (By United Press Leased Wire.) RACINE, Wis., Feb. 6.—Wearing his diamond wedding ring inside his glove, Bat Nelson battered Jack Sorenson, a local lightweight, around for ten rounds, but could not store him away. Nelson scored three knockdowns. The Batter is looking for some more easy ones today.

Some Reasons WHY YOU Should Go To DR. MACY

The Physician Whose Bloodless Surgery and Drugless Cures Have Startled the Medical Profession. SEE HIM NOW You'll always get a square deal, and a run for your money— BECAUSE he handles more cases of a given class in a month than the average non-advertiser meets in a year. BECAUSE of his larger experience he becomes a specialist for some particular diseases. BECAUSE of this larger business and his efficiency he is prepared with all the tried-out modern appliances for the treatment of those diseases of which he has made a specialty and is able to give the best treatment it is possible to get. BECAUSE his prices are lowest as a large business of this kind cannot be handled on a credit basis. The patient is not compelled to pay an exorbitant price in order to keep up office for those who do not pay. BECAUSE a doctor whose mind is free from worry whether he will get his pay and the collection of bills will do better work. BECAUSE when the patient starts taking treatment he knows what it will cost him, and when he gets through there are no bills to pay. BECAUSE he is not a so-called ethical doctor, and is not honor bound to use only ethical medicines and procedures. It is for this reason that the advertiser can give a treatment that has an individuality and not necessarily the same kind of treatment that may be had from an osteopath or doctor who belongs to his associations and societies with their so-called ethical restrictions. BECAUSE the advertiser presents the spirit of fairness and equal rights to all. He is the doctor that has to win his way entirely upon his own merit, and at the same time is compelled to protect himself from the fight made upon him by trust and association doctors and osteopaths; and, finally has to appeal to the Supreme Court before he is granted his State License to practice. BECAUSE the advertiser will not do contract practice for hotels, secret orders and corporations. His patients come to him by choice only. Consultation and Examination Free Associated Specialists. PACIFIC BEER

Is better than the average beer, because few brewers give as much attention to the selection of materials, the cooling, sterilizing, aging and so on as we do. If you believe you can detect high quality in beer, try this brand and you will not be disappointed.

At leading bars and cafes, or by the case direct from the brewery.
