Prevost, San Juan County, Washington, December 1, 1898.

The Country Gentleman prints the illowing letter from Prof. Balmer orticulturist of the Washington State Experiment station at Pullman:

"Papers coming to my deak from the Eastern states, report the apple crop all over the United States a partial failure. This is not true of Washington. Our apple crop is a full one, and quality very fine. Farmers are improving the occasion, and are shipping many carloads to the East. For the first time in history eastern buyers have invaded our country, and are much surprised at the vast extent of our orchard plantings. Whitman county alone (the one from which I write) has over 7,500 acres in orchards. As in all new countries, we have put out too many varieties. At the Fruit fair, held in Spokane a month ago, there were shown over two hundred varieties. While this is fine as an educational feature, it is very confusing to the farmer intending to put out an orchard. There is a good deal of inquiry this fall for a list of the most profitable varieties to plant. In giving advice we take into consideration the altitude, for this has proved a wonderfactor in apple-growing in our state. Apples that prove profitable at an elevation of 600 feet are often wholly unsuited to 2,500; so we have certain lists for each district. The apples packed from the more elevated portions of the state at present, are Ben Davis, Spy, Wagener, Esopu, Klug, Yellow Belliflower, Gano, Fall Pippin, Twenty-Ounce; those mostly shipped from the lower elevations are Yellow Newton, Rome, White Pearmain, Lawyer, Jonathan and Winesap. There are more Ben Davis than any other variety planted in the state; and it is probably the most profitable apple. Gano, its seedling, is a finer looking, and quite prolific, and will in time superseede its mother. We have numerous local seedlings of considerable merit, many of which are being tested at the station; some of these will be likely to prove profitable for our conditions, but will not be recommended until thoroughly tested. We have now about 800 varieties on the trial grounds, and as many of them will bear the coming season, we expect some interesting results."

otice is hereby given that all warran rn on the General County Fund Juan County Washington, up to an ading No. 492, series "B," will be pai resontation. Interest causes from an letter from the superintendent of the Western Washington hospital at Steilaom informing him of the death of his father, Captain Isaiah Jones, who was taken there for treatment about five years ago, from Shaw island. The death of Captain Jones takes rom us a unique and somewhat remarkable character. Springing from old Virginia stock, he was born in the state of Ohio in 1829, where he grew to manhood, was married and had two children. About the breaking out of the war, his wife died and he enlisted in an Ohio regiment of volunteers and at once went to the front. During the seige of Vicksburg he was stricken with the camp disease so prevailent among the soldiers of that section, and by the order of General Grant, whose notice he had already attracted by his gallantry, he was discharged and sent home, as it was supposed, to die; but sustained by a constitution as strong and unyielding as was his own personal character, he so far recovered as to be able to re-enlist. This time in a Missouri regiment gotten up in Caldwell county, Missouri, where his parents had located during his absence. When the companies were organized he was elected captain of Co. "B"."

The time is devicted in the Pacific. The commerce of the Pacific will one day be greater than that on the Atlantic. I tell you, Seattle and Washington are just entering a period of the most marvelous growth and development.

"Fusion? Deader than a mackerel. Silver? That cock, too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead as any Chinese cock over which any Chinese cock too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead as any Chinese cock too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead as any Chinese cock too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead as any Chinese cock too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead as any Chinese cock too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead as any Chinese cock too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead as any Chinese cock too, will fight no more battles; free coinage is as dead and the more provided the more free coinage is as dead and the coince of the Pacific will call you, Seattle and children. About the breaking out of rents had located during his absence. When the companies were organized he was elected captain of Co. "B," I think, which company he commanded till the close of the war, taking an active part in the gurrilla warfare that was so sanguinary in the southern and southwestern part of that state, as well several general to The southwestern part of that state, as weil as several general engagements. The notorious James and Younger boys, Bill Anderson and Quantrell were the famous leaders of the bands of bush-whackers that roamed over the country leaving a trail of blood from the forks of the Grand river on the north to Arkansas on the south and west into Kansas, celebrating their last raids into the latter state by the burning of Lawrence and murdering a large number of its citizens. It was with the prisoners here taken that report said immediately afterwards that Cole Younger tested the power of the Springfield rifle by standing a number of men up in a row and seeing how many he could shoot through, killing eight. This gurrilla warfare was carried on by small bodies of men on both sides, and like the enemy, the federal troops were forced troops were forced to do much of their marching in the night, lying concealed during the daytime.

enemy, the federal troops were forced troops were forced to do much of their marching in the night, lying concealed during the daytime. In this, Captain Jones was in his element; as fearless and brave as any of the leaders of the marauding bands he was at home around the campfire and shrank from no hardships or dauger. Cole Younger and his band soon tired of facing such a foe and moved south into Arkansas, while Bill Anderson was killed and his command annihilated. In recognition of his services the governor of Missouri commissioned Captain Jones as lieutenant colonel. Disease, however, had fastened upon him and when the war closed he locatrd on a farm, broken in health. The James and Youngers, as soon as peace came, turned their attention to bank robbing. This was done in broad daylight by shooting down all who opposed them. One of the banks in Richmond, Ray county, which joined Caldwell on the south, was thus robbed and several of the citisens, including the deputy sheriff, being killed. The bank in Galliton, in the county joining Caldwell on the sorth, was robbed, or attempted to be robbed in the same manner, the president and cashier being shot down in cold blood and a retreat effected before the citisens could rally. This was in 1867. A reign of terror existed, every country town was ina fever of excitement and fear and men who sought the office of Sheriff, especially in Caldwell county, joining the home of the James boys, were sot so plentiful as they are today. Of course, Captain Jones was the man for the place. He was nominated and elected and peace and order was enjoyed during his official career. Shortly after his election the grand jury found an indictment against a desperate character, and a warrant for his arrest was given the new sheriff. The man was known to be always armed to the teeth and election the grand jury found an indictment against a desperate character, and a warrant for his arrest was given the new sheriff. The man was known to be always armed to the teeth and the Captain's friends advised him to take a posse; but ignoring assistance and wholly unarmed, he hunted up his man, walked directly to him and laying his hand on him told him his errand and arrested him without the least difficulty. So much for his nerve.

Although an uneducated man, he was one of the best political speakers in northern Missouri and often met in public discussion with the leading politicians in the state. As a farmer he had considerable money. Strictly honest himself, he believed others to be so, sometimen to his detriment.

His second wife was Miss Etta Stevens, by whom he raised quite a family, all of whom are residents of the Sound; Newton, our present sheriff, Grant and Earnest living in San Juan county; the widow, two youngest children and one married daughter, Mrs. Carl Stewart, residing is Whatcom county. His eldest son is dead.

For several years he was a resident of this gead.

For several years he was a resident of this sland, but was a resident of Shaw island when taken to the hospital, where he died on the 12th inst., at the age of 69 years. "Life's fitful fever over, he sleeps well."

A recent number of the North China Herald contained an account of the administration of justice by a Chinese magistrate which reminds one of Solomon. Two brothers, well advanced in age, quarreld over a piece of land which they had jointly inherited from their father, and went to law. The native magistrate heard the testimony on both sides and determined that both were wrong and both right, according to the different points of view. Therefore, instead of rendering a judgment in favor of either, he ordered that both be locked up in a cangue with their heads fastened face to face and kept there until they settled their quarrel.

The cangue is a sort of cage in which prisoners are placed with their necks locked into a hole in a board. It resembles somewhat the stocks which were used for the punishment of malefactors in olden time. When the brothers were placed in the cangue they were both very stubborn and indignant, but toward the end of the second day they began to weaken, and on the third day reached a satisfactory settlement and were released.—Chicago Record. Hon. Frank Wilkinson, of Skagit anty, who wanted to be a member of the last legislature badly enough to run as a Populist, but who lacked some 400 votes of returning this winter because of still professing faith in Populism, was recently interviewed by a P.-I. reperter at Seattle, and among other hings said:

hings said:

"If the Republican party in the approaching session of the legislature succeeds in passing some conservative and greatly needed railroad legislation, it will control the government of this state for the next ten years. A great opportunity lies before the Republican members of the legislature. The Republican party is in power in the nation. Its policy of territorial expansion will make the state of Washington flourish and grow as it never did before. Whatever happens, we will see in the next decade an era of immense development in every branch of trade and industry in this state.

"Washington will flourish like a green bay tree under the policy of expansion in the Orient. If the people of China, Japan and India est one-quarter of a salmon each per year, it will take 16,000,000 cases of the Puget Sound product. What we want is a salmon hatchery in every stream in the state emptying into salt water. When we get fairly started in the Orient we will sell everything we grow to the people on the other side of the Pacific. The commerce of the Pacific will one day be

Fish Commissioner A. C. Little Asks th Co-operation of All Interested in Sal-

mos Propagation.

Mr. A. C. Little, state fish commissioner, is desirous of having as many people as possible who are engaged in the fish industry, or are interested in same, to visit at least one of the state hatcheries and there, by personal observation, see and understand the practical workings of the artificial propagation system. He would much prefer to have parties from this vicinity visit Baker lake hatchery if possible, but as it is something of an effort to get to this point, he presumes that other localities would be preferred and would advise visiting the Kalama hatchery. They have at the Kalama hatchery at this time over six million young salmon in the finest condition and believe that there is not in the United States a hatchery doing a more successful work than this one. The efficient superintendent will be very happy to explain every detail of the work that is there being carried out. If a number of the citizens and others interested in the fish industry could find time to visit this hatchery I am sure it would be productive of considerable good in the this hatchery I am sure it would be productive of considerable good in the way of getting efficient legislation next winter for one, if not the greatest and most important industries of the coast.
