The Heinz Secret of Making Pickles

It has been admitted for years that the H. J. Heinz Company made the finest pickles. Other companies came out with pickles "just as good;" we never heard one claim to have a better pickle.

Here is the secret: Immediately after picking your pickles, pack them in dry salt. The quicker you get your pickle into the salt, the better the pickle. The pickles should lay in the salt at least two weeks. They may then be placed in a pure pickling vinegar properly spiced. The Heinz Secret is packing in dry salt and using pure vinegar and pure granulated sugar. Never pack a pickle in brine. The water will spoil the pickle.
