NEW TEACHERS ARE "SISSES"

President of Clark University Says Pendulum Has Swung Too Far Towards Efficiency.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Des Moines, Ia., says:

President Stanley Hall of Clark University, stirred the delegates of the Iowa State Teachers convention in an address in which he declared there were too many women teachers in the schools and that American schools were becoming "effeminated." "There were 1400 teachers attending the convention and nearly three-fourths of them were women."

"The time has come," said President Hall, "for a movement for a men's rights. For 30 years we have had a war for women's rights, and now the pendulum has swung too far. This is an age of over-effemination, especially in the schools. Men should be principals with men under them so that they will be contradicted once in a while. In the schools now, where we find men principals, they have only women under them and the men are becoming 'sissets.'"

AMUSEMENTS

The Streeter-Bryan company presented "Roanoke" to a capacity house last night and as usual, everyone declared it to be "the best one yet."

Miss Bryan played the title role of "Roanoke," and her interpretation of the little blind girl was beautiful and could not have been improved upon.

Mr. Streeter as Joe, the half wit, was also good.

Mr. Terry as Tom Bailey, the generous southern gentleman, had a large corner in the hearts of all. F. M. Weeks as Ezekiel Morse, the scheming miser, did a very clever piece of acting.

Mr. Condon as Aunt Dinah, kept the audience supplied with good comedy; Miss Belmont as Mrs. Peyton, and Miss Heldelle as her daughter, were seen to advantage and Mr. Hadley and Mr. Wallace were good in their respective roles.

"Roanoke" tells a story of a boy and girl thrown on the mercy of the world. A scheming aunt, a grasping miser, a young girl's faith and trust and a happy culmination. Every one heartily enjoyed the performance.

To Whom It May Concern.

Take notice, that Mrs. Mollie E. Gillette has left her home and children without just cause and I, therefore, warn anyone from extending her credit, as I will not pay any bills contracted by her after this date.

Signed: M. H. GILLETTE.

James B. Haggin, the famous horsebreeder, has nominated 306 colts for the Futurity of 1910, the nominations for which have just been closed, says a New York item. This is the largest number of nominations ever made by one owner. A check for $3060—$10 for each nomination, has been received by the club. The foals will be born and trained at the Elmdorf stud, in Kentucky, and the Rancho del Paso, in California, Mr. Haggin's breeding farms.

LOVE FOR OREGON

CHEYENNE WOMAN WRITES OF HER NEW HOME.

People Who Settle Here at Once Become Enthusiasts for the State—Former Resident of Cheyenne Loud in Her Praise for the Beaver State.

That people who come from distant states to Oregon at once become infatuated with the state, is shown by the following letter written by a former Cheyenne woman, now at Klamath Falls, to the Cheyenne Tribune. The letter is as follows:

I want everyone to know about the grand and beautiful state of Oregon, where I have lived for the past three years, and the longer I live here the more I appreciate the wondrous scenic region. I am unable to tell you which season I enjoy most, spring, summer, autumn or winter; each one has its own peculiar beauty, and it is hard to determine at which time of the year the country is the most beautiful.

I hold a government position on the Klamath reservation, and drive out many miles four days each week, which gives me ample opportunity to study the surrounding country, which is ever beautiful to me.

There is a peerless view of the snow-capped mountains, far as the eye can reach, as on you go, winding and twisting on and upward, and downward, sometimes following the course of a fast-flowing river, where every little while you catch a glimpse of the big salmon, darting here and there, also trout and various kinds of fish, one following another in season, of which the rivers abound.

Thus the road goes for many miles, until you reach the borders of the sheltering timber and cross the open country, with occasionally a coyote bounding in front of the horses, then stopping and turning to ascertain the danger behind.

Here are all sorts of opportunities for recreation for the lover of nature, hunting, fishing, riding, driving, picnicking, where the activities of the sport never prove fatiguing nor even irksome. In the warm summer days cool breezes from the mountains are always present, refreshing and exhilarating.

Then there is Portland, the beautiful city of roses, so justly named the "Rose City," near which the Willamette joins the Columbia, making the city's harbor. It is a beautiful city, superbly situated, with the fine streets and buildings, beautiful parks and avenues, an excellent car system reaching far out into its pleasant suburbs, passing so many charming homes, nestling among a profusion of flowers and shrubs, and should it be your privilege to be entertained at one of these delightful homes, you would be astonished at the fine quality of every kind of vegetable and luscious fruit set before you.

In the distance are the snow-clad Mount St. Helens and Mount Hood, the Columbia river, and its giant gorge and matchless cascades and varied scenery, and the never-to-be-forgotten flowers; flowers everywhere, the air pure, fresh and fragrant.

This is Oregon, so bustling with activity, so climatically glorious that it holds you in bonds that are hard to sever.

ELEANOR E. GUNSTON.

NORTH BANK LINE LONGEST.

Inland Empire Showed Greatest Railroad Building Record for 1907.

In its annual review of railroad building during the year, the Railroad Gazette places the total for this year in the United States a 5212 miles, against 5623 miles in 1906.

The figures include 14 miles of new main line track relocated, but do not include new second, third or fourth tracks, sidings or electric lines. The total is 8 per cent less than last year, although at the beginning of the year a large amount of grading had been finished ready for tracking. The Gazette continues:

The joint low grade line of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific from Kennewick, Washington, west to Vancouver, 220 miles, constructed under the name of the Portland & Seattle, was the longest single stretch of new road built.

Work is being pushed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul on its Pacific extension. In 1906 there were 39 miles of track laid and 298 miles were added in 1907, leaving between 1100 and 1200 miles yet to be built to finish the line to Seattle. The Kansas City, Mexico & Orient built 47 miles in Oklahoma, 25 in Texas and 18 in Mexico. There are over 800 miles yet to be built to finish the line from Kansas City through to Topolobampo, on the west coast of Mexico. On the Western Pacific all of the road in Nevada 39 miles of track have been laid, and 102 in California, leaving 577 miles yet to be built.

WOMAN USES GUN.

Made Target by Robbers, She Returns Fire and May Have Hit One Thief.

The Wallula Gateway has the following account of an attempted robbery at Two Rivers:

Christmas evening there was an exciting time at Two Rivers for a little while. Mrs. M. Sutliff, who, with her daughter, keeps the store there, was alone that evening. Having occasion to go into their living quarters at the rear of the building, she was startled by observing two men attempting to raise a window. In a few seconds she was more astonished by two pistol shots fired by one of the burglars.

It was a close call for her, as one of the bullets cut through a cloak she was wearing. Mrs. Sutliff was raised in the Adirondack mountains, where girls are taught how to use a gun. She stepped into the store, secured her trusty revolver and stepped outside. As she turned the corner of the building she encountered the robbers and fired two shots at them before they escaped in the darkness. She is certain that at least one of the shots hit the mark. The fusillade attracted the attention of several men at the hotel, including Deputy Sheriff Griswold, but darkness prevented the capture of the robbers.

THE PETTIBONE VERDICT.

Details of the Vote as Told by the Boise Capital News.

The detailed vote of the jury in the Pettibone verdict, as told by the Boise Capital News, is as follows:

This afternoon it became known that the first ballot of the jury in the Pettibone case last night resulted in eight to four for acquittal. The second ballot resulted nine to three and was taken shortly after the first one. It is stated that the three who voted for conviction were Evans, Smeed and Palmer.

In a short time the result stood 10 to two and remained at that until the last ballot was taken just before Judge Wood called the jury in at 11 o'clock this morning for the purpose of giving medical treatment to Juror Ben Stahl. When the ballot was taken it was found that the entire jury agreed upon a verdict of not guilty and accordingly the verdict was made out and brought into court.

It is related of Stahl that after the first ballot was taken and the result announced, he stated:

"Well, boys, I am sick. There is old Ben's ballot. I am going to bed and you don't need to bother me any more until you have agreed."

The discussions in the jury room were at all times friendly and good natured but earnest and zealous. The jurors parted with the most kindly feelings toward each other and agreed not to divulge anything that happened in the jury room, but in that they counted without considering the newspaper reporters who have a way all their own of getting information.

A fine dinner was prepared for them at the jury house on Bannock street and most of them returned there for dinner after the verdict was returned and they had been discharged.

NURSE GETS JUDGMENT.

Sues Fraternal Order for Services Rendered and Secures Verdict.

Yesterday in Judge Coburn's court the case of Miss Mary Daker vs. the Woodmen of the World lodge and the sick committee of the lodge, comprising Leon Lequime, Frank Morris, Richard Lowe and Bert Younkman, was tried and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff, says the Lewiston Tribune.

Miss Daker sued for $192 for services rendered as a professional nurse in caring for George Campbell in the fall of 1906. Mr. Campbell was a member of the lodge and Miss Daker was employed by the attending physician, Dr. C. C. Phelps, upon authority given by the lodge committee. She rendered direct services in the sum of $75 and held an assigned claim for $117 for services rendered in the same case by Bessie Reynolds, also a professional nurse. The lodge resisted the claim on the ground that under its charter the organization is limited to $150 for nurse hire.

George W. Tannahill was the attorney for the plaintiff, while attorney P. E. Stoker appeared in behalf of the lodge.

BANCROFT'S FINE CAR.

Turned Out of Pocatello Shops and Presents Handsome Appearance.

Spick and span, bright and shiny, and as pretty as new paint and a thorough overhauling could make it, the private car of Vice President and General Manager Bancroft of the Short Line was turned out of the car shops in Pocatello yesterday morning, says the Pocatello Tribune. This car, No. 1903, has always been regarded as one of the finest service cars on any western railroad, and now that it has received a thorough refurnishing and remodeling, it will easily rank with the best cars in the world. The shop hands, under the general foremanship of Joe Blackburn, vied with each other to turn out a perfect piece of work, and they made good, indeed.

Al Stoker, upholsterer; H. M. Johnson, coach carpenter; Jim Halcombson, painter, and John Woffington, electrician, accompanied the car to Salt Lake yesterday to give it some finishing touches before it is turned over to the general manager.

No Race Suicide in Baker City.

The people of Baker City evidently agree with Teddy Roosevelt as there have been 125 new arrivals in the various homes of this thriving city. The population of the city is steadily increasing for the death rate does not begin to equal the birth rate. During the past 12 months there have been 95 deaths reported from Baker City. The strange thing about the deaths is that nearly half of them occurred within one month. It seems that the climate here is rather peculiar and at some seasons of the year occur nearly all of the deaths from heart trouble.—Baker City Herald.

Commercial Club's Many Letters.

Secretary A. C. Moore of the Commercial club, answered just 1573 letters of inquiry about the Walla Walla valley in 1907, which makes an average of 131 a month, says the Walla Walla Bulletin. December was above the average, 220 replies having been sent to letters. Most of these letters were sent to eastern points, the inquirers having heard in some way of the great valley. Many of these letters resulted in trips being made to the west by the inquirers and a personal investigation ended in their bringing their families here.

BUFFALO LIKE NEW HOME.

Government Herd in Oklahoma Is Thriving Well.

Uncle Sam's herd of 15 buffaloes which were taken from the New York zoological gardens to the Wichita national forest, Oklahoma, in the early fall are doing well in their new home, according to advices which have been received here from the supervisor's headquarters at Cache, says a Washington dispatch.

Since leaving New York the herd has celebrated the birth of two fine buffalo calves, one of which has been named Hornaday, after the name of the director of the New York gardens which gave them to the government, and the other Oklahoma, after the new state which was born just after the herd's arrival.

Keeper Frank Rush, an old western cow puncher and experienced buffalo man, who is in charge of the herd, says that alfalfa hay has put his charges in fine shape and that the big prairie beasts are again thriving in their native land.

The buffaloes have an 8000 acre park in the Wichita reserve in which they can charge and snort. During the winter the animals will be fed alfalfa hay and protected from the weather in a number of large shelter sheds which have been built in the enclosure.

In the spring they will be let out to roam over the Wichita range and gradually they will be encouraged to rustle for themselves, an instinct which they have partially lost through years of domestication in city parks. Government experts figure that in time they will regain the prowess of their forefathers who were kings of the plains before civilization made its march westward.

HOGS HAVE RHEUMATISM.

That Malady Common Among Hogs Raised in the Northwest.

Rheumatism is one of the most common ailments to which hogs are subject in the northwest, says the Rural Spirit. Pretty heavy losses have been suffered by a good many hog raisers who have been at a loss to know how to handle their hogs to prevent this trouble.

G. M. Stapish, a Rural Spirit reader and prominent hog raiser of Lincoln county, Wash., is authority for the statement that hogs cannot be kept on board floors in that country without having rheumatism. He says he has had a great deal of experience along that line and finds to keep his hogs free from this malady he must bed them right on the ground.

We should like to hear from others who have had experience with rheumatism in hogs in different localities. A little experience meeting on this subject would no doubt prove profitable to the hog industry.

Monster Blast Fired.

The North Bank road in making some improvements where it is necessary to tear away hills, celebrated New Year's day by setting off one of the largest charges of powder ever exploded on the continent. In the removal of one hill 500 tons of powder were exploded at one time. Farmers along the river collected the fish that were blown from the river out on the bank and in many cases a wagonload was picked up in a short time.—Baker City Herald.
