Reserve Training Camp May Be Established At U

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Jan. 23.—The University of Oregon may have a reserve officers training camp established on the campus in the next two or three months, if present plans and expectations hold true. President P. L. Campbell is in the east at present, and has been conferring with Senator George Chamberlain.

President Campbell in East.

A telegram received by L. B. Johnson, comptroller of the University, from the president states that opinions are very favorable for the formation of a camp at the university. Lieutenant Colonel John Leader of the British army who is in command of the cadet forces, also seems to be favorably impressed with the prospects of a camp. The students are already being prepared for commissioned officers under his leadership, and classes held daily take up the different practices of modern warfare. President Campbell is attending a joint meeting of the National Association of State Universities in Chicago, the Association of American Universities and the American Association of colleges, the purpose of which is the offering of services of the institutions of the United States to the government for military training purposes to aid in the war. Regulations respecting the drafting of college students of draft age are also being drawn up and will be submitted to the government in Washington as soon as completed.

Rifles Issued to Students.

Rifles have already been issued to all students in the cadet battalion, and drill is progressing rapidly. It is the intention of the commander to have the first inspection of troops on Tuesday, Governor Wemyss being the inspecting officer.

Plans are being laid for the inspection of the battalion by the officer commanding at Camp Lewis, some of the desire of the United States army men interested in the work at the university as quickly as possible so that the R. O. T. C. may be had at once.

High Officers to Inspect.

The second week in February the colonel hopes to have the battalion inspected by the commanding officer of the western division, now located at San Francisco. If the military committee is able to arrange all these inspections, it is the opinion of Colonel Leader that there will be a reserve training camp situated at the University before the beginning of the next term in April.

1000 RECRUITS COMING.

BREMERTON, Jan. 23.—Navy yard officials say 1000 recruits from the Great Lakes station are coming here for training, owing to cold and fuel scarcity there. The camp here accommodates 5000.

DEPENDABLE SERGE IN USEFUL GOWN.

The "always-ready" gown for street wear, shopping, matinee—all the various occasions when woman would be well dressed but not overdressed, has an invariable solution—either silk or serge. In this case it is serge, with touches of satin, depending for its trimmings of intricate braiding at the wrists and about the bodice.

PRESAGES NEW WAR ON HOSPITAL SHIPS

German Newspaper Insinuates Allies Are Using Them for Illegal Purposes.

ROTTERDAM, Jan. 23.—Although German news agencies continue to assert that the British hospital ship Albatross, which was sunk recently in the Bristol Channel, must have been destroyed by a mine, there are indications of a fresh campaign against hospital ships. These take the form of a revival of the accusation of misuse of the Red Cross which has preceded earlier crimes.

A significant article appears in the Kölnische Volkszeitung. Opening with the assertion that British officers left their posts as neutral observers in British hospital ships because they discovered these ships were carrying troops supposed to be suffering from fever, but really quite healthy, the paper says:

"This is not the first time the misuse of hospital ships has been established. The greater part of the withdrawal from the Dardanelles was effected by means of hospital ships on which were carried a few wounded, but many more unwounded. But for these breaches of the Geneva convention the greater part of the Dardanelles troops would have been destroyed. Now, again, similar misuse has been proved. This misuse has not yet led to our fleet in general regarding hospital ships as wearing a deceptive mark and drawing the necessary conclusions."

The threat contained in the last sentence is emphasized by underlining of the word yet.

BRITISH UNIVERSITY TO ACT WITH OURS

Cambridge Names Committee to Arrange for Educational Collaboration.

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., Jan. 23.—The senate of the University of Cambridge has appointed a committee to consider educational collaboration with American universities. On the committee are Dr. Shirley, vice-chancellor of the university, Prof. Adams, Dr. Sorley and Mr. Lapsley, all Cambridge men who are graduates of American universities.

It is interesting also to note that Trinity College, the biggest educational institution in Cambridge University, has just appointed as one of its four tutors, Clifford T. Lapsley, an American citizen born in Philadelphia, and a graduate of Harvard. The work of the tutors of Trinity is somewhat similar to that of the Dean of College of an American university. They look after and superintend the private life of the undergraduates and are the officials with whom the parents correspond, and to whom they express their anxieties. The move may be said to indicate the very genuine reaching out in friendly co-operation toward American universities on the part of Cambridge.

Of the 4000 undergraduates of Cambridge University, there are only 200 remaining in Cambridge, and work done in this direction can hardly be operative until after the war.
