Mrs. Wm. Gregg, after a short visit with Mrs. J. H. McHugh left Monday afternoon for Walnut Ridge, where she will also visit before returning home to Arkadelphia.

Vic Ake returned Monday night from a short visit to his mother in Little Rock, as the commission office was closed Monday on account of Washington's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hooker and daughter Franchelle returned to Brinkley Tuesday afternoon, but expect to move here next week. Newport people will be pleased to welcome such an estimable family, who are not new acquaintances.

The remodeling of the corner building of T. J. Watson has been begun preparatory to its occupancy by the Bank of Newport. There will be two office rooms in the rear, each with an outside entrance, and at the extreme rear, quarters will be fitted up for Sexton's barber shop.

W. J. Lambkin on Tuesday received word from his sister Mrs. Milton Russell at Hale, stating that her son had been seriously injured in an accident on the Bonnerville extension. With some other boys, he was playing with a push car, which ran over and crushed one limb. Mr. Russell was telephoned for at Batesville, but had gone to Mount Olive.

Ash Wednesday services at St. Paul's church will be: Morning prayer penitential service, the holy communion and sermon at 10. The litany at 4:30 and evening prayer and sermon 7:30.

Three saloons have thus far opened up for business, those of L. L. Bowen & Company, Peter Anderson and W. R. & N. B. O'Neal. Henry Bordwell and J. E. Doherty are in St. Louis buying fixtures and other necessities and expect to open up in business in the near future.

A. B. Brandon, of Swifton, was down on business Tuesday and subscribed for the INDEPENDENT. He says that his chief object in taking a county paper is to learn of bargains that are advertised and he holds that the subscription is a very small amount in comparison with what he is able to save thereby.

G. A. Hillhouse, one of the attorneys for the prohibis in the present controversy over the licensing of saloons spent Monday in Little Rock. Street rumor says that he has an opinion by Attorney General Murphy on some point involved, which will prove of great assistance and is a source of much encouragement to the prohib attorneys.

Miss Carrie Shuh, a cousin of Mr. I. D. Price, who has visited here and as a result formed many friendships with Newport people was married last Monday a week, February 16th at Brook Haven, Mississippi to Mr. Colton Smith, a merchant of that city. The INDEPENDENT extends best wishes for the happiness of this married twain. Miss Shuh had expected to visit in Newport this summer, but her relatives think this step will probably alter her plans.

One of Aiden Benedict's companies gave a very creditable production of Thelma at the Opera House Monday evening. Especially were the female characters worthy of compliment. Miss Emily Green as the Swedish Britta was admirable and her diversity of talent was manifest in her execution of other parts, while Miss Martha Bedleford impersonated with both grace and power, the sweet and innocent character Thelma. The novel however has been half lost in the drama. The scenery was unexpectedly elaborate.

Relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Brown in this city have received word that the newly married couple, who were bound, for this city according to the St. Louis papers, stopped off in Poplar Bluff with the groom's mother. The young gentleman formerly lived here and could hardly have picked a more pleasant place to spend the honeymoon than in this city of friends.

The council failed to meet Monday morning. That body, it is understood will rebate a portion of the city license fees, for that time in which the controversy was pending before the county judge had granted license. The general sentiment of the business men is that such a course would be no more than fair, as otherwise the saloon men will be paying for something they did not get.
