CONTAINER OF PROPER KIND

Those With Handles Are Much Less Likely to Be Damaged in Transit in the Mails.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One important requirement for parcel post shipping and marketing is a proper and satisfactory container. Sometimes the consumer can secure containers more readily and economically than the producer. Those with handles are much less likely to be damaged in transit in the mails than those which are not thus supplied and which are likely to be tossed or thrown or handled by the string or twine used in tying them. A bamboo basket serves the purpose very well and may be used a long time. Ordinary splint baskets made of strips of veneer may also be used, and if they can be secured at a price sufficiently cheap a new one for each shipment is more economical than having them returned, unless they are sent back in lots of ten or more under one cover. This, of course, necessitates using them without a wooden handle, in which case a heavy twine should be used for a handle. This twine can be untied and the baskets used, or placed in one another, for return shipment. If a basket with a wooden handle is used, care should be taken to see it is securely nailed, not only at the rim of the basket but further down toward the bottom, so as to prevent undue leverage which may break loose the nailing.

Corrugated pasteboard cartons frequently may be found useful and desirable for this service. They are made in a great variety of sizes, dimensions, and patterns, and when empty are shipped knocked down flat.

Few persons know how to prepare and pack fruit and produce for market. Proper packing for parcel post marketing is of primary importance and needs to be emphasized so that both the contents and the container may carry properly, arrive in good condition, and present a satisfactory appearance. The pack should be regular, of as nearly uniform produce as possible, and of full measure according to the quantity ordered. A little practice will enable almost anyone to pack a basket or container of any kind in a satisfactory manner.

FLAXSEED VS. WHOLE MILK

Outline of Results Secured by Experts at North Dakota Station in Feeding Calves.

Any successful method that will cut down the period of feeding whole milk to calves is usually welcomed by dairymen. Experts at the North Dakota experiment station have used flaxseed and skim milk with good results in the following manner:

Whole milk was fed for the first three weeks. Then during the age from three weeks to six months skim milk was fed with enough flaxseed to take the place of the fat in whole milk. Each calf was given two gallons of skim milk a day.

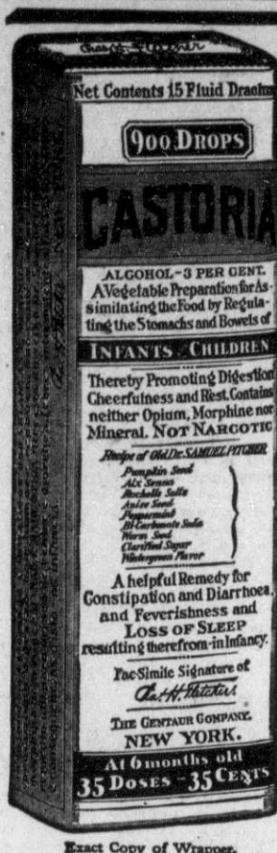

Calves fed in this manner did not do quite so well the first three months as a similar group of calves fed whole milk, but at the end of the six months there was practically no difference in condition except that the calves fed whole milk averaged about four pounds less in weight. But considering that $19 worth of whole milk per calf had been saved in the six months' period, the use of flaxseed was considered the better practice.

KEEP CREAM CANS COVERED

Direct Rays of Sun Counteract Whatever Care Has Previously Been Made to Keep Cool.

(By H. McCANN, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

A great part of the value of keeping cream cool on the farm and at the station or creamery is lost in the cream being exposed to the direct rays of the sun while being hauled from the farm to the point of sale. Far too few people stop to realize the importance of covering their cream cans when bringing them in to town. Expensive jacketed cans are not a necessity to keep the cream cool; in summer weather just an ordinary piece of clean wet burap or blanket thrown over the cans will keep the temperature of the cream as much as 20 degrees below what it would rise to if left uncovered while being transported over the average hauling distance.

JUST HOW PEDDLER GOT BY

Short Conversation Enlightened Attorney as to Manner in Which Caller Evaded Office Force.

City Attorney Stephens was amazed the other day when a peddler invaded his private sanctum and began dilating on the merits of an ash sifter.

"I don't want an ash sifter," snorted Stephens, but I do want to know how you got in here."

"Everyone needs an ash sifter," persisted the peddler, ignoring the question.

"But I don't," snapped Stephens. "I burn gas." "But you smoke, don't you?" demanded the peddler.

"You win," cried the attorney; "I know now how you got in."

"How?" questioned the perplexed peddler.

"Just sifted," was the laconic reply. —Los Angeles Times.

It Wouldn't Do.

Novelist Robert W. Chambers said at the Country club in New York: "This war has changed all things. We older writers are quite disoriented. We don't know how to write any more. Imagine describing a girl's ear to do," he said, "as shell-like!"

Marines Want Luck.

Instead of "tossing their hats in the ring" the United States marines now toss 'em in the water. Tossing their hats in the ocean for luck was adopted as one of the marine customs when a gust of wind snatched the chapeau of a recruit while he was crossing the bay off Paris Island, S. C., the marines' training camp. The "lid" sailed gracefully out into space and was soon bobbing merrily on the dancing waves.

Taking the accident as a cue, "just for luck," the remainder of the recruits immediately sailed their hats out into the deep and the bay was soon dotted with hundreds of straw hats.

Saw Trouble Ahead.

It was Robert's first day at school, and because he was very mischievous the teacher had to call him to task immediately. When he arrived home his mother said: "Robert, how do you like school?"

He said: "I think I am going to have trouble with that teacher!"

"Why, what is the trouble?" she asked. "She has sassed me three times already," he replied.—Chicago Examiner.

Its Cause.

"Was the new opera well scored?" "It was, indeed, after the critics got through with it."

NOTHING BUT PROXY SALUTE

But Wounded Officer Appreciated Kiss That Came With War Cross That He Had Won.

An officer, writing from a hospital in France, tells how a French officer pinned a war cross on his pajamas, and how, without any warning, one of the nurses hurried to his bedside and planted "a nice rosy kiss on the ugly mug of yours truly." There is no reason to believe that this is a love affair. Doubtless it was a proxy kiss—it represented the feminine members of his family.

Fiction nurses have been of one kind. In the illustrations they were strangely beautiful. Always their hands were cool and their uniforms fresh. Some young millionaire had been picked up and carried to the hospital where the nurse fought for his life—grim death stalking just behind the door. His identity was not known, but he was a man, wide of shoulder and small of girth. He had a flat back and his close-cropped hair was inclined to be curly. By and by he became rational. The first thing he realized was the cooling touch of the nurse's hand on his feverish brow. But why continue? He always married her, and they lived happily ever after.

A Lay Figure.

"Does your wife knit socks for the soldiers?" "She does," replied Mr. Meekton. "And I am doing my bit also." "I don't see you doing any wonderful footwork in either the work or fight line." "Footwork is my specialty. Henrietta makes me stay home and try on the socks."

It sometimes happens that a married man has a great deal to say, but his wife won't let him say it.

It's Acid-Stomach That Makes Millions Sick and Suffer

Life is dark—not worth much to the man or woman with an acid-stomach. Acid-stomach kills Hope, Ambition, Energy, Courage. It saps the strength of the strongest body—impoverishes the blood—causes untold suffering—makes millions weak, unfit and brings on premature old age. Millions of people are weak and unfit, suffering all the time, in one way or another, from superacidity or acid-stomach. They don't seem dangerously sick. Just ailing. Going through life weak, listless, dragging one foot after another. They're nervous and irritable; lack power and punch, frequently have severe attacks of indigestion, splitting headaches; subject to fits of melancholia and mental depression. And nearly always their stomachs are out of order, even though many experience no actual stomach pains—digestion poor—never getting anywhere near the full strength from their food. So, you see, it's just this—acid-stomach—that is holding so many people back—sapping up the strength they should get from their food—taking away their vigor and vitality—leaving them weak and inefficient. Get rid of the excess acid. That's the secret of good health and is the only way to obtain good digestion and assimilation. It is the right way to be well and keep strong. Ordinary medicine won't do any lasting good. The best they can do is to spew up your appetite for awhile. A modern remedy makes it possible to remove excess acid without the slightest discomfort. It is called EATONIC, in the form of pleasant tasting tablets. Their action in the stomach is a good deal like a piece of blotting paper taking up a drop of ink—they literally absorb the innoxious excess acid and carry it away through the intestines. Begin using EATONIC right now—today—and get on the road to bounding, vigorous, vibrant health. Thousands upon thousands of people who have used EATONIC are enthusiastic in its praise. They say they never dreamed that anything could bring them such quick relief. EATONIC is fully guaranteed. Your druggist will give you a big box for only 50 cents with the distinct understanding that if you are not pleased in every way, you get your 50 cents back. If you can't get EATONIC where you live—send us your name and address; we will send you a 50¢ test box and you can send us the 50¢ when you get it.
