Jack London's Creed.

Jack London is a practising believer in hard work. "Work," he told a recent interviewer, "will carry a man anywhere. The four great things are Good Health, Work, a Philosopher of Life and Sincerity. With these you may cleave to greatness and sit among the giants." Mr. London's new novel, "The Sea-Wolf," will begin in the January Century.

A new departure in Almslee's is inaugurated in the December number, in "A Glimpse at the Theatres," by Anton Davies. It is, of course, concerned with theatrical matters. This article is especially good and contains much useful information on the present New York season for the devotees of the theatre.

Almslee's for December bravely keeps up the magazine's well-earned reputation for fine poetry. Some of the contributors are Ella Wheeler Wilcox, John Wallace Cheney, Joseph C. Lincoln, Holman F. Day, William Hamilton Hayne and Rosalie Arthur.

Longest Bridge in the World.

The longest bridge in the world is the Lion Bridge, near Suangang, in China. It extends five and a quarter miles over an arm of the Yellow Sea, and is supported by 300 huge stone arches. The roadway is seventy feet above the water and is enclosed in an iron network.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials from Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Death Too Expensive.

It is a significant fact that with the phenomenal increase in the price of coffins has come a marked decrease of mortality among local Chinese. The natives just simply cannot afford to die at the present undertaking rates, and that's all there is to it.—Shanghai Times.

Farm Topics

VISITING OTHER FARMS.

If we see no other farm but our own, we are liable to become satisfied with our efforts and not make any special attempt to improve them; hence it is a good idea to visit our successful neighbor, see his farm, his buildings, his flocks and herds, and learn something of his plans, and he is "a poor stick" who cannot profit by such visits. There is additional value in the occasional comparison of one's own work with that of his neighbor's, and there is no better time in which to do it than the winter season.—Live Stock Indicator.

PULLETS OR HENS?

A subscriber asks if pullets will give better results as winter layers than hens.

This depends on the age and condition of the pullets. Early hatched, fully matured pullets that begin to lay during October will make the best layers during the winter, while on the other hand late pullets or poorly conditioned pullets will hardly pay for their keeping. Hens not over three years old, which have been given good care and have completed their moult, will begin to lay during October and continue throughout the winter. We should not discard good old hens until after the third year, unless they show a tendency to grow fat and lazy, but if we were selecting layers we should choose pullets.—Home and Farm.

SELECTING A GOOD COW.

When a breeder purchases cows for foundation stock he will always demand three points, individuality, performance and pedigree. Cows with fleshy udders, or small udders, or poor fore-udders, or small teats are to be avoided, as are those also that have short and heavy bull-like necks. The model udder reaches well forward in a graceful curve and extends high up behind. Many beginners make the mistake of supposing that those animals are of a superior type that are dainty and delicate, and lacking in size. As a matter of fact, slender, graceful animals are likely to be deficient in vigor and prove disappointing.

The performance of an animal is one of the best gauges of her value. The average man cannot afford to buy world beaters, but he will do well to pay the additional price which is asked for superior as compared with inferior performers. The record of the animal to a large extent fixes the value.

THE PIG FROM AFAR.

When a man receives a pig by express, if it has been long in crate, when taken out it should be given a drink of water and put in a pen where it can rest, says W. E. Spicer, in Swineherd. If it appears very tired let it rest some, then give it a half feed of some good slop made of bran, shorts, ground oats and corn, or what you have for it. Don't fill it too fast. If the pig has come in from a long journey and is very gaunt and tired it will not want much feed for the first few days. Don't keep feed before the pig at this time. If it does not eat the feed take it away and let it wait until the next feeding time. Don't get the pig stalled on the feed at this time. Of course, a pig that has made only a short trip can be filled up in a short time and not hurt it. I can't give any rules that can be followed in all cases without deviation. The feeder must use his judgment in each case. The thing to guard against is not to fill the pig too fast and thus clog the digestion and get the pig in an unthrifty condition.

DEVICE FOR LOADING ANIMALS.

Inconvenience. A substantial contrivance for loading animals is shown and described below. Two posts, two by four by six and a half feet, a a, two posts, two by four by four feet, b b, and two two by four foot stringers, the necessary floor boards, four side boards, c c, and two braces, d d, are used.

The length of the chute depends somewhat on material at hand, but ten feet is a good length. Width of chute should be same as wagon box. Bolts should be used at c c c, on both sides, as nails are almost certain to work loose, or tear the flesh of animals. Double cross pieces should be used under the floor at both ends, and near the centre. Two men can carry such a chute and place it in a gate or doorway easily.—R. Hollenbeck in Farm Home.

THE DUTCH SEA WALL.

Remarkable Engineering Plan to Keep Back the Ocean.

The backbone of this tremendous engineering project is the great sea dike, which is to perform the all-important function of shutting out the North Sea—keeping the ancient enemy at a safe distance. This once accomplished, all that remains is simple. Probably the Dutch are the only hydraulic engineers in the world who would calmly propose to wall off a stormy, angry sea, swept by great tides and lofty tidal waves, from an inner body of water measuring twenty-five miles across. The Dutch not only propose it, but they know just how they are going to do it; they have counted every cubic foot of timber, every pound of stone, every willow twig, every day's labor that will be required. They know what they are about. They even have estimated exactly how long the work will take.

This, the greatest of all sea embankments in the wide world, this modern and beautifully useful Chinese wall, will extend from the mainland of North Holland a short distance across a shallow strait to the island of Wieringen, thence across the Zuyder Zee to the coast of Friesland. The total length of this "afsluit dijk" is 24.8 miles. Massive it must be, firm as a rock, to withstand the attacks of the storms which will beat against it from the North Sea, to resist the pressure of the ice which in winter will drive with terrible force upon its ramparts. Despite the fact that there are here no rock foundations, and that the whole structure must be planted upon the sandy bottom, the Dutch have no fear. All their lives they have been struggling with just such unpromising materials. Nothing but walls of sand now protect most of Holland from the inroads of the ocean. Sand makes a good bulwark, and also a good foundation. If you know how to use it, and there is no trick in this trade that the Dutch engineers had not mastered generations ago.—Walter Wellman, in McClure's.

Marble With Brass Designs.

"Gilding refined gold and painting the lily" are perhaps not more superfluous ornamentation than trimming or setting genuine marble with brass or bronze designs. Yet most of this season's importations in a very exclusive art department are so ornamented. A very fine bust figure has a crown of bronze on the head and bands about the neck and shoulders. This small piece, alone costing more than $100, gives one an idea of the value of the many large, handsome models recently imported in this veritable museum of art.

Among the fiction in the Christmas Century will be a story, "The Valet of the Pastor," by Maurice Francis Egan, professor of English language and literature at the Catholic University, Washington. Dr. Egan is author of many sketches, a translator of considerable note, and one of the editors of the World's Best Literature.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

Use Pe-ru-na for Coughs, Colds, Grip and Catarrh--A Congressman's Letter.

In every country of the civilized world Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of the charges committed to their care, but they also minister to their bodily needs.

With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never failing safeguard.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters from all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Sir:—"The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured."—Sisters of Charity

The young girl was under the care of the Sisters of Charity, and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat, with good results, as the above letter testifies.

lumbus, Ohio, for a free book written by Dr. Hartman.

The following letter is from Congressman Meekison, of Napoleon, Ohio: The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen: "I have used several bottles of Peruna and feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head, and feel encouraged to believe that its continued use will fully eradicate a disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison.

Dr. Hartman, one of the best known physicians and surgeons in the United States, was the first man to formulate Peruna. It was through his genius and perseverance that it was introduced to the medical profession of this country.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

FIRST KIDNEY PILL MADE. THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERY. THE ONLY GENUINE.

WM. H. NEIGHBORS, the well-known jeweler of West Main Street, Wytheville, Va., says: "Some four years ago an attack of grip settled in my back, and I have suffered off and on ever since with a dull, heavy aching across the small of my back, always more severe in the morning. It was difficult for me to stoop or straighten, and if I sat down for any length of time it was hard for me to arise. I took two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and the dull, disagreeable aching left me."

H. B. MCCARVER of 261 Cherry Street, Portland, Oregon, inspector of freight cars for the Transcontinental Company, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble which had annoyed me for months. I think a cold was responsible for the whole trouble. It seemed to settle in my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills rooted it out. It is several months since I used them, and up to date there has been no recurrence of the trouble."
