

Pain in Heart

"For two years I had pain in my heart, back and left side. Could not draw a deep breath or lie on left side, and any little exertion would cause palpitation. Under advice I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nerveine. I took about thirteen bottles, am in better health than I ever was, and have gained 14 pounds."

MRS. LILLIE THOMAS,
Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

For many years Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been very successful in the treatment of heart troubles, because of its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles. Even in severe cases of long standing it has frequently prolonged life for many years after doctors had given up all hope, as proven by thousands of letters we have received from grateful people.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle fails to benefit, your druggist will return your money.

Go to W. A. Lomax, Whitwell, for all kinds of Optics; also Watch and Jewelry repairing.

T. R. Harris was in Jasper Tuesday. S. T. Simpson, of Jasper, was here yesterday.

Maj. Thomas H. Hill went to Jasper Tuesday.

Henry Jones is attending court this week on the traverse jury.

Miss True Randle spent Monday at Carpenter, visiting relatives.

A. W. Ferguson, deputy sheriff, has been in attendance at court this week.

John Lawson is doing jury duty at Jasper this week, serving on jury No. 2.

Jack Case, of Chattanooga, has been the guest of the Martin family this week.

Mrs. J. H. Condra and Miss True Randle drove to Jasper Wednesday afternoon.

Capt. T. A. Bartlett left Monday morning for Dixon, Tenn., where he will make his future home.

J. H. Curtis brought us some nice rhubarb from his mountain home yesterday, which meant rhubarb pie.

Miss Minnie Martin has been confined to her room for over a week with illness. She is now under the care of Dr. Turner.

Pat Brewer, of Jasper, was here Tuesday, delivering goods for the up-to-date grocery firm with which he is connected.

Miss Clara Ford, of Chattanooga, arrived yesterday evening to assist at the Handle Works until the new book-keeper, who will take the place of Sam Sherman, arrives.

The News received a letter from Jas. C. Thornton this week, inclosing a $2 bill for subscription for which he has our thanks. Mr. Thornton is now at Indianapolis, Ind., in the employ of the P. O. Department, having resigned his position in the Navy from ill health.

Joseph Gholston, of Cedar Springs, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Kiziah Ramsay, for the past week. Mr. Gholston has been living in West Tennessee for several years, but came to Cedar Springs sometime during the winter to live with his son.

Rev. W. D. Dew, formerly pastor of the M. E. Church South at this place, was here, delivered a lecture at the College in Pikeville Friday night of last week on "The Intermediate State of the Soul from Death to Resurrection."

The lecture was for the benefit of the Ladies' Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, of that place. Rev. Dew is well posted on this difficult subject and no doubt advanced ideas that caused his hearers to discover points that had never before been called to their attention.

Chas. Hood, of Bridgeport, Ala., who represents Staggmeier & Fletcher in the Valley, is getting up a reputation as a sprinter. Charlie works the local stores for orders while the "Cannon Ball" crew unload freight mornings, but getting through sooner than usual Wednesday morning of last week they moved off trying to get away from him. It was no use, however, for he caught it easily at the trestle, and wasn't even out of breath.

Some say that the train slowed down for him, but that is all imagination. Charlie caught it, and was glad to get a chance to see just how fast he can run when he gets to lining out home runs on the Bridgeport ball team when it comes to Sequachee with that picnic that is mentioned.

Cashed Her Bouquets

A young woman walked into a well known florist's and, motioning one of the men aside, said a few words in a low voice. They stopped back to the desk, and he gave her some money.

Some time after she had left he said to one of the other men:

"Did you notice that girl? Mr. B. left a standing order to send her a bouquet of flowers every Saturday. He's away just now, and when she sees something that she had rather have than her weekly bouquet she comes in here and cashes her flowers, so to speak. She's not the only one either."

Make the Hill Country a Land of Flocks and Herds.

Large areas in Virginia, and smaller ones in eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina, have developed blue grass pastures equal to those of Kentucky and the West, and there are thousands of other acres which might be made equally productive.

Other thousands, if given the proper treatment, would give far larger returns in pasture, growing richer all the while, than they can ever be expected to yield in cultivation with all its risk of gulleying and soil depletion.

Some years ago the writer heard a very successful farmer at the East Tennessee Farmers' Convention declare: "This part of Tennessee needs nothing so much as to have half its plows dumped into the rivers."

This was a picturesque exaggeration of what is an indisputable fact—that there is entirely too much plowing done on these clay hills. The thousands of acres of poor, gullied, unprofitable lands all along the foothills of the Blue Ridge and the Great Smokies bear testimony to this statement.

If these lands were kept in grass most of the time (bluegrass, redbud, orchard grass, the fescues, timothy, and Bermuda are all suited to some part or other of this beautiful hill land), and turned for cultivated crops only at intervals of four or five years, the humus filled soil would not wash away, but would yield bountiful crops and be ready to go back into grass again.

Of course, along the rivers there are level lands as productive as the prairies of Illinois, but within sight of these in most cases are other lands that should never be plowed at all, but be allowed to remain in timber or be kept clothed with grass thru all the years to come.

This, then, is the message we would bring to the farmers of the Southern hill country: Remember always that yours is first of all a grazing section. You have grass lands of the finest, the most splendid dairy region in the South, an unsurpassed place in which to raise horses and sheep, hogs and poultry.

If you make grass and live stock the basis of your farming, you may make your land one of the most prosperous, as it is one of the fairest, in America; but if you insist on cultivating these hills year after year, you are destined to see the surface soil of many of them start on its long journey to the Mississippi or to the Atlantic—Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

LANDLORDISM'S CURSE.

For the benefit of those who actually think and believe that private ownership or landlordism, is right, I refer them to Leviticus, 25th chapter, beginning at the 23rd verse. If the law of God was practicable in Moses' day, it is practicable now and I fail to find anywhere in Holy Writ where God abolished the law regarding His creation. Evidently it was never His purpose or intention to deprive any human being of his share in the land.

All the prophets prophesied against oppression and if it was wrong to oppress men in their day, is it not wrong in this our day. Christ Himself declared upon the two great commandments hung all the law and the prophets and as such I as much believe as I am a living man the violation of these laws are the cause of all our troubles.

I fail to see how the christian church can evade and dodge these two commandments and claim to preach the gospel. The law was that the land shall not be sold forever. Undoubtedly, this law has been maliciously violated in the very way and manner which the prophet said. It had, it seems from a close reading of the Bible that equality of privilege was one of the cardinal doctrines of the church. Our Saviour stressed it upon almost every occasion. I can't see how a full gospel can be preached when it is well known fact the second great commandment is being trampled under foot without a protest from the church, and I hate to say it is cheek by jowl with Caesar. She is allowing him to render null and void every law possible.

My belief is founded upon the teachings of God's Word and not upon what man says. If men will search the Scripture closely, they will find the earth withholds her fertility on account of the very conditions that exist today.

An abundance of greed has exacted too much and over reached itself and if these exactions were wrong and prophesied against in Moses' day it is wrong now. From the reading of the Bible and also the Testament, the greatest sin a man committed was that of oppression, and withholding from the poor man what he was justly entitled to. All men say out loud and sometimes very loud, they are for the right. Well, was it right for Israel to draw by lot their fields and possess them? If it was how comes it and by what process men of this generation can't enjoy the same equality of rights? We say we are a christian nation. Then, if we are, how comes it we let mammon rule and govern us and cause us to deprive our brother of his inheritance. Bah! not much christianity in our rules of government.

We are doing almost every thing possible to set the people on fire for prohibition, but who and how many are fighting for the abolition of poverty? How many are aiding to lift men out of the hell of slavery which can be done just as easy as enacting prohibition and when done it will be a hundred times more beneficial. Prohibition isn't worth a pinch of snuff by the side of restoring unto men their given heirship. This one thing will do more to enlighten and civilize and christianize men and women than all the organizations on earth are doing. It will destroy poverty and abolish much of the misery people suffer. It will fill the mouths of children with food and cover their bodies with clothes. Then when we all stand before God we will not be charged with neglecting our brother. We've done something beside preaching. We've helped men, lifting them where others cannot oppress. Just a little home makes a man mighty independent. Twenty-five or fifty acres liberates a man from the cruel hand of slavery. Don't tell me you are for the right and allow your brother to be oppressed without a protest. Don't tell me we live under laws that help all men. I know better. Don't tell me your party is a friend to the homeless, and not a clause in your platform worth a pinch of snuff to him. No wonder the Bible charges our rulers with speaking lies, they do it at all times. They load men with heavy burdens we all know. If we know what is right and just let us preach it, and let us apply the remedy and thus relieve the misery human beings are suffering. We have but a faint idea of the terrible sufferings land lordism has caused in the world.

Now, people ought to be very careful how they vote and what they vote for. Cast your vote for no man who doesn't want you to have an equality of privilege in what God made for you. Fill every office with men who believe in considering the cry of the laborer, and some of these days a transformation of our laws will take place and you will be liberated.

I aim to vote for everything good I can and a man who has the courage to tell me he favors all men sharing in the creation of God is my man.

J. W. Crutchfield, better known as "Bill Dooley", walked into the depot one morning last week and helped himself to some matches, but when he attempted to light one it wouldn't light.

Agent Hopkins had already put the reporter "on" to Mr. Crutchfield, and with delight watched him scratch match after match with no resulting flame, but with a deeper look of disgust on his face. Finally the reporter asked Crutchfield what he was throwing them away for, and his reply was very indicative that they were of no account and had never been. Hopkins here dodged back into the office and brought out a match box and asked Crutchfield to try striking one of them on a lighting slip pasted on the side of the box. He did so and the match lighted up beautifully. Crutchfield had been trying to ignite one of the safely matches furnished by the railroad which ignite only by friction against a scratching device on the box. Crutchfield tumbled and the crowd laughed.

John Grimes called on Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Layne Sunday.

We would all like to hear from Barnie McCoy, of Alabama, as we haven't heard from him since he left Roope.

Well, "Sleepy Sam", I think it is about time for you to wake up for you have slept nearly as long as Rip Van Winkle did, so you had better wake up and have your gun stocked and wipe off your glasses and write a piece to the News.

Come on, of "Blue Waist", of Powder Mill. We sure enjoy reading your pieces. Tell George Kilgore he don't know anything about hunting unless he was out here with us a while.

Mrs. Carrie Kilgore and Mrs. Annie Layne said they sure did enjoy going down the bluff to the Tennessee river.

We heard Ed Grimes enjoyed a trip to Victoria Easter Sunday. I bet he and his girl ate so many eggs they were sick. They were loved any way you know.
