GROWING STATESMAN.

"Savoyard" Places Congressman Garret's Name on the Honor Roll.

Among the very promising younger members of the House is Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee. Mr. Blaine remarks in his book that a man rarely makes his mark in either House of our Congress unless he attained his seat therein ere he had reached forty, and there are just about enough exceptions to vindicate the rule. Thaddeus Stevens was a remarkable exception, being 58 when he first went in the House at Washington. John G. Carlisle was 42 in 1877, when he first came to Congress. James B. Beck was 45, William C. P. Breckinridge 48, and numerous other notably triumphant careers in Congress might be cited as exceptions to the rule laid down by Mr. Blaine.

Finis Garrett is a descendant of the second generation of a South Carolinian who settled in West Tennessee in 1830, locating in Weakly County. The father of the young Congressman, yet living, is a farmer, and I opine a Cumberland Presbyterian in religious faith, and I jump to that conclusion because I never knew a christened "Finis" whose father did not belong to that sect. There was a noted minister of that name, who was active in the wonderful revival of 1803 in Middle Tennessee, and he was one of the founders of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Garrett was born in 1875 and educated in the common schools and at McKenzie College, graduating in 1897. He then taught school and studied law under the instruction and in the office of Charles M. Ewing and came to the bar in 1899. He practiced his profession diligently and with success until 1904, when he was nominated for Congress by the Democracy of the Ninth Tennessee District. It was a remarkable tribute to the young man, then under thirty, for he beat Rice A. Pierce in a blanket primary 5,300 votes in a total of 19,000. Rice Pierce was not only a veteran politician, but he had served fourteen years in Congress, where he became a conspicuous figure and trusted leader. But where the young man discovers more than ordinary capacity he always has the advantage over the older competitor. The Benjamin of the family is ever the favorite.

Young Garrett took his seat in the House upon the assembling of the Fifty-ninth Congress in 1905 and has been twice re-elected. He is a man of pleasant manners and engaging address, with eloquence of speech far above the average Congressman. He has made several speeches in which he displays fine forensic abilities, and they evidenced an industry and talent for research that would be the making of a far less bountifully gifted man.

His speeches on the tariff were exceptionally strong, and he held his own with veterans in the running colloquies that are the real test of the parliamentary debate. With a strong mind, a capacity for laborious and long continued study, engaging manners, an unfailing courtesy a ready and fluent speech, attended with elegant phraseology and eloquent delivery, this man will be a familiar personality in every political circle before the world is many years older, or I am more mistaken than I generally am.—Savoyard in Nashville Banner.

VERY ACTIVE.

The Piano Contest Gets New Start. Girls Get Busy.

Some of our piano contest girls have been off visiting this week, yet there has been unusual interest in the races for the two fine pianos we are going to give away in the near future.

The fact is the girls' friends have been especially active during the past few days and many have been dropping into the office or mailing their subscriptions to us and voting for their favorites. This is gratifying both to The Commercial and to the young ladies, however the young ladies should get out and hustle, if they want to win one of these fine pianos or any of the other valuable prizes we are giving away from week to week. Your friends will not do it all. If they find you are not working they are liable to give their votes to others.

Special Prize July 17.

To the young lady securing the most subscription votes from July 3 to Saturday, July 17, at 6 o'clock p. m. we will give a beautiful gold locket and chain. This is worth a little effort on the part of any girl and is one of the most valuable special prizes to be awarded in the contest. The winner of the special silver set prize is debarred from winning this locket and chain, but her votes count all the same on the piano. In fact all votes count all the time on the pianos.

During this period ending July 17 we will give 5000 extra free votes with every $10 turned in at one time on new subscribers or 4000 for every $10 turned in on old, or renewals. This will give every girl a good chance to pile up a lot of votes in a short time.

At noon Wednesday, June 30, we counted the votes as made up from cash receipts and find many of the girls very close together. This is somewhat of a surprise and shows that the chances of winning prizes is practically equal. This count does not include any of the free ballots from the ballot box. These however would not change results very much.

Fannie Milner.....16,200
Lula Lee.....14,800
Myrtle Howard.....12,400
Irma Hudson.....9,200
Stella Williams.....6,400

In fact the contest is just now getting to the interesting point. We hope all the contest girls will send us their photographs at once and call at this office for lists of our subscribers' names and circular letters to be used in sending to friend. We will help each and every girl we can, but we will treat all alike and guarantee that every phase of the contest will be strictly on the square. The ones securing the most votes will receive the pianos and special prizes.

One of the pianos was shipped from the factory June 25 and will probably be here ere this paper is mailed and all are wanted to call and see it. It is one of the very best $400 pianos on the market with a ten year guarantee and bears the closest investigation.

Meditations of Jeremiah of Joppa.

Lo! When rain falleth the too dum-basted often bedraggled man longeth for dusty highways.

Behold! Who is a dunce, but he that seeketh ever to paddle the other fellow's canoe, and so leaveth his own to drift?

Alas! Poison is a surer remedy for the bug that feasteth on the potato vine than much oburgation concerning mortal error.

NEW YORK FASHION GOSSIP.

Artistic Picture Hats Fast Replacing the Absurd Shapes.

Ladies who have become intensely weary of the latest Paris fashion absurdities in the way of hats such as the ubiquitous peach basket shape which is really becoming to nobody, will welcome with a sigh of relief the very latest millinery fad in the all black hat, which it has been found, harmonizes beautifully with the fashionable shades for frocks, particularly the popular rose colored gowns.

BRONZE SLIPPERS FASHIONABLE.

Bronze shoes, slippers and ties are the newest thing in foot-wear invented by fashion, if that can be called new which is, after all, but a revival of an old style. The bronze kid appears in many forms, pumps with jaunty ribbon bows, strap slippers, high button boots and low cut ties. This new kind of footwear can be used for many purposes, but is intended primarily for dressy wear.

COLOR DE ROSE.

Rose color is having a tremendous popularity this summer appearing as it does, not only in dresses, coats and wraps, but also in millinery, parasols, veils, purses and other accessories. In cular style. The newest princess frocks have a fitted cuirass effect, extending well below the hips and below this are box-pleats or a gathered flounce effect.

THE INDISPENSABLE BRASSIERE.

The brassiere is now as indispensable as her corset to every woman who pays any attention to the fit of her gowns. A properly made brassiere holds and moulds the figure above the corset, bearing all the strain which otherwise stretches and wears the dress waist, and also preventing the ugly line at the top of the corset which often shows so distressingly across the back of the bodice.

A new style brassiere that closes in front has three small cross bones at the side of the bust which prevent the figure from spreading, and secure the fashionable trimness of line. In the back closing-surplice brassiere, there is a new model, made with a reinforcing shield under the arm, which helps both the shape and wear of the garment. Both are made by the Debravoise Co., and can be found at most corset departments in the best stores.

LOVELY SUMMER FROCKS.

A very pretty, but by no means expensive summer frock, is made of rose colored linen or one of the heavy cotton fabrics closely imitating linen. It is cut with the front panel extending down to the feet in princess style, but the side panels are cut off about half way below the hips and lengthened by a deep side pleating of the material that extends from each side of the panel around to the back. The neck is cut out in a small square to display a lace guimpe. A touch of braiding in pink soutache outlines the square neck, trims the sleeves above long lace cuffs and heads the pleated flounce effect.

VARIETY OF STYLES.

An immense variety of materials are used for summer frocks. Pongee is enormously popular, so also is linen, batiste, Marquisette, cotton voile, chambray and that extremely useful fabric, foulard. The revival of foulard comes as a boon to womankind. It is used for everything from plain morning frocks to elaborate afternoon gowns and in light shades even for dancing dresses.

LUCY CARTER.

Original Packages.

Nashville, June 28.—"I have examined the temperance laws sufficiently to know that liquor, wines, ales and beers cannot be sold in Tennessee after July 1, either at wholesale or retail in original packages or by the drink."

This statement was made by General Jeff McCarn, district attorney general of Davidson county to-day.

"Questions about the temperance legislation have been asked me a number of times," said general McCarn. "I have been asked if liquors can legally be sold in original packages after July 1. I have been asked if the four-mile law applied to retailers or whether it includes wholesalers as well as retailers. I have made examination, sufficient to satisfy me that neither wholesaling nor retailing can be done in Tennessee after midnight of Wednesday, next."

Speaking with reference to the course his office would pursue in the matter General McCarn asserted that he and his assistants would vigorously enforce the prohibition laws and prosecute persons violating them.

General McCarn, it will be remembered, was the leading counsel for the State in the recent trial of Col. Duncan B. Cooper and his son, Robin, for the murder of Senator E. W. Carmack.

Doctors Endorse It.

Lang Bros., Druggists, Paducah, Ky., write: "We sell more of Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Tonic than all others combined, having retailed over 700 bottles in one season. It is prescribed largely by the physicians here." Sold by Red Cross Drug Store.

Get Busy!
