WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Jan. 23rd, 1885. The week's work in Congress was varied in character, importance and interest. There was a sensational discussion about the patriotism and traitorship of Jeff. Davis, early in the week, which commanded much attention. There were dull debates on financial questions on Interstate Commerce, on Appropriation bills, and there were political debates in which the Tariff found a chance to demand some attention. A bill to retire Gen. Grant on full pay went smoothly through the Senate, and the McPherson funding bill failed in the House, while the old French Spoliation Claims bill, which has been dangling about in Congress since 1802, was passed. The latter bill has now passed both houses three times, has been reported forty-Senator Morrison's bills amending two times, and has been vetoed twice, will grow fiercer week by week, as the session approaches the end. The "special orders" now make a long calender by themselves. There are so many that they clog legislation, and quarrels ensue for the survival of the fittest. The "special Order" device has been carried too far, and some new one must be contrived by ingenious Members who want the House to transact some business in spite of itself. But Mr. Randall says Congress is not in a law making mood now. No, nor has it been for two years. What a commentary upon a party about to assume control of the Government. For two years the Democratic side in both branches of Congress, have not only failed to initiate any useful, successful legislation, but it has defeated the wise and beneficial propositions of its opponents. The remaining days of the session are so few, and the regular appropriation bills still to be considered are so many that this postponement to another Congress of all general legislation will be easy to accomplish. But what the Democrats will gain by maketc., with dogs and hounds, and to ing such a record is not so clear. In prohibit the catching of deer, etc., in the Forty-ninth Congress they will be numerically weaker in both the Senate and House. In the present House are 201 Democrats and 124 Republic ans. In of interest on sales of public lands from the next House there will be 182 Demo-7 to 5 per cent differs from that of Sen-crats and 142 Republicans. On the whole, too, the Democrats lose more important and experienced men than the Republicans. In the next Senate the Republicans will gain two, and the Democrats will lose two, members. They lose Pendleton, one of their ablest if the governor vetoes the Rice bill, the men, and may lose several other such men by Cabinet or foreign appoint-Senator Sackett's amendments to the ments. Married After Twenty-Three Years

In Hart county, Kentucky, lived be fore the war Martin Small, an honest farmer, whose family, besides a wife and three daughters, consisted of six sons, the youngest of whom was Jesse. Jesse was a fiery, impetuous fellow, who went to every cross-roads dance, and was considered the finest rifle-shot in the neighborhood. In those days turkey-shooting was the favorite pastime of the country gentlemen during the fall and winter months. It happened one day that the turkey-shooting took place at old Farmer Ezekiel Woodson's. Father Woodson was the father of one of the prettiest girls in all Hart county. She was not yet 16, and already had received numerous proposals for her hand in marriage. On the day of the turkey-shooting it was noticed that Jesse Small took no part in the sport. Jesse and Farmer Woodsey's sport. Jesse and Farmer Woodson's daughter Rebecca had stolen away from the crowd, and were breathing into Barks and each other's ears the gentle words of on hand.

The politics of old man Small were democratic, violently democratic, of the Breckinridge school of democracy. His sons took example from the father. During the bitter years of conflict that followed Rebecca heard but once or twice from Jesse. One letter told her wounded on the battlefield of Manassas. She had no hope of ever seeing him again. One bright sunshiny morning, near the close of the war, Jesse returned to his old home in Hart county. A bullet had pierced his side, but fortunately for him, he had been carried from the field by a comrade, and cared for by a skilled physician. He had almost entirely recovered.

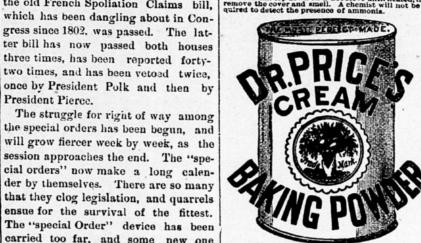

After the last column of figures in the official count had been added up and the democratic majority was announced 1.147, Jesse and Rebecca began their preparations to seal a contract that had tood inviolate for twenty-three years. To duly celebrate the occasion it was agreed to make a trip to Louisville and solemnize the nuptials while there. At 2:55 yesterday afternoon Jesse Small and Rebecca Woodson arrived in the city. They secured a license to marry and were piloted to the office of Justice John McCann, where they were soon made happy under the seal of the marriage vow. Last night the bridal couple were registered at the St. Cloud notel, and to-day at noon they returned to Hart county. Mr. Small is 44 years of age and his bride is five years his iunior. He is tall, with a thin face sovered by iron-gray whiskers. Mrs. Small has a pleasant face and blue eyes. —Louisville (Ky.) Times.
