Horned rattlesnakes are said to abound in the valleys of the Salt and Gila rivers, in Southern Arizona. The horns appear when the snake is less than half grown, and are attached to the head just above and a little to a side of the eyes. They present all the appearance of the two horns, resembling the stubs which adorn a calf's head, and reach the length of a quarter of an inch in a full grown specimen. It is not known that one of these snakes will hook its adversary after the approved bovine fashion, but it is a fact that the horned snakes are the most vicious and venomous of the whole family of "rat tlers,"

A MISTAKE HERE.

Washington, Special Telegram, July 9.—
Delegate Price, who in the Sioux Falls convention declared that there were two standing parallels and intimated that trouble would likely ensue about the strip of land between the States of Dakota, had not instituted the matter thereoughly. There is between the States of Dakots, had not investigated the matter thoroughly. There is only one seventh standard parallel and that is the one designated for the dividing line between the Dakotas. The error of Delegate Price is made on account of the error in surveying the Sisseton reservation. In this survey all township and parallel lines were run a few miles south of where they should be. The later surveys of land joining the reservation.

THE TWIN DAKOTAS.

I vation and extending almost across the territory were correct, and when the Sisseton reservation is thrown open for settlement the seventh standard parallel will be carried across the north end of the reservation. Land office officials say that a standard parallel extends indefinitely, and the mere fact that the erroneous survey of an Indian reservation years ago made it appear that the parallel was a few miles south, cuts no figure. A parallel is a line of latitude, and a mistake by a surveyor cannot change it.

NORTH DAKOTA. GETTING READY FOR BUSINESS.

BISMARCK, N. D., July 5.—A report was circulated this morning that auti-Fancher Republicans and Democrats had formed a combination to organize the constitutional convention. Mr. Fancher called the assemblage to order at 10:30 o'clock a. m., and, on account of hoarseness, asked M. N. Johnson to occupy the chair. were absent, and Bartlett, of Dickey, distinguished as being a Democratic Prohitionist, voted for Fancher. This ended the animated struggle which has been in progress for a week regarding the presidency.

Mr. Fancher made an address, which was necessarily brief owing to his cold. He thanked the convention for the honor conferred and hoped to be able to assist in framing a constitution which would conserve and protect the interests of all classes. Congratulatory telegrams were read from the other territorial conventions.

The chair appointed Messrs. Williams, Parsons, Turner, Carland, Allen, Stevens and Johnson a committee on rules, with instructions to report the character of committees and number of officers required beyond what were provided for in the congressional bill.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

THE NORTHERN HALF.

BISMARCK, 6.—The only business of the constitutional convention to-day was the report of the committee on rules, which was ordered printed. The rules provide for twenty three committees, ranging from five in number to fifteen: The principal commit-tees number nine and fifteen. The committees number nine and fifteen. The commit-tee on legislative apportionment number twenty-five. Everybody will be represented on that committee. Johnson of Lakota rose to a question of privilege and read a couple of paragraphs from the Devils Lake Capital reflecting upon him. He offered a resolution excluding Marshal McClure, the editor, from the floor. The convention ad-journed until Monday at 2 o'clock.

MORE OFFICERS.

BISMARCK, July 8.—The constitutional convention met this afternoon. The first business was the completion of the organization by selecting Maj. Hamilton chief clerk, R. M. Tuttle of Mandan official stenographer, Editor Falley of Wahpeton sergeant at arms, Editor Bowsheld of Ellendale engrossing clerk, E. H. McKnight of Fargo messenger, J. S. Weiser of Valley City watchman and Rev. George Kline of Bismarck chaplain. A dispatch from President Edgerton, of the Sioux Falls convention, was read, announcing the selection of a commission of five to divide the territorial assets. The president was authorized to appoint a commission of seven on the part of North Dakota. Spaulding of Fargo, Griggs of Grand Forks, Scott of Valley City, Purcell of Wapheton, Camp of Jamestown, Harris of Bismarck and Sandager of Ransom will probably be the seven. MORE OFFICERS.

TAKING IT EASY. BISMARCK, July 9.—The constitutional convention was not in session to-day. Many of the members went home, and a few went to the Bad Lands.

Auditor McManima, who returned to-day, says it would take a month to furnish all the information the convention have asked him to contribute. He says if the convention is going into the question of the division of is going into the question of the division of the territorial property as extensively as the Spaulding resolution of yesterday indicated, it will take all summer to make the division. E. W. Camp of Jamestown is the chairman of the North Dakota commission. The oth-er members are as stated in last night's dis-patch. Griggs, Sandager and Harris are the husiness man on the commission, and Propatch. Griggs, Sandager and Harris are the business men on the commission, and Purcel, Spaulding, Scott and Camp the lawyers. The division of the capitol property of the value of about $2200,000 is a probable bone of contention, as the property did not cost the territory anything except for plumbing and maintenance. It is held here that South Dakota is not entitled to any share of its rather than the content of the content share of its value. There is $75,000 de-linquent taxes, and the largest share is due from counties in South Dakota. In the adjustment of this tax question South Dakota will necessarily be the loser in the matter of the maintenance con-tributed from the general fund for public institutions. North Dakota has contributed a great deal more for the support of South Dakota institutions than the latter has for Dakota institutions than the latter has for the support of North Dakota institutions. South Dakota owes North Dakota a large sum on this score. The whole business is something new in the history of states.

A Funeral in Busy Broadway.

A funeral procession that tries to go down Broadway in the early afternoon of a busy day usually loses its identity as a procession before it gets to Canal Street. A reporter noted that it took seven carriages ten minutes to pass a point near Broome Street. The hearse passed first. It was followed by a truck filled with hides. Three horse-cars slowly rolled after the truck, and then came a heterogeneous lot of vehicles and another carriage. It was an incongruous spectacle-death in the midst of life-a funeral sand wiched between the boisterous activity of metropolitan activity.-New York Sun.
