On the 15th the president appointed Edward K. Lowrey, of Ohlo, second secretary of the United States legation at Pekin.

Urwand of a thousand persons in Buth, England, were rendered home-less, on the 15th, by the overflowing of the River Avon.

Advices from Fusan, Corea, ander date of the 16th, state that & battle had been fought between Japanese troops and rebellions Tong Haks, in which the former were victorious.

THE failures for the week ended on the löth, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., were: For the United States 270, ngainst 893 for the corresponding week last year; and for Canada 38, against 36

On the 16th the president appointed John E. Jackson, of New Jersey, sec-Berlin, and Herbert Goldsmith Squires, of New York, second secretary of the metropolis of Missonel. same embassy.

ABOUT 10 o'clock on the night of the 15th, twelve members of the Cook gang rode into Muskogee, I. T., paraded the main street, laid in a supply of cigars and then rode leisurely out of town.

A DISPATCH from Limasol, Cyprus, of the 15th, said twenty-one persons had been drowned by the floods, and that the number of domestic animals destroyed was far into the thousands.

THE New South Wales assembly adopted a motion, on the 14th, offered by Sir Henry Parkes, setting forth that it is desirable that negotiations looking to Australian federation shall be

A DISPATCH from Chemulpo to a London news agency says that the officials of the Corean government, whose tendencies are pro-Japanese, are framing a constitution to be used at the beginning of 1895.

GARRETT VANGINKEL, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Des Moines, In., who had been totally blind for the past two months from contusion of the brain, awoke at 2 a. m., on the 14th. with sight perfectly restored.

Advices from Rio Grande do Sul say that the Brazilian rebel chief Salgado | for five years. was defeated, recently, at Lima in a battle lasting nine hours. The government loss is stated to be 151 killed with its contents was completely deand the rebel loss sixty-three.

HON. MYRON B. WRIGHT, of Susquehanna, Pa., congressman of the Fifteenth district of Pennsylvania, died in Trenton, Can., on the night of the 12th, of typhoid fever. He was, on the 5th, elected for the third term.

MARTIN J. WATSON, of Anderson. Ind., has buried the last of a family of five, including his wife, who were in good health a month ago. They were the victims of black diphtheria, which is raging in the Indiana gas belt.

On the 15th Capt. Joseph Craig, United States navy, recently relieved from the duties of president of the faculty at the naval academy, sailed for China on the steamer Belgie. He will take command of the United States steamer Concord, stationed in Asiatic waters.

whose children contracted the disease from milk of the dairy farm, the daughter being afflicted. The state dairy commissioners will act.

SAUSAGE meat and dried meat are said to be made at Hammond, Lake county. Ind., from the remains of broken down and diseased horses, which are purchased in Chicago, from the street car companies and transported to Hammond for slaughter.

In his proclamation to the people of Finland the ezar of Russia expresses his desire to confirm the religion and fundamental laws of the country and the rights and privileges of every class, high and low, which they have hitherto enjoyed according to the constitution of the country.

A TERRIBLE wind, rain and hail storm prevailed in Brussels and vicinity, on the 13th, doing immense damage to property and involving considerable oss of life. Fifteen deaths were reported. During the storm the roof of factory at Ath was carried away killing four persons.

EX-STATE SENATOR JOHN O'MALLEY, who had been wanted by the Chicago police for over a week on the charge of shooting and wounding a hack driver and saloon-keeper on election night, surrendered himself to Chief Brennan, on the 15th, and gave bail to appear when called for trial.

An attorney for the $56 alleged fictitious patent medicine companies at South Bend., Ind., was at the post office department in Washington, on the or the purpose of having the "fraud orders" against the companies reseinded. No hearing in the case. however, was ordered.

REV. MAX MAGIL, during the past year rabbi of the Brith Emes Jewish congregation in Allantown, Pa, resigned his charge on the 15th. renounced his faith and declared his conversion to Christianity. He will join the new United Evangelical church, and may enter the ministry.

Ir is announced that the firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co., of New York, under its present title, will expire by limitation on January 1, 1895. A new firm will then be organized, under the title of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. The change is due to the death of A. J. Drexel and J. Hood Wright. The London house will also be reorganized, and, after the date mentioned, will be known as Morgan, Harjes & Co. THE Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, Md., publishes sixty letters from United States senators and rep-resentatives giving their views as to whether the government should afford francial aid to secure the early comletion of the Nicaragua canal. The riters, about equally divided be-seen the two great parties, take seen grounds, almost unanimously,

THE SCUTT COUNTY NEWSBOY. NEWS AND NOTES.

A Summary of Important Eventa. PERSONAL AND GENERAL

It is reported that John Wilde, and American, alias "Hoie," and Cameron, a Scotchman, alias "Browne," who were arrested on board the French etcamable Sidney, from Marseilles for Yokohama and Hong-Keng, charged with conspiracy to destroy the Japanese fleet by the use of torpedoes, have been released from custody by the Japanese, after taking oaths not to resort to any action tending to assist China during the war.

China during the wer. THERTERN cases of small-pox were discovered in New York city, on the 12th, in the vicinity of West Thirty-ninth street. The contagion arose from a case of small-pox recently found at 439 West Thirty-ninth street.

THE first of the two steamships built in this country for the International Navigation Co. was launched from the Cramps' shipyard in Philadelphia, on the 12th, in the prescuce of President Cleveland, members of the cabinet and John E. Jackson, of New Jersey, sec-retary of the United States embassy at land stood sponsor for the vessel, and metropolis of Missouri. A CIRCULAR inviting bids for $50,000. 000 ten-year 5 per cent. government bonds was issued by the treasury department on the 18th.

On the 12th a dispatch from Shanghai to the Central News, London, said it was reported there that Port Arthur was taken by the Japanese, on the 11th. without resistance. The Japanese, after bombarding the place for a short time, made a land assault upon the enemy's works, when the Chinese sur-

THE Japanese legation at Washington had not, up to the 12th, received official confirmation of the capture of Port Arthur. The legation people say, however, that if Port Arthur has in truth fallen, it will be the most disastrous blow that China could have re-

ELECTRICIANS doubt the success of he attempts which will be made at Auburn (N. Y.) prison to resuscitate Murderer Wilson after his electrocution. Gov. Flower has declared his intention to permit the experiment, which will be made by experts in the execution room.

A SPECIAL to the Bee from Neligh, Neb., says: Barrett Scott, the defaulting treasurer of Holt county, Neb., who stole $100,000, was sentenced at Neligh, on the 12th, to the penitentiary

THE academy building at Rushville, Ind., a handsome brick, together stroyed by fire on the 13th. building was occupied by the Rushville business college, whose loss on fixtures is $1,500. Loss on the building, $20,000; insurance small. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

WILLIAM S. STURGIS, aged 70 years, the Chicago millionaire whose suit for millions against Charles B. Farwell, of Chicago, has made such a stir in legal circles, and who was adjudged insane by a commission of lunacy, on the 5th, died at the Glenmary home in Oswego, N. Y., of senile dementia on the 12th.

A COLD wave spread over Pensacola, Fla., and vicinity, on the 12th, the thermometer going to 28. Ice was plentiful. Many of the older inhabitants do not remember a frost so early. THE czar has appointed the prince of Wales honorary colonel of the Kieff regiment of dragoons. Col. WM. II. Girbs, ex-state senator Eight scarlet-fever cases in Cedar and republican postmaster at Jackson, Rapids, Ia., have been traced to af- Miss., was sentenced in the federal fected milk from a retail dairyman, court, on the 13th, to three years in the Kings county (N. Y ..) penitentiary for embezzling, as postmaster, $4,000.

Ox the 13th the London court of chancery granted Sir Augustus Harris, the theatrical manager, an interim injunction preventing Col. Mapleson from circulating a prospectus connecting Harris with the Imperial opera company, which is about to be floated as a stock enterprise.

ONE HUNDRED persons were killed by the late seismic disturbances within a radius of 40 miles from the city of La Paz, Bolivia.

THE train on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, which was held up by the Cook gang on the night of the 13th, was heavily guarded by United States marshals, but Bill Cook and Cherokee Bill, with their fifteen men, forced them to surrender all their guns, money and watches.

A BOMB found by a London policeman in a niche between the pillars of the court of justice, on the 12th, was found on examination to contain nothing explosive.

THE Italian deputy, Agnini, was, on the 14th, sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Modena for taking part in the organization of societies, designed to subvert the government. A BOARDINGHOUSE in Elberfeld, Rhenish Prussia, was destroyed by fire, on the night of the 13th, and seven of its occupants were burned to death. Several others are missing.

HENRY BINDER, a wealthy and wellcnown German resident of Ann Arbor. Mich., was burned to death in his barn on the night of the 13th.

THE Trowbridge fouring mill South Haven, Mich., was destroyed by fire on the night of the 13th. Loss. $10,000; partly insured. GOVERNMENT soldiers captured by the Brazilian insurgents are given choice of death or enlisting in the rebel army. They enlist. THE United States revenue cutter Pear arrived at San Francisco from Behring sea on the 13th. THE resignation of Dr. Hermann von Schelling, Prussian minister of justice, was accepted by Emperor William, on the 14th, and Dr. Shonstedt, fermerly president of the celle court of appeals, was appointed to succeed

THE British ship Culmere, Capt. Read, last reported at Hamburg, October 1, from Iquique, foundered, on the 14th, in a gale 80 miles off Spurn Head, Yorkshire, England. Twenty-two persons were drowned, including the captain and his wife.

SHEFFIELD, Ia., a town of 1,000 popu lation, was wiped cut by fire on the night of the 14th. Only two buildings, Carhart's bank and Shaeffer & Reynold's store, were left standing. Total loss, $125,000; insurance, $50,000. OFFICIAL copies of Secretary Carlisle's circular inviting proposals for bonds reached the subtreasury in New York, on the 15th, and each bank and trust company received a copy.

At a meeting of directors in New York, on the 15th, Clarence Seward was elected vice-president of the Adams

THE DAY OF LIVENCE STATES

tiown of the thistle
Is ripened and scattered away?
There's gold in the gathered harvest; There's homely and heartfome cheer; And so we will be full joyous— The day of thanksgiving is here.

Of the autumn's purple and red-For the golden-rod that is whitened For the gentian bloom that is dead; Then turn to the hearthstone cheery; Behold, 'tis the time of year. To count our blessings and mercles— The day of thanksgiving is here.

Bare and brown in the shadows. The meadowland meets the gaze, Where the bold, blithe bee went seeking Its sweets in the summer days. The honey is stored in plenty. So what if the winter is near? The time is not one for repining — The day of thanksgiving is here.

The fruit has matured in its season. The sunshine has ripened the seed. Then sing to the Lord of the harvest A song of thanksgiving indeed.

The morn and the noon have passed by us:

'Tis the sweet afternoon of the year; So let not your tribute be lacking

The day of thanksgiving is here -Hattle Whitney, in Good Housekeeping.

strained the milk her husband had brought in. "Judge Carpenter," he replied, as he hurried out in the deepening autumnal twilight to shut the barn door and to bring in the eggs-continuing, as he returned and went to the sinkroom to wash up for supper:

"I talked with him so long that I am late about my chores. He said he should think you and I in this large house would be like two cannon balls rolling about in an empty barn."

"If he thinks the house is empty he would better come in and go over it." "Oh, empty of people he meant. Of knows you well enough to be sure that the rooms are furnished and in spick and span order."

"Well, there's only you and me, I know, but I have always wanted a large house and I have got it. You have a great many relations, and it gives any housekeeper a comfortable feeling to know that a platoon of visitors may come in upon her without creating a feeling of dismay as to what she is to do with them. Unless I am greatly mistaken, you will find in less than a month from now that our new house is none too large."

"A month? Oh! that will bring Thanksgiving. Who have you in-"Not anyone, but a large house draws company; your friends have all a standing invitation and we are not likely to be alone. Your brother Francis and his family will all come as usual, as a matter of course.

"Thanksgiving always makes me think of Brother Jude," said the farmer, finishing the raised cake and custard, drinking his tea, folding his napkin, and pushing back from the table. "He always from a child thought so much of Thanksgiving: if he ever comes back home it will be at that "You have great faith, James: Jude has been away more than twenty years. Do you think it possible that he can "More possible than to think he can be dead. He was always so very much alive, full of spring and dance and fun and common sense, too. I have expected him every Thanksgiving since he went away, and I shall expect him this year. "If he thinks of coming I should suppose he would write."

"Oh, that would not be like Jude; he would want to come right in as if he had only been away over night. I remember as if it were yesterday when he went away. It was the morning after Thanksgiving. I had to go to town with a load of corn and started before daylight. As I was getting ready what was my astonishment to have Jude, dressed as he had set out for the ball the night before, take his place on the load beside me, for Brother Jude never liked getting up early in the morning. As we started off he told me that he hadn't been to the ball; that Jane Bruce, the girl he expected to wait upon, had given him the slip and gone with the new schoolmaster, and rather than face the music there would be about it he was going away to teach school himself in New Jersey, and when he got over his mortification he should come back. I suppose he never has got over it, for we never have seen him from that day to this, nor has he ever written, but I ean't help expecting him every Thanks-

"Well, for your sake, I hope that he may come. If he does there is room enough, that is one consolation. He may be married and have a large fam-

'No, Jude would never marry. Wherever he is, he is true to Jane

"And she, poor thing, has had hard life with her intemperate husband and burying him and their chiliren and her own poor health and all I have been thinking of hiring her to help me for a month—that would bridge her over until after Thanksgiving and she has no home of her right; should Jude come never know her name or her face, and if she didn't like being here to wait upon her old lover she could Well, you do best all, James, for planning. I should as soon think of expecting your Aunt Susie Hammond from Bosten as of expecting Jude. I have heard about as much of one as of the other and have never seen either." Strangely enough a week later Aunt Susie Hammond appeared.

"I hear from you sometimes by the way of family friends," she said, "and when news came of your large new house, I said: 'They are sure to have room enough for me, and I am going for a long visit."

"I am glad to see you," said Mrs. Tolman. "James is very fond of company, particularly of family friends with whom he can talk over old times Thanksgiving time, is to be kept for Brother Jude."

"You do not mean to say you have heard from him?" "No, but husband expects him every year, and now that you have come, I have faith to believe it possible for the Jude of whom I have heard so much to

"I hope he will," said Aunt Susie; there is no one whom I should be so glad to see as Jude-Jude, the brother of James, we used to call him"-and thereafter she and Mr. Tolman recalled so many pleasant reminiscences of the wanderer's boyhood and indulged in so many suppositions as to his home coming, that even doubtful Mrs. James found herself planning for the advent of an elegant gentleman, for whom the best her nice new house offered was none too good.

And Jane Bruce, the help, who as a matter of course in those days was made one of the family, listened and put in a word now and then and indulged in her own fancies regarding he coming of her youthful lover.

Several distant relations were invited to meet Aunt Susie, and the family party grew and grew, until, as all the women were helpful and entered with zest into the preparations, and Mrs. James was willing that each should experiment with her own favorite recipe, the house was alive with a genial bustle delightful to social Farmer Tolman, who hindered as much as he helped, perhaps, as he hovered about, making sure that the many cooks had everything at hand to make the feast perfect in its way.

"Where are my best slippers?" he

"That was what gave me courage to come this year. I have been wanting to come every Thanksgiving, but hafdly dared venture; but a few months ago I was converted. Yes, I was," as a murmur of interest ran through the little group.

"It came about this way. A colporteur came along to the poor little factory village where I lived, distributing Bibles and holding meetings, and he talked with me and wanted me of which I know nothing, being a new-to go to one of his meetings, and I said comer in the vicinity. I cannot give you the very best room, for that, at that being my name and a Bible name to go to one of his meetings, and I said too-yes, it is!-and I went, and well-I was converted, and since then I have been preaching, yes, I have! I don't look much like it, perhaps, but I've been sick and had to sell my good clothes to get money to come home, for that was what I had made up my mind to do-and I came."

"That was quite right," said the mistress of the house, "and to-morrow you must speak at our church. We have no minister just now, but there was a Thanksgiving service appointed, and it will be an excellent opportunity for you to begin a work that I trust may continue among us."
"But my clothes are not fit."

"Oh, your brother has plenty of clothes that will be a good fit for you. In fact, he has a new black broadcloth suit he has never worn. I have been teasing him for more than a year to get it and have it ready in case I should die or he should be taken himself, or anything else in particular should happen; and that you should come home a preacher is something so very much in particular that you must wear the suit. But supper is ready; you must be hungry by this time." "Well," he said, soon after supper,

"if I am to preach to-morrow I must make preparations-so I will, if you please, go early to my room, and I should like a Bible, pen, ink and paper -and if it is not too much trouble I should like to try on the suit I am to wear to-morrow-so that I may not feel altogether awkward in them." "You certainly do not intend to put him into that dainty best chamber?" said Aunt Susie to the hostess, as she was carrying the fine black suit up-

"YOU HAVEN'T CHANGED A PARTICLE."

ticipated day. "I must change my shirt and a white necktieootgear; I sterped square into a hot oumpkin pie in the back pantry just him come home a preacher. I shouldn't

"Dear me, James," cried his wife, what could you have been after in the back pantry? The shelves were all crowded full, and I told Jane she would have to set the last ovenful long the floor to cool." "When there is food enough for a egiment one pie more or less does not matter. I thought I would find out without asking if you had made a sweetened chicken pie. I knew I could tell by the smell. Brother Jude was master fond of sweetened chicken

'He's come, Jude has come!" exclaimed Jane, dropping an iron basin of rye and Indian bread she had just taken from the oven; "he's coming up the walk to the dining-room door this minute!

"Oh, no," said Aunt Susie, looking from the window, "that man is too old for Jude, the brother of James." "Of course he's older," half sobbed Jane in excitement: "so be I. So be

"Jude? I guess not; in an old weatherbeaten suit of clothes like that," said the farmer, gazing over the shoulders of the women, but he opened the door. The stranger came in, and, looking about the large cheery room at the group of curious faces, exclaimed: "Why, Jane! Jane Bruce! You haven't

"Neither have you, Jude," cried Jane, being the first to take his hand. 'I knew you the moment I set my eyes on you. "It is a witness of true love," whispered Mrs. James to Aunt Susie. "There was something in each face that could not be changed by the wear and tear of time." After that no one doubted it was Jude, the brother of James; but none of the relations, not even talkative Aunt Susie, knew what to say to him. It was Mrs. James who came to rescue the well-known reputation for hospitality of the house. "Dear Brother Jude," she said, the joyful surprise they have all forgotten to make us acquainted, but I am James' wife. You have been expected home every Thanksgiving since married into the family, and this year we all seemed to have a prestience of your coming. You are

changed a particle!"

"You are very kind, very kind," said the newcomer in a trembling voice, quite broken up by the cordiality of cried the night before the long an- | stairs, with James' very best liner "Oh, yes, indeed; it is so nice to have > wonder if he should marry Jane, after all. How romantic that would be She is a good creature, and they could live here with us if it was necessarythere's room enough." "Well, you are a saint! you are, and no mistake," said Aunt Susie. "The joy of my home-coming is so > great, and the labor of preparing my sermon so considerable, that I fear l shall pass a sleepless night," said Jude, as he stood rubbing his hands before the glowing open fire in the with worshipers, the finest specimens best chamber; 'and I hope no noise that I may make will disturb the fam-

"Oh, certainly not, make yoursel" perfectly at home, and if you w' at bring forth abundantly, that had something to eat go right down in the back pantry and help yourself," said James; and his wife added:

"And if you feel like sleeping in the morning, do so. I can give you your breakfast whenever you come down."

The spirit of the "Harvest Home" was He seemed to be taking the fullest in the fathers and founders of the benefit of this permission, for at ten o'clock he had not appeared, and when the farmer went up to warn him against being late at church, the room was vacant. The high feather bed had not been disturbed, the fire had not been replenished, the old weather-beaten gar ments lay on the hearth. On the table the Bible was open at Jude and the fourth verse was marked around heavily with ink.

"I think it was a judgment," said the farmer; "wife acted so about my getting that black suit. I'm glad they are gone. I feel as if I had taken new lease of life."

"My carpet bag is gone out of the front hall," said one of the guests. "The sweetened chicken pie and on of the pound cakes ain't nowhere, said Jane, coming in from the back pantry. "My purse is gone out of the pocket of my cloak that hung upstairs in the "Was it Jude?" said Mrs. James without mentioning that she had just missed her own highly prized gold watch from the parior lowbuoy.

That was a question that has never been answered. One of the townspeo ple who drove five miles to meeting ple who drove five miles to meeting that morning, as was not uncommon in those days, told of seeing a stranger in black carrying a carpet bag about the time he left home, and the proprietor of the village store confessed that late in the afternoon before Thankagiving a group of neighborhood his reception, and fumbling in value is his pockets for a handkerchief, until a fresh one was adroitly alipped into his hand by Jane, as she came forward to replenish the fire.

"I've had hard luck and I'm pretty poor."

"So was the prodigal," said his sister-in-law, encouragingly.

"That was what gave me courage to the ime warming himself at the box stove, and that as he went out he asked where the Tolmans lived. "But," said where the Tolmans lived. "But," said the saloon keeper, "I know Jude and I never thought of it's being him." "Could it have been?" repeated the farmer, and his wife replied: "Whoever it was, we did our best by him, and if he took advantage of our hospitality it is not our fault. Had it been your brother and had we treated him coldly, it would have been much worse than this. The best rooms have all been used, and my maxim that a large house draws company has proved true. And now if you please we will give Jude, the brother of James, a rest.

"All right," said her husband, "but -was it Jude?"-Annie Preston, in Springfield (Mass.) Republican PAYING UP.

Uncle Joshua Concludes It Is About Time He Remembered His Blessis It all began by Aunt Mandy asking Uncle Joshua, on Thanksgiving eve, what she should have for dinner on the morrow. "Don't see why we should hev anything different from any day," said Uncle Joshua. It must be owned that he was feeling a little "down," and not in a very thankful mood.

"Why, Joshuy, it's Thanksgivin'," said Aunt Mandy, reprovingly. "Wall, all I can say is, then, that we ain't no cause to celebrate." "Joshuy Thornton," cried Aunt Mandy, 'you ain't no call to talk like that jest because crops didn't turn out good on account of drought, an' because old Brindle got killed. I guess if you wuz laid up for months like Sam Higgins, or I wuz took away, or our house should burn down, you'd think that bein' dis'pointed in crops wa'nt nothin'. Now, I've been thinkin' on't, an'

I've a good mind to hev the Higgins children over here to dinner, an' send somethin' to the old folks. It kinder seems to me that we'd ought to do somethin' for somebody in remembrance of the things that's been done

"Now, Mandy, I should really like to know what help we're ever had. I tell you, I've had to dig hard for the little I've got. Nobody's ever died an' left us any money, or give us any to help us out in our hard pinches. We've jest had to hustle for ourselves. Let other people do the same."

"But money ain't the only way to help people," said Aunt Mandy. "I wonder where you'd be to-day if John Ellis didn't git you away from old Farmer Jewett when you wuz a bound boy, an' took you home with him, an treated you like a father?" "Gosh, that wuz the makin' of me," said Uncle Joshua, softening. "Of course it wuz. But you ain't never done nothin' in remembrance of "I know it," said Uncle Joshua. 'An', come to think on't, there was

Abner Wilson, who used to set up with me nights when I had that long spell of sickness, so's you could git some rest, an' wouldn't take no pay."

"Yes," said Aunt Mandy, approvingly, "an' at the time of the freshet, five year ago, Abe Taylor and John Griswold turned in an' helped you set over your corn that the water had lain low. They worked hard an' wouldn't take no pay for it, an' you ain't never done nothin' in remembrance of that yet, either." "Say, Mandy," said Uncle Joshua. with an emphasis that seemed quite unnecessary under the circumstances, "you jest git up the nicest dinner to morrer that you kin possibly do, an' we'll give those Higgins young ones jest the best time they ever had; an' I'll git the biggest basket on the farm to fix up old Sam an' his wife. Reckon it's about time I paid up some of the debts I thought I didn't owe, an' this seems to be erbout the only way to de

it."-American Agriculturist. ANTEDATES THE PILGRIMS. Our Thanksgiving Day Really Had Its Origin in the Harvest Home of Merri

It is sometimes claimed that Thanksgiving day is exclusively an American institution, all of which is not wholly true. Long before the Pilgrim Fathers braved the storms of the Atlantic in the memorable year 1620, the land from which they came had made much of the ingathering of the harvest. The Harvest Home celebrations of Mer rie England were occasions not to be dispised. The churches were crowded of the produce of the fields were heaped about the altar and the day be gan by the recognition of the Divine goodness that had made the land to clothed the hills with flocks and made the valleys smile with golden corn. Then came the feastings and the merrymaking, the music and the dancing. All the land was glad and grateful. The spirit of the "Harvest Home" was great republic. They believed in God with a belief that was strong enough to inspire their motives and govern all their life. They wrote His name in broad bold characters on Plymouth Rock, and laid the foundations of this great empire in the fear and faith of Him. Out of all this sprung our national institution of Thanksgiving day; the form of which changes with other changing elements; but the spirit of which we may well hope will never die.-Saturday Evening Herald.

"That's the chap what was always a pokin' fun at me 'cause I kept from eatin' all the atuff they gave me: I knowed what I was about. They returning. Hood's Sar-saparilla is doing my wife a world of good for That Tired Fee ing. GEORGE H. DIETTERICH, Hobbie, Pa Hood's Pills are emclent and gentle. 250.

The Plain Facts lood's Sarsa-Long m

What better way to spend the winter evenings than in following The Campaigns of Napoleon

General! First Consul! Emperor!

A Lifethat reads like a Romance— Napoleon's School Days—His Early Vicissitudes — Military Training—The Reign of Terror-Josephine-Marriage and Divorce-Maria Teresa-His Divorce — Maria Teresa — His Egyptian Campaign — The Battle of the Pyramids — Marengo — Austerlitz — Jena — Wagram — The Invasion of Russia — The Burning of Moscow — The Re-treat — Elba — The Hundred Days — Waterloo — Exile — Death.

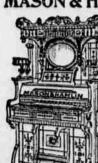

No matter how much you have read of Napoleon this New Life by Prof. Sloane of Princeton will interest you. Here is the concentration of all the lives and memoirs, magnificently illustrated, accurate in every particular, absorbing in interest. The latest and best biography of "the man of destiny." Now beginning in the CENTURY

MAGAZINE. For sale by all newsdealers and booksellers. Price 35 cents. A year's subscription, $4.00. THE CENTURY CO.

Publishers : Union Sq. : New York.

You want an Organ. Of course You want the BEST. The MASON & HAMLIN has won

HONORS At All Important World's Fairs since that of Paris, 1867, in-cluding Chicago, 1893, and is absolutely UNRIVALLED. dealer does not sell cur Planes and Organs, we will send on approvat direct from factory, to responsible parties, at our expense. Write for particulars.

HIGHEST

New Style 2027. Write for particular. New Styles at Popular Prices just out. Sold on our Easy Payment Plan or Rensed until purchased. Catalogues free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN & PIANO CO.,

DOUCLAS S3 SHOE NO SQUEAKING