INSTALLING BOILER FOR SWIMMING POOL

Tank in Y.M.C.A. Building Expected to be Ready for Use September 15.

HOLDS 35,000 GALLONS

Tickets Will be Issued for Its Use—Five "Swims" for Twenty-Five Cents.

A large iron boiler is now being installed in the furnace room of the Y. M. C. A. building to heat the water for the swimming pool, which will be open September 15. The water in the pool will be heated to about 80 degrees before being pumped into the tank.

The pool is in the basement of the building and is 20 by 40 feet. It will hold about 35,000 gallons of water. When full, the water in the pool will be from 4 to 8 feet deep.

The Y. M. C. A. will issue tickets for swimming in the pool to students of the University of Missouri who are members of the association. A ticket for 5 "swims" will be sold for 25 cents. There is a dressing room in the basement which will accommodate all the men who can use the pool at once. Each man will be required to take a shower bath before going into the water. Towels will be furnished in the dressing room.

Open in the Afternoon.

A man will be in charge of the pool to see that none stay in the water too long and to keep the water at the proper temperature. The pool will be open from 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock at night.

"We may open the pool in the morning later on," said J. S. Moore today, "but I do not think the demand will justify it yet. Two new pool tables probably will be put in the basement of the building and the same man that oversees the swimming pool will be in charge of them and the bowling alleys."

GERMAN WOMEN AS SOLDIERS

Militant Suffragists Wish to Enlist Same as the Men.

BERLIN—German Suffragists are proceeding with their propaganda in a less violent way than their British sisters. Before they vote they wish to be of practical service to the state. Primarily, it is suggested that women should be utilized for ambulance work and also for certain auxiliary departments of the army, such as the commissariat and similar sections of a country's military forces.

The feminists maintain, however, that even to perform such auxiliary and supplementary duties would necessitate a thorough knowledge of the use of modern weapons, because there are cases of emergency in which auxiliary troops might find it necessary to defend themselves against some sudden and unexpected attack, consequently a demand is put forward for the military training of all girls in all the schools of the country, public and private alike. The feminists propose that the girls should be drilled and trained in the use of rifles and revolvers sufficiently to enable them to use such weapons in circumstances of urgent necessity. The employment of women in the auxiliary departments of the army would increase the number of combatants available for service in the front fighting line and ought, therefore, they say, to be warmly welcomed by every government and every minister.

Some feminists go still further than this and demand that women should become soldiers in precisely the same way as men and that they should share all the hardships and dangers of active service in the fighting line, and that they should be compelled to undergo the same period of compulsory service as men. The idea in this case is that military service ought to be rendered before marriage, but it is not quite clear what would be done in the case of women who enter matrimony at an early age.

The new demand for the extension of compulsory military service to women is being eloquently voiced by feminists in Germany, but so far public opinion regards the whole scheme as an immense joke.—Boston Herald.

THE WALKING HONEYMOON

A German Custom Favored by Young Couples Who Want to Save Money.

The walking honeymoon is a custom. Young couples who prefer to keep their money or who haven't any for a wedding trip by train, saving knapsacks over their shoulders on the wedding day and set out for a week's tramp, stopping over night at the roadside tavern. I remember being told a story in the Bavarian Alps of the gloomy young man whose extreme melancholy at the village inn caused sympathetic inquiries. He confessed that he had been married the day before to the belle of the village, and as they didn't have means for both of them to take a wedding trip, he had been obliged to tramp alone.

The principle of utility of training the youth into material for a good soldier and into a subject who will be qualified to contribute to the collective good of the state, inspires the German gymnastic system, the system which American turners at the great Frankfurt tournament last year found to be unconquerable. The American or the English athlete, because of the development of his individuality under different school and social conditions, will not surrender himself unreservedly into the hands of the instructor. He thinks he knows better how the exercise should be taken and the feat performed than the instructor, that the instructor's method is all very well for other persons or very good for the average pupil, but that he knows better how he should do the thing. The German does the exercise as he is taught, machine-like possibly, but with highly trained precision. The team work is excellent. Germany, outside the schools, has 3,000 gymnastic clubs with 502,000 men in them.

The cherry blossoms are now in bloom at Werder, a village and district about ten miles from Berlin. The newspapers have been publishing bulletins for days regarding the progress of the buds and speculating on the days they would be at their perfection with somewhat the same earnestness as the betting chances on the futurity are calculated. The emperor and the empress have been to see them, and on the same day were probably a quarter of a million Berliners.—Elmer Roberts, in Collier's Weekly.

In the Circuit Court, in vacation before October Term, 1910.

John C. Schwabe and James W. Schwabe, Plaintiffs, against Caroline Hay and Henry Hay, her husband, and Geoffrey Dressell and Daniel Dressell, minors, Defendants.

The State of Missouri, to the above-named defendants, Caroline Hay and Henry Hay, her husband, Greeting: Now on this 28th day of July, 1910, in vacation before the October Term, 1910, of the Circuit Court of Boone County, Missouri, come the plaintiffs herein, by their attorneys, and file their petition in suit herein, and in said petition state among other things, that defendants Caroline Hay and her husband, Henry Hay, are non-residents of the State of Missouri, and the ordinary process cannot be served upon them.

It is therefore ordered by the clerk of said court, in vacation, that the said defendants be notified by publication that the plaintiffs, by petition herein filed, of date July 28th, 1910, have commenced against them an action at law, the immediate object and general nature of which is to enforce and establish a lawful right, claim and demand to and against certain real estate within the jurisdiction of this court, to-wit: an action to obtain a judgment of partition and order of sale of the following described real estate, lying, being and situate in Boone County, Missouri, to-wit: The North half of Lot Number Nine (9), containing one and one-half acres more or less, in Stephens' Addition to the Town now City of Columbia, Boone County, Missouri.

It is further ordered that said defendants be and appear in this court, on the first day of the next term thereof, to be held at the Court House in the City of Columbia, Boone County, Missouri, on Monday, the 3rd day of October, 1910, to answer or plead to said petition, or in default therein said petition will be taken and adjudged as confessed, and judgment by default will be rendered against said defendants.

It is further ordered that a copy hereof be duly published at least once a week for four weeks successively, in the University Missourian, a daily newspaper printed, published and circulated in said Boone County, and designated by plaintiffs' attorney as most likely to give notice to said defendants; the last insertion to be at least thirty days before said next term of said court.

A true copy from the record:

Witness my hand as Clerk of the Circuit Court for Boone County, Missouri, and the seal of said Court, Done at office in Columbia, Missouri, this 28th day of July, 1910.

I NAN AFRICAN VILLAGE

A Duchess Tells of Women Grinding Corn—Babies Hop Like Frogs.

LAKE KIFUNABULI—The lake by which we are camped is separated from Lake Bangweulu by two points, or narrow peninsulas, that nearly meet and divide the two lakes. Today we forsake the road, to do a stake by water in the shaly canoes. I spend my time making superhuman efforts to keep my cartridges and camera dry. It is a difficult problem, for the "sea" is rough. To ripples have succeeded real waves, which lift the little shifts like feathers, and let them fall with great splashes that drench us. Or else we cut through a wave, which comes in by the bows and deluges us. The baggage caravan travels by land. It is no end warm. We coast along the shore, which is much populated. Almost every mile there is a big village, whose inhabitants crowd to watch our passing, and to greet us. We see many fishermen, men and boys, who fish from their canoes with rods and lines just as we used to make when we were children.

In the villages the women are crouching, grinding the corn or manioc for flour. The black babies are delightful little animals that hop and jump like so many frogs. Creeping stealthily round a hut, I have time to photograph one before he sees me and throws away his pestle, yelling—a very small child in the act of solemnly trying to lift the heavy piece of wood that serves to pound the grain. He is all alone, naked in the sunlight in the middle of the village, and very busy. But directly he sees me, he runs off, screaming, "Mamma! Mamma!" What white mother's heart is not moved by these simple syllables—the same that little-loved ones have murmured against her shoulder? Is it not a touching fact that all over the world, in every tongue, children give this same name to her who gave them birth?

There are sometimes faces full of character among the old men, on whom Time has left his mark, and whom Death has forgotten in the premature harvest that he reaps pitilessly among a black population.

NOTICE

We have purchased the interest of our former partner, Mr. J. K. Pyfer, in the real estate, loan and insurance business, at No. 19 South 9th street, and will continue to do a real estate, loan and insurance business at the same location. We will take care of all the business entrusted to the old firm and solicit new business. Will try to give entire satisfaction in all our dealings. We represent some of the strongest fire insurance companies in the field today. If you insure with us and have a loss we promise prompt settlement of the same. Are agents for the Fidelity and Casualty Co., of New York, the best company in this line. Also agents for Lloyd's Plate Glass Co., the largest company writing this line of insurance; American Bonding Company, of Baltimore, none better; write deeds, chattels, contracts, collect accounts. Come and see us when in need of anything in our line. We will make a specialty of selling or renting city property. List your property with us. (adv.)
