

EVERY MINUTE HERE A DELIGHT-BARONESS

Only Thing That Marred Her Visit Was Defeat of the Tigers.

NEW PEACE SOCIETY

Many Columbians Are Officers of the State Organization.

A number of Columbians were made officers or put on the advisory board of the Missouri Peace Society which was organized in St. Louis yesterday. The officers are:

Richard Bartholdt, St. Louis, president; Henry M. Beardley, Kansas City, and Dr. R. H. Jesse, Columbia, vice-presidents; M. O. Hudson, Columbia, secretary; Robert S. Brookings, St. Louis, treasurer. On the advisory boards are: A. Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, Dean Isador Loeb, Dean Walter Williams, Dean W. W. Charters, E. W. Stephens, and G. B. Macfarlane.

The state society was organized at the City Club luncheon, at which were about 100 persons from all parts of Missouri. The Baroness von Suttner, who visited Columbia last Saturday, made an address and gave $50 to the new society. A. St. Louisian, who will not allow his name to be mentioned, gave $100.

The Missouri Peace Society was organized as a permanent organ of the American Peace Society and enrolled as a member of the Baroness von Suttner League.

Last September, the Columbia Peace Society was organized, being the outgrowth of plans for the entertainment of the Baroness von Suttner. The object of the society is "to promote international good will and peace, and to educate public opinion in opposition to war as a means of settling international differences and in favor of arbitration and other pacific substitutes for war." It proposes to hold annually a public meeting, to entertain distinguished peace workers, and to insist upon a proper presentation of international issues at public celebrations held on such occasions as the Fourth of July.

Just what will be the relation of the Columbia Peace Society to the Missouri society has not yet been decided by the former. The state society, however, made provision for sections to be organized in local communities.

Speaking in St. Louis yesterday of her Columbia visit, the Baroness said that with no other inland town which she and her party had visited, had they been so impressed.

"Every minute of it was a delight," she said, "The only thing which marred it was that Missouri did not come out victorious in the football game."

She took a keen pleasure in the game and spoke of it many times.

Stephen A. Underwood, principal of the Westport High School in Kansas City, father of George A. Underwood, instructor in French here and of Stephen A. Underwood, Jr., a student in the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri, died yesterday in Granby, Mo., where he was visiting another son, Jerald R. Underwood. He left Kansas City Friday, accompanied by his wife. He apparently was in good health when he left. At 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon he became ill and died three hours later. His death was caused by uraemic poisoning.

Mr. Underwood was 61 years old and was born in Will County, Illinois. He was educated in Iowa and came to Missouri in 1870 to teach school. He was at one time principal of the Joplin High School, and was one of the organizers of the Missouri Teachers' Association.

CLASS FOOTBALL THIS WEEK

Sophomores Will Play Juniors, and Seniors the Freshmen Saturday.

Class football will begin next Saturday with games between sophomores and juniors, and seniors and freshmen. A committee composed of one representative from each class met last Saturday and decided that two games are to be played on each Saturday the Tigers are out of town. That good sweaters may be provided for the winners, 25 cents will be charged for two games, played continuously on the same day, alternating halves.

This year the men will be classified according to scholastic standing and not according to the number of years they have been in school. No man will be allowed to represent two classes.

The juniors will play the freshmen and the seniors the sophomores, November 9, the day Missouri plays Drake at Des Moines. During the week previous to the Kansas game, while the Tigers are out of town, the sophomores and the freshmen and the seniors and the juniors will play.

The scrubs have about enough sophomores and juniors to make up their class teams and the freshman team will be taken from those who are out for freshman football. The committee has made a rule that no game should be postponed. If a team fails to show up the game will be forfeited. The captains will be elected when the men come together for practice. Last year the freshmen and sophomores tied in the first game. The sophomores won in a later game, 5 to 0.

TO MAKE IT THE BIGGEST Y. M. C. A.

Eight Hundred Members Is the Goal of the University Association.

TO START CAMPAIGN

Cost of Membership Is Reduced to Reach All Men.

The largest student Young Men's Christian Association in the West is the goal of the Y. M. C. A. membership campaign which begins tomorrow noon. This means that 800 members must be obtained. Newspaper and other advertising as well as a systematic campaign will be used to accomplish this result.

The first newspaper advertising that the Association has ever used in Columbia is being used in this campaign. The first advertisement appeared in yesterday's Missourian. This was followed with the distribution of a four page, illustrated folder today, on "Student Life in the Association Building."

One hundred men have been organized into ten teams for the systematic canvass of the school for members. The captains in charge of each team are: V. C. Follenius, A. J. Accola, A. M. Finley, G. A. Goodson, E. Paul Steele, H. C. Taylor, Milton E. Bernet, R. C. Bennett, Knox Alexander and W. W. Chiles. Active competition between teams is expected and prizes have been offered for the best individual record.

The daily report of the progress of the campaign, which is to last four days, will be kept before the students by a big bulletin which will show just what is done each day. This will be placed where it will be before as many students as possible.

Wednesday noon all the men on the campaign committee will meet in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium for luncheon and to plan the work. P. F. Trowbridge, chairman of the advisory board of the Association, and Prof. A. W. Taylor of the Bible College will speak to the men. Each day of the campaign the committee will meet at luncheon to report and to talk over their problems, just like a bunch of book agents in a new territory.

Missouri spirit is appealed to to make this Association the largest in the western universities. If the association gets 800 members Missouri will easily lead all west of the Mississippi. Kansas Y. M. C. A. has 525 members, Nebraska, 200, California, 625, Minnesota, 738, Illinois 636, Wisconsin, 965, and Michigan, 1130.

The membership fee has been reduced from $3 to $2 that this goal might be reached and that the Association may reach as large a number of men as possible.

The officers of the Association are: President, Gran A. Goodson; vice-president, Milton E. Bernet; treasurer, R. W. Gray; recorder, W. E. Hall. The other members of the cabinet are Victor C. Follenius, A. J. Accola, R. G. Thompson, H. C. Taylor, Glenn Babb, Roy A. Kinnard, A. M. Finley and George Breece. The general secretary is J. S. Moore; secretary of the employment bureau, E. Paul Steele; secretary to Methodist students, Rush H. Limbaugh; secretary to Presbyterian students, A. W. Wolfe; financial secretary, C. H. White; and social secretary, C. M. Elliott.

COURT BEAUTIES IN PICTURES HERE

Six Famous Artists Represented in M. U. Exhibit This Week.

IN ACADEMIC HALL

Mezzotints, Etchings and Engravings Show Eighteenth Century Ideas.

In the exhibit of mezzotints, etchings, stipple engravings and photogravures at the University six of the greatest masters of the eighteenth century are represented. There are twelve copies of pictures by Thomas Gainsborough, fifteen by Hoppner, fifteen by Sir Thomas Lawrence, four by Raeburn, nineteen by Reynolds and twenty-seven by Romney. Most of the pictures are of famous court beauties of the eighteenth century.

There are twelve pictures of Lady Hamilton, who was born of poor peasant parents and became the wife of an English nobleman. Later she influenced the life of Captain Horatio Nelson. She was the favorite model of Romney and critics have said that her face haunts all his pictures.

Mrs. Robinson, better known as Perdita, is another whose portrait appears often. She was the favorite of George IV when he was Prince of Wales and for two years was the reigning beauty of fashionable London. She was unquestionably beautiful, but more in face than in figure. She first attracted the attention of George IV while acting the part of Perdita in Shakespeare's play. He gave her a pension of 500 pounds a year for life and 200 pounds a year for her daughter.

The "Blue Boy"

One of Gainsborough's best known pictures is the "Blue Boy," the original of which was Jonathan Buttall, the son of a wealthy ironmonger of London. In Gainsborough's picture, the boy is dressed in a blue satin coat and knee breeches. He is standing bare-headed in the open air, his plumed heaver hat held in his right hand. It is said that Gainsborough painted this to refute Sir Joshua Reynolds's statement that masses of light in a picture ought always to be of warm yellow colors such as yellow, red or yellowish white, and the blue, gray or green colors should be kept almost entirely out of these masses and be used only to support and set off the warm colors.

Dr. John Pickard, of the University, says the portraits of this period were good but not realistic. But it was the fashion of the time for the women to be a bit theatrical. The mezzotint lends itself best to these portraits, for there is a softness and delicacy in this style. In pure mezzotint there are no lines, the outlines are soft and blurry and there are masses of light and shade. Thus the mezzotint cannot be used to express energy and sometimes lines have been added to the mezzotint to give strength, precision and decision.

How They Are Made.

In making the mezzotint, three are used, a metal plate, usually copper, a chisel and a burnisher. The metal plate is "rooked" all over with the chisel many times until a short burr sticks up over the whole surface. If inked now the plate would give a deep soft black. Where the artist wants white, he scrapes off all the burr and furnishes the metal. Where gray tints are wanted, only part of the burr is removed. In this manner the artist produces his picture upon the metal.

In a wood cut, the sketch is first made on the block of wood, then the background is cut away. The sketch of course has to be reversed. The lines in a wood cut are relatively coarse compared with those on a metal plate. The ink is put on the raised outlines in the wood cut and the pictures are printed from them.

In an etching, the metal is covered with a wax upon which the sketch is made. The plate is then put in an acid and the metal is eaten out along these lines. There is also dry point etching where the metal is scratched upon with a needle. This gives a sort of burred edge making the edges or lines of the picture soft and blurry.

APPEAL FOR THE CONCERTS

Business Men Ask Columbia People to Support Phi Mu Alpha.

The directors and members of the Columbia Commercial Club issued an appeal today to Columbia people for support of the Phi Mu Alpha concerts. Everyone who can, including the banks and merchants, are urged to buy season tickets and assist in the sale of tickets. The resolutions say:

"Except in St. Louis and Kansas City, this is the only community in Missouri last year which had an opportunity to hear the great Kubelik whose fame is as wide as the world. On December 11th the Phi Mu Alpha Society will bring to Columbia the famous Madame Gadski, the great dramatic soprano who sings to the most exclusive audiences in the United States and Europe. Certainly these are things which add vastly to the interest and culture of our city—which spread its fame far and wide are truly worth while. As these phases of our community life become better known throughout the state it is certain to attract to us many new families who will prove a valuable community asset.

"The Phi Mu Alpha Society is not a money making enterprise. Every dollar left in its treasury means that so much more will be spent on the entertainments for the following year. Every great musical booking agency in the country knows the fine audiences we have here. It is due to its untiring work that such world renowned artists as Micha Elman, Bispham, Kubelik and Gadski are brought within our midst and that others of like celebrity will be brought here in the future."

These sign the appeal: Curtis Rollins, James Taylor, R. B. Price, Jack Hetzler, J. A. Hudson, C. B. Bowling, H. H. Banks, Frank Dearing, W. B. Palmer, W. B. Nowell, F. W. Poor, Isidore Barth, E. M. Watson, H. F. Childers, Fount Rothwell, J. P. McBaine, Boyle G. Clark, William Hirth, S. F. Conley, W. T. Anderson, J. P. Hetzler, J. D. VanHorn, W. E. Weir, N. T. Gentry, Lee Walker, H. B. Kline, J. W. Robinson, Sykes & Broadhead Clo. Co., W. B. Allen, Claud Wheeler, Branham, Hinkle Garment Co., Hays & Smith, Alex Bradford, Jr., S. C. Hunt, J. B. Cole, C. C. Howard.

PAUL THOMPSON ITS EDITOR

Savitar Board Elects Officials and Discusses Plans.

The 1912 Savitar will be a larger book than that of last year, according to the board. It is planned to make the Savitar contain about fifty more pages, and the cuts of organizations will be larger. New sections will be added, and there will be a different arrangement of the old. "We want everybody represented in the Savitar," said a member of the board this morning. Extra work will be done to get pictures of every man of the classes running individual pictures. The Savitar has been sanctioned by the Retail Merchants' Association. This insures the board the co-operation of the advertisers. The price of the book will be $2.00 as before.

The board organized last night at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. and elected these officers on the editorial staff: editor-in-chief, Paul J. Thompson. Journalism, Kahoka; associate editor, Henry G. Satterlee, Arts and Science, Webb City; art editor, J. G. SeEVERS, Medicine, Osceola; photographic editor, F. R. Dumcan, Engineering, Pierce City.

COURT ORDER IN GRAVEL ROAD CASE

Assets of Old Corporation To Be Administered—Means the End.

OTHER COURT CASES

University Condemnation Proceedings Against J. A. Heibel Dismissed.

The president and directors of the Rocheport toll road were directed by the Boone County Circuit Court today to administer the assets of the corporation which has been dissolved. Sallie Mitchell, one of the stockholders, was not in the county when the other members had agreed to the dissolution. In the case she consented to have all final orders and judgments entered at this term of court. This means the "beginning of the end" of a toll road half a century old.

The Board of Curators of the University of Missouri had a condemnation suit in court against J. A. Heibel. The curators were unable to buy fifty acres of land owned by Mr. Heibel on Providence road just beyond the Hinkson Creek. The board wanted it for a rifle range for the Missouri State Military School. The curators had the land surveyed and offered the owner $50 an acre which was refused. The condemnation case was dismissed today.

Edwin Lancaster, negro, accuses Levi Williams, another negro, of holding him up on Broadway last November. Williams says it was all a joke and that there was no intention of harming the man. Lancaster does not think it a joke. He says there were two negro women with Williams who tried to cut him with a razor and Williams threatened to shoot him. Lancaster was collecting for a music house at the time, he says, but got away without the negroes taking his money.

The court gave J. H. Phillips judgment on an account of $130.87 which he claimed due him from J. A. Stewart for grading and construction work. He was given credit with a counter claim of $17.50.

WILL SELL UNIVERSITY LAND

Small Lots to Actual Settlers, Is Curators' Plan.

In the report of the last meeting of the Board of Curators mention was made of the fact that there were 54,000 acres of land belonging to the University to be sold. This land will be sold in small lots to actual settlers. No active agent has as yet been appointed, the executive of the board acting in that capacity at present.

The next meeting of the board will be held in Kansas City on December 22. It is about this time that the high schools of that city have what they call University Day, at which time the University officials visit the schools there. The most important matter to come before the board at this meeting is the discussion of the budget of the biennial report to be made to the General Assembly.
