TOTAL $100 PRIZES FOR GRAIN JUDGING

Contest Is Open to All Students in the College of Agriculture.

GRAND PRIZE VASE

There Will Be Individual Rewards for Those Making High Scores.

A hundred dollars in prizes for grain judging is offered to agricultural students, through J. C. Hackleman, instructor in Agronomy. The contest is open to all students in the College of Agriculture. Those who won prizes last year will not be allowed to compete for the same prizes this year. The total possible score for all classes will be 2,000 points, divided as follows: corn, 600 points; commercial grading, 600 points; wheat, 400 points. Fifty percent will be allowed for placing, thirty percent for reasons and twenty percent for answers to questions.

The grand prize is a vase, eighteen inches high, worth $25, with the winner's name carved on it. It is offered by the Missouri Corn Growing Association. The reserve grand prize, a silver vase worth $15, is offered to the student winning the second highest score. The third grand prize is a silver vase worth $10.

Individual prizes also are offered. For the highest score in corn, a solid gold watch fob, worth $15, is offered by the Kansas City Board of Trade; for the highest score in commercial grading, a solid gold watch fob worth $15, is offered by the St. Louis Grain Exchange; for the highest score in wheat judging, a gold watch fob, worth $10 is offered by the Pierce Publishing Co., Des Moines, Iowa; for the highest score in oat judging, a gold watch fob worth $10, is offered by the Crop Improvement Committee of Missouri.

F. D. Duley won the grand prize last year, Chester Matheny the reserve grand prize, W. W. Fuqua the third grand prize, J. D. Blackwell the corn judging contest, L. Moomaw the commercial grading contest, L. N. Graves the wheat judging contest and V. R. Wilson the oat judging contest.

J. C. Hackleman organized these contests last year and forty-four students tried for prizes. All students wishing to enter should see Mr. Hackleman before noon Friday. The contest will be held in the basement of the Agricultural Building Saturday.

THE MOUNDS AS A STAGE

Ben Greet and His Players to Appear in Open Air Plays.

Ben Greet and his Woodland Players will stage their out-of-doors plays on the University campus north of the Columns. The mounds will be the stage and the Columns, banked with green boughs, will serve as a background.

The company will present "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "She Stoops to Conquer," and "The Tempest." Performances will be given Friday night, May 29 and Saturday afternoon and night, May 30. Tickets will be on sale tomorrow.

The Ben Greet players have visited Columbia before, but this year, for the first time, Ben Greet himself will be seen. Mr. Greet is the originator of the open-air play, given without complex stage settings. He has appeared at every university and college in the United States, Canada and England in the last twenty-seven years. Last summer he played on the White House grounds in Washington and was highly praised by President Wilson.

CLASS OF 1914 HAS WON MANY HONORS

Seniors Prominent in Athletic, Fraternal and Other Student Activities.

ABOUT 475 MEMBERS

Nearly Every School and Department Shows Steady Increase.

The class of 1914, approximating 475, is the largest graduating class the University has ever had. A material increase is shown in most of the different schools and departments. In the College of Arts and Science there are 176 candidates for graduation. A few of these have already completed their requirements. These candidates will receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Seventy-four seniors are candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education. Of these many have applied for life certificates in teaching. Twenty-six have applied for the two-year certificate.

In the School of Engineering there are 63 candidates for the various degrees. Seventeen are candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering; 12 for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering; 22 for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering; 2 for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Chemical Engineering; 2 for the degree of Mechanical Engineer; 1 for the degree of Civil Engineer, and 7 for the degree of Electrical Engineer.

Agriculture Has Its Largest Class.
Twenty-five seniors are candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws. There are 22 candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Journalism. Seventeen seniors will receive a two-year medical certificate from the School of Medicine. There are 76 candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture, the largest class ever graduated from the College of Agriculture.

Two students from far eastern countries will be graduated, Hiromi Tschuydu, a Japanese, from the College of Arts and Science and Oong Hyen Tsang, a Chinese, from the College of Agriculture.

Honors in various stock shows have been won by members of the 1914 class in agriculture. This year's Farmers' Fair, given by the senior agricultural students, was the most successful since the Fair was started eight years ago.

Some of the Athletes.

A number of 1914 students have achieved success in athletics. "Chuck" Wilson, Gallagher, Kemper, McWilliams and Moore were the stars of the champion Missouri Valley football team. In basketball Bernet captained the team. Next year the University of Missouri students will miss many familiar faces in the track meets. Thatcher, captain, Hutsell, Moss and Terry are last year men. In baseball Hall, captain, Angerer, Woolsey, and Gray are the 1914 representatives.

The class of 1914 has contributed generously to the honor fraternities, debating societies, student organizations, and the student activities in general.

The officers of the senior class are John P. Rhoades, president; C. W. Pollock, vice-president; F. R. Deaton, treasurer; Mabel Hurst, secretary; and Hazel Summerfield, historian.

A fountain, to be placed in the new library building, will be the memorial for the class of 1914. A sketch has been submitted by James H. Jamison, of St. Louis. The fountain will be made of marble and will be placed on a pilaster in the wall. Directly in front of the fountain will be the west stairway. At the top of the stairway stained glass windows will throw different lights on the fountain. It is suggested by the class of 1914 that the following class of 1915 place a similar fountain at the east stairway.

"NICK" IN A TRACK POSTER

Former Missouri Star Used to Advertise Meet.

"I wonder if it's Nick."
"It looks like Nick."
"Sure it's Nick."

And it is Nick. Posters advertising the annual Missouri Valley Conference track and field meet, to be held on Francis Field, Washington University, St. Louis, Saturday, May 30, bear a very life-like picture of the former Missouri track captain, John P. Nicholson.

The illustration, which is labeled "The Varsity Comet," portrays Nicholson in the air immediately above a hurdle. Several of the posters have been placed in the show-windows downtown.

TENNIS TEAM AT ST. LOUIS

Woods and Loomis Win First Two Rounds in Valley Doubles.

A telegram received yesterday by Prof. C. L. Brewer from Charles Woods, captain of the tennis team, said that Woods and Loomis had won the first and second rounds in the doubles, and were to meet Washington University that afternoon in the Missouri Valley tennis tournament at St. Louis. In the first round of the singles both Woods and Loomis won, but both lost in the second. Loomis was defeated in the second round by Teacher of Kansas and Woods by Hoehr of Washington.

"It looks as if Washington is in the lead and Missouri second," said Professor Brewer yesterday morning. "If Missouri beats Washington in the finals today we have a chance to win or tie in the tournament."

The seven schools entered in the tournament are: Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Kansas Agricultural College, Ames, Washington and Drake.

"WEARY WILLIES" YESTERDAY

Made-up Hobos Parade and Hit Back Doors for "Eats."

The hobos rode into town yesterday on the Centralia Limited by way of More's station. About 100 made-up "weary Willies" took part in the parade. Tin cans, cracked derbies, suffragets and Missouri mules were features.

Shot full of the wanderlust, the students roamed all day, hitting back doors and "mooching" eats. Things came to a climax with an entertainment at 2 o'clock in the auditorium, where characteristic hobo life was pictured and burlesqued.
