

FARMERS' UNION.

By FARMERS' UNION PUBL. CO.

At a recent meeting of the New York reform club, a letter was read from Ex-President Cleveland, in which he took strong grounds against the free coinage of silver.

The farmers' alliance, of Kansas, has presented a bill to the legislature of that state, which provides that no railroad company shall charge or receive a rate in excess of 2 cents per mile for transportation of any passenger of 12 years of age, nor in excess of one-half that sum per any passenger of 12 years or under.

A long article from the Centerville, (Ia.) Citizen is re-published in this issue. The Citizen is Republican, but its editor is a deep and advanced thinker and sees the want of a law similar to Stanford's loan bill.

Rev. J. H. Kyle, the alliance candidate for U. S. Senator in South Dakota, was elected to that position by the legislature of that state Monday.

According to the War department, in case of any difficulty, Missouri could put 350,000 first class soldiers in the field. The total vote of Missouri is 525,000, so that if necessary, it could organize even a greater army.

The latest statistics on the subject say the number of Indians in the United States who can read English is 23,000, the number who can read Indian languages is over 10,000.

Two illustrious characters have gone off the stage of action—Gen. W. L. Sherman and Admiral Porter, the past week. They were among the most prominent men made by the late rebellion.

Senator Hearst of California is a native of Missouri, and is probably the only man which this state ever produced who has been able to accumulate 20 million dollars.

The St. Louis Post Dispatch charges the whitewash given Noland embezzlement to the Farmers' Alliance. The Post-Dispatch is a humorist paper, which is second to none.

Of the thirteen Alliance members elected to congress last fall five are from Kansas. Georgia sends three, Nebraska two, Minnesota one and South Carolina one.

The Alliance seems to be getting a footing down in Oklahoma. The Kirksville band has been re-organized.

If the American press and people would waste less time and sympathy for the Russian Jews, and devote more energy toward bettering the condition of the American pauper, they would not only enforce the old adage that "charity begins at home," but would find plenty to do and that at once.

We assert that the present financial system is down-right robbery, and that it will sooner or later make slaves of every wealth producer in this country. The fight is on us—let us make it red hot.

It has been suggested in many of the counties in Missouri, that the officers give one day's salary to the home for ex-Confederates. The state officers from governor down, set the example.

The Missouri state militia is composed of 154 commissioned officers, 400 noncommissioned officers, 71 major and 1,533 privates.

Stanford's 2 Per Cent. Loan.

A great majority of those who express themselves on the financial question seem to have arrived at the conclusion that the present system is perfect, or at least that is the direction in which all their argument leads.

It is strange how many countrymen who have a particular trade preference without work, and consequently without money, rather than do any "job" which they consider a little beneath them.

There was a half-dilapidated arbor on the city woman's place which, after an unsuccessful attempt to cover it with vines, she decided to have pulled down.

The insurance business of the country—life and fire—is in the aggregate immense. The whole capital involved is estimated at $1,500,000,000 and the risks amount to $1,000,000,000.

This is an enormous waste which might be saved if the various State governments and the National Government would establish insurance bureaus as has been done in some European countries.

The People Want More Money. This is no May-day affair or jolly picnic. Its gravity and practical importance is unquestionable.

To grow is one of the joys of life, according to a commuter on this city. He is even willing to pay for it apparently, for at the beginning of the year, an official on the road having offered him an annual pass, he declined to accept it.

Why should the United States borrow money when it has full power to make it? Why should the farmer be oppressed and robbed of his home caused by an inadequate volume of currency when congress has unlimited power to coin money?

responsibility upon the government as to impoverish its credit? Let us compare notes before answering this question. By referring to the census report we find that the total amount of mortgage indebtedness of the entire country reaches the sum of $50,000,000.

Compliments and Withers.

Call it "clamor" if you will. For ourselves we choose to call it "the demand," and that is just what it is. The people "demand" five coinsage. There is no sin in that, certainly, and we may repeat it as often as the emergency arises that makes it opportune.

The Clamor for Silver Coinage.

Call it "clamor" if you will. For ourselves we choose to call it "the demand," and that is just what it is. The people "demand" five coinsage.

They do not "clamor" in the sense intended by the writer of that word. But they do mean to be understood as in earnest, when they demand "more money."

The mean it, and are ready with any amount of repetition that may be necessary. They will iterate and reiterate it at all proper times and on all suitable occasions.

This is no fool's play. But bimetallic and "more money" they will have. If not just now, then by and by. The will and determination has been formed. If the present congress will not give it to us the next year, so clear the way.

The great parties must submit to the people's will or go down. Look out for 1892. Be assured silver will show its hand and make it felt in that campaign.—National View.

Blind Boon gave one of his popular columns to a good audience last Thursday night. Boon is a success. There is a progressive vein about his performances, and those who have heard him before say that he continues to improve.

A marriage recently took place at Silver Lake by which a young man's father became his own brother-in-law and step-brother to his mother-in-law and step-mother to his own wife.

The Farmers' Alliance has led the way. Over the chain of North and South, over the soldier's grave, Kansas and Florida, the farmers of Dakota and the prairie of Louisiana, have shaken hands.
