

WHAT THEY ARE DOING IN SOCIETY

Changes.

Whom first we love, you know, we seldom wed,
Time rules us all. And Life, indeed, is not
The thing we planned it out ere hope was dead.
And then, we women cannot choose our lot.

Much must be borne which it is hard to bear;
Much given away which it were sweet to keep.
God help us all who need, indeed, His care!
And yet, I know, the Shepherd loves His sheep.

My little boy begins to babble now,
Upon my knee his earliest infant prayer.
He has his father's eager eyes, I know;
And they say, too, his mother's sunny hair.
But when he sleeps and smiles upon my knee,
And I can feel his light breath come and go,
I think of one (Heaven help and pity me!)
Who loved me, and whom I loved, long ago.

Who might have been, ah! what I dare not think!
We all are changed. God judges for us best.
God help us do our duty, and not shrink,
And trust in Heaven humbly for the rest.

But blame us women not, if some appear
Too cold at times; and some too gay and light.
Some griefs gnaw deep. Some woes are hard to bear.
Who knows the past? And who can judge us right?

Ah! were we judged by what we might have been,
And not by what we are; too apt to fall!
My little child—he sleeps and smiles between These thoughts and me. In Heaven we shall know all!

—Owen Meredith.

Wolf-Jackson Wedding.

A beautifully appointed wedding took place last evening at 6:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Herman Wolf on Walnut street, when her daughter, Miss Clara W. Wolf, became the bride of Mr. Myron B. Jackson of Williston. Rev. William H. Matthews, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated in the presence of seventy-five friends and relatives. The double ring ceremony was used. The marriage was solemnized in the living room, where an improvised altar was arranged in the bay window. The shades were drawn, forming a background for a set of smilax, which was covered with white lilies. A general color scheme of pink and white was carried out in all of the appointments; the electric bulbs were shaded with pink and a row of cathedral candles was arranged on the top of the altar. Promptly at the appointed hour, the bridal procession came down the stairs and Mrs. William Budge rendered the Lohengrin wedding march, and Mrs. W. H. Shulze played a violin obligato. Miss Donna Loran, the bride's maid, and Mr. Roy Currie, one of the groom's attendants, came first, and carried a hoop covered with green smilax and flowers, which was elevated, forming an archway for the bride to pass through, as they approached the altar. Miss Elsie Wolf was her sister's maid of honor, and Marshall Jackson of Seattle, Wash., was best man. Master John Corrigan, a little nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer. The bride entered on the arm of her uncle William Wolf, who gave her away and they were united at the altar by the groom and his best man.

Following the ceremony, a program of wedding music was rendered and Mrs. Howard Ingersoll presided at the piano. Herman Wolf, baritone, sang "I'll sing a Love Song," by Mary Salter Turner, and "Infinite Love," by Bohn. Mrs. William H. Shulze played the violin obligato, followed by a violin solo, "Love Song," by N. N. Wolf sang "A Perfect Day," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. Mrs. Shulze concluded the pre-nuptial music with "Salute D'Amour," by Elgar.

The service was read by Rev. Matthews, and the bridal couple sat on a white satin cushion, which was arranged at the altar.

The bride was beautiful in an exquisite wedding robe of ivory cream satin, and the bridegroom wore a tuxedo, and made entrain. She wore a long white veil with cap effect, caught in her hair with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Elsie Wolf, the maid of honor, was becomingly attired in a beautiful gown of pink charmeuse and carried a train of white lilies and sweet peas and Marguerites. Miss Donna Loran, bridesmaid, also wore a lovely gown of pink charmeuse, trimmed with lace and chiffon. She carried orange.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Ingersoll rendered the Mendelssohn wedding march, and Mr. Wolf sang "I'm Mine," by Mary Salter Turner. Immediately after the music, the happy couple received the congratulations of their friends and the wedding feast was served. The dining room was made very attractive with baskets of lovely pink roses and Marguerites and dainty pink shades were used on the electric globes. A charming bevy of young ladies, Miss Lillian May Dow, Estella Diechert, Lucile Hale, Madeline Turner and Lillian and Pauline Wolf assisted in serving.

A reception was held during the evening from 8 to 9 o'clock and a large number of guests were bidden. Refreshments were served, and Mrs. C. C. Gowran and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy poured, and Misses Alita Smith, Clara Hale, Echo Turner and Margaret Sargent cared for the serving. The many beautiful and costly gifts received by the couple attest the high esteem in which they are held by their friends. Both young people are well known throughout the state and have hosts of friends who will join in extending best wishes for future happiness and prosperity.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson left last evening for Itasca Park, Minn., where they will spend a few days, before leaving for Larimore, where they will make their home. Mr. Jackson is manager of the branch house of the Grand Forks Mercantile company, in Williston. The bride traveled in a handsome tailored costume of blue with hat and accessories to match.

Among the out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Marshall Jackson, of Seattle, Wash., Roy Currie of Minneapolis, Mr. George Klingenshoefer of Milwaukee, Wis., an aunt of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ingersoll of Brainerd, Miss Donna Loran of Little Falls, Minn., Misses Maude and May McCanna and brother Si McCanna of Minneapolis, Albert E. 8257 Girl's Costume, 10 to 14 years.

With Three-Quarters or Long Sleeves.

Such a little costume as this one makes a most valuable addition to the girl's summer wardrobe. In cut and style, it is essentially youthful in effect, and it includes all the smart features. In one view it is shown made of blue linen with trimming of blue and white stripes, but there are numberless other ways in which an equally good effect can be obtained. Plain and checked or plain and striped materials, could be used and the model will be found a good one for all seasons. For the simple costume of washable fabric and for the handsome one of taffeta, for taffeta is in vogue for girls as it is for the grown-ups, and this season we use the same model for silk and for cotton materials.

For the 12-year size will be needed 5 yards of material 27 inches wide, 3-4 yards 36, or 3-4 yards 44, with 8-8 yard 2 for trimming.

The pattern 8257 is cut in sizes for girls of 10, 12 and 14 years of age. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

CLUB NOTES

The Twentieth Century club of Devils Lake was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Hall. Modern benevolence which is finding expression in the establishment of various institutions for the prevention of disease and the good of the human race, were discussed. Mrs. N. O. Sather read a paper on "Homes for Convalescence and Secluded Homes for Children" and Mrs. Simonstad a paper on "Medical Research Laboratory in New York." "Meals and Hotels" was the topic of Mrs. Jos. Jellka paper. Roll call was responded to by the recitation of current events and vocal duets were sung by Mesdames P. G. Miller and M. O. Simonstad. As this is the last meeting before the summer holidays, a program committee to draw up a course of study for the coming year was appointed. On this committee were Mesdames Sather, Eustice, Simonstad and Hale. The annual picnic will be held at Chautauqua in two weeks.

The Equal Suffrage club of Devils Lake met last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Horton. It was encouraging to the suffrage workers to find that there was not only a very good attendance of old members but several visitors were present and expressed their sympathy with the cause. Mrs. Wm. Falger, the district president, has just returned from a short sojourn in the state of New York and she reports that the interest in woman suffrage is very keen there. It is the topic of the day and in general very warmly advocated, although New York will not vote on the matter even in 1915.

The real business of the meeting last evening was to decide upon what suffrage speaker the Devils Lake league should secure for Women's day at Chautauqua. It was finally decided to invite Mrs. Kathryn Wall McCullough of Chicago, and should she accept, the women of the Lake Region cannot afford to miss hearing her. The suffrage meeting will be conducted at Chautauqua, although in regard to this there are several details yet to be arranged.

The workers of this league intend to concentrate their efforts and do not plan any summer vacation. Equal suffrage leagues are to be organized in all of the neighboring towns. Mrs. Buttz goes to New Rockford the latter part of the week to assist in the organization of a new club there. "How the Vote Was Won," is the name of a play which will be given in the near future. It will be both entertaining and instructive.

Little Bedtime Stories

LITTLE JOE OTTER GETS EVEN WITH BUSTER BEAR.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

(Copyright, 1914, by J. G. Lloyd.)
Little Joe Otter was in a terrible rage. It was the beginning of a beautiful day, and Little Joe knew it. But who wouldn't be in a great rage if his breakfast was taken from him? As he was about to eat it, he had been told that it was his. That is what had happened to Little Joe Otter. Anyway, that is what he told Billy Mink. Perhaps he didn't tell it quite exactly as it was, but you know he was very badly frightened at the time.

"I was sitting on the bank of the Laughing Brook beside one of the little pools," he told Billy Mink. "I was just going to eat a fat trout I had just caught, when who should come along but that great, big, fat, fat BUSTER BEAR. He took that fat trout away from me and ate it! I was so angry I belonged to him! I hate him! If I live long enough I'm going to get even with him!"

Of course, that wasn't nice talk. And anything but a nice spirit, but Little Joe Otter's temper is sometimes pretty short, especially when he is hungry, and this time he had had no breakfast, you know. The truth is, BUSTER BEAR had stolen up behind Little Joe and frightened him so that he had dropped the fat trout, and BUSTER BEAR had just saved it from falling back into the Laughing Brook. Then he had invited Little Joe to come back and get it, and Little Joe had been afraid to and had gone off down the Laughing Brook in a great rage. BUSTER BEAR had eaten the fat trout to keep it from being wasted, so he said.

So, you see, Little Joe's story wasn't quite a lie, and he was quite naturally taken the fish away from him. But looking at the matter as Little Joe did, it amounted to the same thing. You see, BUSTER BEAR kept on eating the trout, and Little Joe wouldn't dare do anything of the kind. "Where is he now?" asked Billy Mink.

"He's somewhere up the Laughing Brook. I wish he'd fall in and get drowned!" snapped Little Joe. The idea of great, big BUSTER BEAR getting drowned in the Laughing Brook was too funny. There wasn't water enough in it anywhere except down in the Smiling Pool, and that was on the Green Meadows, where BUSTER BEAR never been known to come. "Let's go see what he is doing," said Billy Mink. At first Little Joe didn't want to, but at last his curiosity got the better of his fear and he agreed. So the two little brown-coated scamps turned back up the Laughing Brook, taking the greatest care to keep out of sight themselves. They had gone only a little way when Billy Mink whispered: "Sh-h-h! There he is!" Sure enough, there was BUSTER BEAR sitting close beside a little pool and looking into it very intently.

"What's he doing?" asked Little Joe Otter, as BUSTER BEAR sat for the longest time without moving.

Just then one of BUSTER BEAR's pig paws went into the water as quick as a flash and scooped out a trout that had ventured too near. "He's fishing!" exclaimed Billy Mink. "And that is just what BUSTER BEAR was doing, and it was very plain to see that he was having great fun. When he had eaten the trout he had caught he moved along to the next little pool. 'They are our fish!' said Little Joe.

"I was sitting on the bank of the Laughing Brook," he told Billy Mink.

severely. "He has no business catching our fish!"

"I don't see how we are going to stop him," said Billy Mink.

"I do!" cried Little Joe, into whose head an idea had just popped. "I'm going to drive all the fish out of the little pools and muddy the water all up. Then we'll see how many fish he will get! Just watch me get even with BUSTER BEAR!"

Little Joe slipped swiftly into the water and swam straight to the little pool that BUSTER BEAR would try next. He frightened the fish so that they fled in every direction. Then he stirred up the mud so that the water was so muddy that BUSTER BEAR couldn't see a fish right under his nose. He did the same thing in the next pool and the next. BUSTER BEAR's fishing was spoiled for that day.

DREAMS AND DISEASES.

(Answers.)

What is a dream? Many have tried to pierce the mystic veil that divides sleeping and waking life. Dreams and their portents have formed the life study of numerous scientists; but, strangely enough, little progress has been made in the scientific understanding of dreams.

Prof. Freud, a well known scholar and investigator, voices some remarkable facts regarding the relation of disease to dreams.

"Dreams of patients suffering with organic disease of the heart and kidneys are sometimes greatly troubled by terrors and wild phantasies. This I have often seen in fevers and in the acute infectious diseases generally. Such a symptom," says the professor, "is evidence of a disordered bodily state, in which the nervous system is reaching to some tonic or mechanical stimulus of considerable intensity. One patient used to dream again and again that a cat had him by the throat, and was slowly choking him to death. This mental agony would continue until he awakened spontaneously with a sensation of great tension and fullness in the throat. He developed finally a cancer of the throat."
