MILLIONS OF DOL-LARS LOST YEARLY

Farmers Lose Vast Sums Annually in Wild-cat Investments-Co-Operation Usually Safe.

The slick, strong armed Grafter sneeringly terms the Farmer an easy mark, and the Farmer is a prey to a horde of this class of gentry. They come in every guise-slick, smooth and polished. Their voices are softly modulated, and they concoct a story that is alluring in the extreme, bringing to the Farmer visions of easy wealth from such articles as farm machinery.
Theodore S. Nelson with his wife came from N. Dak., last Wednesday. They intended to go with the Volen family to intended to go with the Volen family to the Farmers in years gone by hundreds of millions of dollars, of which the opportunity or he never had the opportunity or chance to regain a single penny. It is passing strange that our Farmers will be bit repeatedly by this class of parasites. but they are slowly learning their lesson and it is becoming a harder and harder game for the above mention gentlemen to play upon the unwary. If our Co-operative organizations have a mission. one of more importance than another, it is to protect our membership against this evil, and our papers and periodicals should take infinite pains to expose these finely concoated schemes, and place pur membership on guard. There is another reason, too, aside from protecting the Farmer against loss, which is of great importance, and that is: The time has come when, if the Farmer is to be freed from business conditions which hamper and trammel his progress, and prevent him from securing a just profit on his products and just compensation for his labor, he must own and control his own Marketing Facilities as well as the financial institutions necessary to finance his business and his marketing enterprises. It is a fact that our Farmers are investing annually millions of dollars in enterprises some of which are absolutely worthless, and even those that have good value are in the hards of hydrode Thursday for a call on relatives and value are in the hands of business and of friends It is five years since she interests naturally opposed to the interests naturally opposed to the Farmer's engaging in business for himself. Thus the capital of the Farmer invested in such enterprises ary. Their relatives and a lot of friends and neighbors gathered and took the whole house in possession, bringing their lunch baskets filled with good their lu ment, but the profit which the Farmer himself is entitled to from the products of his labor. Is it any wonder then, that the speculator and the profiteer live in luxury, while the Farmer toils on to supply him with still more luxury? There certainly is a remedy for these evils and this remedy lies with the Farmer himself. If he will refuse to accept these highly colored schemes that are set as snares with which to capture the reward of his labor; if he will refuse to invest his savings in enterprises foreign to his own welfare, and conserve the money to his own uses; and when desiring to invest his savings, invest them in industrial and financial enterprises owned and controlled by Farmers themselves, he will very quickly remedy this evil and reap the full reward of his toil and savings. A very strong illustration of the above facts has recently been brought out by some of the "Blue Sky" State Officials. Referring to the Annual Report of the State Securities Commission to the Governor of the State of South Dakota, we find the following quotations. In this report they say: "A careful examination has been made of all annual statements filed with this Commission pursuant to the provisions of the Blue Sky law.—While making the above mentioned examination, we have made occasion to compile some of the figures and draw some conclusions from the records of the office. Such figures and conclusions may be briefly

"1st. There were one hundred six companies which made and filed annua statements covering the year 1917. They reported a total outstanding capital of $49,989,435.00. The total gain reported for the one hundred six companies was $905,512.00 or an average of one and eight-tenths on the entire capital out-

The above statement must indicate not only to the investing Farmer, but to the investing public as well, that their opportunties for investment in the average scheme have a very small chance of returns that would warrant such investment, as we see by this statement that only an average of one and eight-tenths per cent of gain is recorded, and further, this sum total of gain may not mean cash dividends re-

The report further states:
"2nd. We found that there were thirty-eight reporting domestic co-operative companies engaged in the operation of stores, elevators, and creameries. These companies had a total outstanding capital of $281,810.00 and the total gain of all such companies was the sum of $110,310.00 or an average of THIRTY-NINE PER CENT on the outstanding capital.'

This statement is astounding, and should be an eyeopener for the Farmer as to where he can profitably invest his ment that all the one hundred six com-panies reporting to the Commission made a gain of only one and eight-tenths per cent! Now it must be remembered that these thirty-eight Co-operative Companies referred to in the second

these Thirty-eight Farmer-Owned Co-operative Companies made Thirty-nine Per Cent on their investment, while the made only One and eight-tenths percent, then certainly the remainder of the One hundred and six companies

"There were twelve miscellaneous companies with a total capital issue of $21,059,256.00 which showed gains. The panies was $795,202.00 or an average of three-and one-hilf per cent on the outstanding capital. Under this head it should be mentioned that we include the report of one of the largest light and power companies in America. This company has an outstanding capital of $19,982,100.00, and paid a dividend of $691,963.00. Thus it will be understood that the other eleven companies were comparatively small and the gains nominal." From the foregoing quotation, we see that the only great corporation, the light that the only great corporation, we see that the only great corporation, the light and power company, was practically the only one that made material gains. In all of the other cases, the gains were so nominal as to be unworthy of consideration. The report states still further:

"4th. There are sixteen oil and mining companies upon our records showing a total outstanding capital of $7,-535,618.00. Not one of these companies shows a gain and no facts are submitted which indicate any great progress in the way of exploration."

What Becomes of Hugh Capital? The above statement is one that should attract the attention of the investing public in no uncertain way. Think of it! In the State of South Dakota, where sixteen oil and mining companies report to the Securities Commission, representing from the reports in ston, representing from the reports in that one state alone the immense sum of $7,535,618.00, investments undoubtedly taken from the savings of the peo-ple—NOT ONE SINGLE COMPANY is ble to report a particle of gain, not any progress worth mentioning. Then, what becomes of the Seven Millions of Dolars which the people invested in these institutions? This is an indictment against this class of business that hould be a warning never to be forgotten.

But the report continues: "5th. It appears that there are forty miscellaneous companies with a capital issue totaling $21,112,751.00, which report not gains and in many instances losses are shown. In fact, there are ten among the forty companies with an outstanding capital of $7.677,130.00 which show a total loss of $226,484.00. This item should be deducted from the gains shown in paragraph one, thus materialy reducing the total average gains for

Co-operation Pays. The report from the Commission, in commenting upon the above statement, says very tersely:

"From the foregoing figures, severa conclusions may be drawn. It is amp-ly shown that the small co-operative companies of the state are being con-ducted on a profitable basis. This is especially true of the elevator companes. The reports show that each ele vator is using from $20,000 to $50,000 of borrowed money obtained from banks and commission companies. Notwithstanding the payment of considerable standing the payment of considerable sums for interest, the business is highly-profitable."

This leads to the suggestion that much more capital could be employed in these elevator companies, thus reducing the necessity for so much borrowed money, and saving large sums now being paid for interest. Commenting further on this report.

the writer says: Safer Investment at Home. "The Commission has a right to feel

The Commission has a right to feel a pride in the success of the co-operative companies. It means that the South Dakota people have the ABILITY TO CO-OPERATE and make the best use of their combined capital and credit. The fact also proves that the farmer should realize that he can find a FAR SAFER AND MORE REMUNERATIVE. INVESTMENT AT THE OWNERS. TIVE INVESTMENT AT HIS OWN DOOR, and one that is very much better than the average stock proposition offered by other corporations."

Brother Farmer, when reading and analyzing the quotations from the Se-curities Commission above, it must be realized that our Blue Sky laws have not been inaugurated in vain. The above statements are strong in the extreme, and must command the most arnest consideration of every co-operative Farmer who desires to better his own condition. It is not hard to realize that if these tremendous sums his own condition. It is not hard to realize that if these tremendous sums of money which are annually being wasted can be turned into Co-operative companies, Farmer-Owned and Farmer-Controlled it will not be be sufficient to the condition of such sleams and allowance of such sleams. M., in the Probate Court House at Williams at the Court House at Williams at the Court House at Williams at the Court House at Williams in said County, be, and the same hereby by is, fixed and appointed as the time and place for hearing upon and the extroled, it will not be long until the Farmer will have sufficient funds to inance himself

The Farmers' Society of Equity one of our greatest Farmer organizations neartily commends the report of the South Dakota Commission, and believes that the thanks—not only of South Datota constituents, but of every Co-ope ative Farmer in America—is due to tha ody of men who have so diligently striven to show plainly and concisely how the people have been ruthlessly robbed; and who show also, and recommend, measures that can easily remedy the evil. There are many co-operative industrial institutions which our leaders are earnestly striving to promote hat sadly need the savings and funds which our Farmers have for investment. The above report shows conclusively that if these savings are invested in our Farmer-owned institutions, they wil bring solid returns, and at the same time every dollar will be working night and day to increase the prices of the farm products and bring to our Farmers Justice and Equity on the returns for heir labor.
