Commissioner of Agriculture Guy B. Tucker's many friends throughout the State are urging him to become a candidate for Secretary of State. He will likely make the race, and the most excellent reputation which he has made as Commissioner of Agriculture will be of great advantage to him, and we do not believe there is a man in the State who could defeat him. He would make a fine Secretary of State, and we hope to see him where Ludwig is now, when "Lud" goes to Congress. -Times, Nashville, Arkansas.

We see no just reason at the present why Tucker should not be promoted to this position if he desires to run for it. He has made a good and efficient officer and has done much since he has had the present position to advertise the great state of Arkansas.

Still the Tennessee taxpayers may be somewhat reconciled to those state senators running away when this action ties up all the money in the state treasury.

In 1913 Oklahoma will locate its capital. When the new state takes up the matter or a state house Arkansas will be in a position to give some neighborly advice.

Farming is proceeding nicely in this community, thus far the people are well pleased with their planting and are expecting a good year and good crops.

The mumps which have been raging in this district since Christmas still remain with four or five families; while they have not been serious they seem to be staying with us quite cleverly.

The young folks of this community were entertained Saturday night at a party given by Mrs. Arnott. Miss May Dillon with her new beau, Mr. Willie Downs, seemed especially pleased, while none had words to speak but praise. We look forward to a recurrence of such splendid entertainment.

Most of the winter schools have closed and those who have been absent from the community while teaching are now at home however, we are informed that some of the teachers contemplate attending the spring term of the State Normal at Conway which begins March 15th. Those who will attend are Misses May and Maggie Dillon and perhaps Miss Maud Ward who formerly lived in this vicinity.

There will be preaching at this place next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We hope everyone who can will attend these services. Bro. Copeland of Center Point, Howard County, an able and efficient young man, will conduct the meetings and we are mindful that no one who hears him will go away disappointed. Everybody is cordially invited.

Boughton

Health in this community fairly good.

Farmers are quite busy building fence and preparing their ground for planting. Some few have planted corn.

Farmer John B. Cathy gave a log rolling last Tuesday and quite a crowd attended. We had a splendid dinner prepared by his wife who is one of the best cooks in this section of the county. We hope John will have some more logs to roll. (Since Monday's storm I fear that John will have to feed you again. Ed.)

Quite a number of people were trading in Boughton Saturday.

Rev. I. J. Ursery and family visited the family of B. F. Johnson last Saturday and Sunday.

We have a good Sunday school at Boughton, also singing in the afternoon. Several good looking boys and girls attend. You are all welcome to come. We will try to be of some benefit to you.

Rev. S. C. Ferguson will preach at Boughton M. P. church next Sunday at 11 A. M.

Rev. W. R. Barham will preach next Sunday night at the Baptist church. Every body come. We are sure you will be benefitted by coming.

We hope to see times flourishing around Boughton when spring opens up.

Wallaceburg & Blevins

A man by the name of Gallo-way found a R. R. torpedo and not knowing what it was, split it open with an axe, which exploded and knocked him senseless. A piece of it struck his wife in the temple and imbedded itself in her head and the doctor had to cut it out. It was quite dangerous but the doctor said she might get over it. It cut a gash about three inches long above her ear.

Is there an overseer on the road near what is known as Halls Hill? On account of its dangerous condition people have quit travelling it and are going by way of what is known as the river road.

We are expecting to hear the wedding bells ring in this vicinity before long.

If everything is prosperous for the farmer this year, there will be a bumper crop of Irish potatoes made; nearly every farmer in this section is planting from one to five acres.

"I told you so": On Wednesday of last week at the home of the bride, Dr. Arrington and Miss Ola McClardy were joined in the happy bonds of matrimony Rev. J. R. Ferguson officiating. The doctor is a prominent physician of Blevins and an honorable and upright citizen of this place and is to be complimented in carrying off one of the brightest jewels in this whole section of the country. The young folks of this place turned out in a body Wednesday night for the purpose of serenading the newly married couple.

SHALL WE LIVE AGAIN?

Hidden away in the secret recesses of the heart of man is an underlying hope of immortality. The outer crust may seem rough and ugly, but once you get near to the heart-throb you may find all are kin— all have the same longing. With some it is a very definite proposition. With all the hope abides.

"If a man die shall he live again?" It is the old, old question, the silent interrogation that wells in every heart. No man would be obliterated through preference. The Wish for immortality is perhaps one of the strongest arguments that immortality is. The hand that planted in the human core the yearning for eternal life is the same that ordained life eternal; without one the other would be incomplete. The vast majority, whatever their outward indifference or protestation, believe in the deathless state and hope for beatification, and that faith, or religion is most comforting which expects the ultimate salvation of all and the final destruction of none.

Cotton and Corn Planters

The J. I. Case combination planter will put down Cotton, Corn, Peas, Sorghum and other grain with equal ease. Being short and with the hitch right next to the wheel it takes less room for it on the row than any other planter; it has a light frame and can therefore be made to work in either light or heavy soil. The device for throwing it in and out of gear is so positive that under no conditions will it skip or miss putting down the seed. All the changes for putting the seed different distances apart is made right in the hopper, thus making it the simplest planter on the market. All the castings in it are of malleable iron and the working parts are all made separate, which insures long life for the planter and reduces the expense for repairs to almost nothing. If you dont know about this planter, come in at your first opportunity and let us show you about it.

Prices $11.000, $11.50 and $12.00
According to styly of openers and covers.
Other Planters from $5.00 to $10.00
