Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any individual, firm or corporation appearing in The Picayune will be promptly corrected if brought to the attention of the publisher. Statements of facts, however will not be retracted.

How about the county fair? It seems that it is time we were getting busy.

Over sixty carloads of tomatoes were shipped from the vicinity of Houston Texas last Monday.

The Sewerage question is now getting into shape where it begins to look very much like we will soon have it going.

Why is it that some people are so opposed to cutting weeds? Will some one answer and don't all speak at once.

Cole Younger, has developed into a song writer. His latest is entitled, "The days that are past."

Rev. Frank Daniels and wife, are conducting a meeting at the city park. They are having good crowds at every service.

Several carloads of potatoes have been shipped through here by the P. & N. W. Rail Road to eastern markets. There is no better potato market in the country than this section.

Another gold mine has been reported in Canada, and the miners from the Fairbanks mine are running over themselves to get to the newly discovered fields.

The citizens of Hope, have organized a Fair Association, including Hempstead, Little River, Howard, Pike, Nevada, La-Fayette and Miller counties. They have forty acres of ground and a good half mile track and will erect at once a large exhibit building.

In years passed the fellow, who expressed himself by saying just what he thought was pointed out as a hero. But in later years that trait has been assumed and abused by some of the biggest cowards in the land. The people of today take a different version to our forefathers in many things. And when a man bears the reputation of saying what he thinks regardless of public feeling is pointed to with scorn and looked upon as unsuccessful in business.

RECIPROCITY AND

THE FARMER

Our corporation friends have turned their attention from the American laborer to the American farmer. They tell him that reciprocity is bad for the farmer. The Canadian reciprocity agreement will hit only these who are now and have been for a number years past concerning the necessities of life and regulating the cost thereof, not by the law of supply and demand, but by the height of the tariff wall. Every effort at a reform of the obnoxious and unjust regulations heretofore maintained by the high protectionist has been met by the cry that any tariff reduction would serve to being the American laborer into competition with the so-called pauper labor of Europe. The cry successfully served the purpose of frightening American workmen and for years the tariff barrier has been retained for the exclusive benefit of the corporate campaign contributors and their associated industries.

The appeal to workingmen is ended. Having discovered that they were being continually deceived and chested, the American consumer finally woke up, and the result of last November's election tells its own story on the tariff problem. Now that the reciprocity agreement promises to open the doors to the raw materials and food stuff of Canada, and to extend our markets in the Dominion, the monopolist standpatters are seeking to array the farmers of the West against the proposed agreement on the theory that it will serve to injure the American farmer by putting his goods in competition with the Canadian product. Of course, as in the case of the American laborer, the purpose of this sudden and unusual interest in the farmer is more imaginary than real. If the farmer would take home with him a copy of the Payne-Aldrich tariff and count up the cost it puts upon him and weigh that cost against his benefits out of it, he would immediately petition not only for a Canadian reciprocity agreement but for the immediate reduction of the tariff wall to its original and reasonable height.

There you are: Any place is just what the people who live in it make it.

If any of the towns that any of us live in are not to our liking, why let's get busy—it's all up to us.

The first process in the improvement of any towns is to get rid of the people who are damning it.—Bank Notes.

PAY DAY PLAN

There is an odd character in New Jersey. He is known as "Lakewood Tom."

His friends consider that he is harmless, but suffering from an affliction of the brain. They laugh at his oddities and never consider him seriously, yet this has established an example which many seemingly intelligent toilers might emulate.

Each Saturday night, when he receives his pay, he places five dollars in a self-addressed envelope and drops it in the mail box. This is delivered to him the following Monday. He has at least this much with him to begin the week, when many of his fellow workmen are penniless.

There is a common characteristic among toilers, especially those who labor in mills and factories, to waste their earnings. When paid on Saturday night it means a celebration as soon as possible. These celebrations lead to excesses. The most prudent man sober is invariably imprudent when drunk. The most penurious become spendthrifts when drink steals away their senses.

This is why there is so much distress among the working classes.

These men are always good providers when they have the opportunity, but there is a bond of fellowship between them that frequently results in some spending more than they should.

This is especially true among the unmarried.

Leaving work after a hard, hot week, a man feels disposed to be a good fellow. The intention usually is to take a glass of beer, perhaps, and no more. One drink leads to another. Others succeed and the Saturday night jag is the result.

When morning comes the unfortunate awakes with empty pockets and wanders how he could have been such a fool.

It is weakness of man.

This is one reason why the loan sharks flourish. The foolish man with empty pockets is ashamed, and borrows to hide his fault, only making it worse.

This odd old fellow in New Jersey is not so foolish after all.

He also is a good fellow, and like good fellows will be a pauper all of his life, but he has prudence and forethought enough to know that unless he mailed himself five dollars he will be without funds the ensuing week.

It would be well if others would do the same thing and not squander their week's earnings in a single night, trusting to luck and good health to tide them over another week, only to repeat the same thing.

The thifty workman who saves does not have to resort to such tactics but all are not so constituted and such schemes are not so bad, after all.

MEET THE ISSUE

On Monday, May 29th, Mr. Bryan gave to the press the following statement:

The democratic members of congress will, on June 1st, caucus on the free wool question, and it is only fair to ask that they shall fairly and honestly meet the issue.

It is possible that some of the democrats believe in the principle of protection. The larceny—the "robbery under the form of law"—embodied in the protective system is endorsed by many good republicans who have not yet learned to apply to legislation the rules that they apply in every day life; and some democrats may have become pupils in this school especially those who have among their constituents influential beneficiaries of the system. But the democratic voters have a right to insist that the protectionist democrats shall be as honest as the protectionist republicans. The republicans want protection on wool because they believe in the principle of protection; let no democratic advocate of a tax on wool masquerade behind the pretense that he is voting for a revenue tariff; let him not add hypocrisy to the sin which he commits against his party.

Differences of opinion are to be within the party as well as without but expediency as well as honor requires that the difference shall be frankly stated courageously fought out and fairly settled. If protection is to be accepted as a democratic doctrine let it be accepted openly and let it be applied to everything and all sections. There is no favoritism at the expense of all who wear woolen clothing.

The republicans have been able to delude a great many people for a long time by advocating protection as a policy, but they have succeeded because they consistently applied the principle in favor of every industry which was willing to subscribe liberally to the campaign fund. The democratic party can not hope to fool anybody very long by a one sided application of the doctrine to a few districts which happen to contain protectionist democrats who insist on keeping their hands in their neighbors pockets. If the democrat party is to be Aldrized let the change of policy be made with audacity, at least. The man who does wrong by stealth and then tries to conceal it by equivocation confesses his consciousness of guilt and can not help for a following.

However, before the democratic party is finally committed to the doctrine of protection it will be necessary to consult the voters of the party, and it may be well to remember that the voters of all parties are braver than the politicians. The republican voters are brave enough to turn out a lot of republican Aldriches; what reason have our democratic congressmen to think that democratic voters are less courageous?

The democratic voters know that all needed revenue can be raised in less oppressive ways and they know that the argument that the tariff on wool is proposed as a revenue tariff is merely a subterfuge employed because those who employ it are ashamed to say that they favor protection.

The democratic congress has made a splendid record; let us hope will not blot that record and impair the party's chances in 1912 by a cowardly surrender to the relatively insignificant number of democratic protectionists who clamor for a tariff on wool in order to win the support of those wool growers who go into politics as a matter of business.

OBITUARY

The death angles visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Calloway, six miles north of Prescott, and took from them their darling little baby. The little one stayed on earth but a short while. He was born April 9th 1911 and died May 28 1911. He was laid to rest the 29 in the Snell Grave Yard, one mile south of Emmet. Bro. Canfeld, of Prescott, conducted the funeral service.

What a sad hour it was to the parents, when the death angles came and took the little one home to dwell with Jesus forever more. Oh! how you will miss his sweet eyes and sober smiles, that will greet you never more on earth, but over there in the land where sorrow never comes, little Clarence is waiting to welcome you home. He is beckoning you to follow on, it wont be long if you will only live true to God you can meet the precious little darling to part with him no more. We know it is hard to him up, but your loss is his gain. God knows best, he doeth all things well. We can only say, God's Will be done not ours.

Sweet little darling, pride of the home. Looking for some one beckoning come. Bright as sun beam, pure as the dew, looking dear Papa and Mamma for you. A Relative.

IN PRESCOTT

EVERY CLAIM IS BACKED BY LOCAL TESTIMONY.

E. J. Taliaferro, of Prescott, Ark., says: "My opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills has not changed and I recommend them just as highly today as I did some years ago. I have had but one spell of kidney trouble since this remedy cured me and that came on a year ago. I immediately used Doan's Kidney Pills and they soon had my kidneys working right."

The above was the substance of Mr. Taliaferro's conversation when he was interviewed on April 1, 1911. His former endorsement was as follows: "I suffered intensely from kidney complaint. There was a stiffness in my back, extending into my neck and a dull ache through my kidneys bothered me night and day. I steadily grew worse and finally I noticed that the kidney secretions were becoming too frequent in passage. Deciding to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I obtained a supply at Hesterly's Drug Store and I found them to be the remedy I needed. The contents of two boxes cured me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

That Buggy Which Kind will you Buy?

THE 1911 Banner Buggy represents the best value of the year for anything near the price it sells for. In addition to the 12" wrought fifth wheel, improved seat braces, heavy body sills, and other improvements put on it last year it has this year a stronger, better axle, and 36" oil tempered springs that insure durability and easy riding.

For a high-grade buggy we offer the Jos. W. Moon as being the best finished, strongest and most satisfactory at the price at which we sell it. It will compare in looks and will do everything that any buggy will do that costs $15.00 more money.

We are now showing the 1911 Spring styles and invite the inspection of all buggy buyers. Come in to see us. You might learn something about buggies, and you place yourself under no obligation to buy.

Our Buggies are Priced
from $40.00 to $150.00
