FREIGHT COSTS MORE THAN OIL

Crude Cost 25 Cents Per Barrel at Well and Freight to Capitol $1.11.

Little Rock, Aug. 26.—(Special) — R. E. Williams, Consulting Engineer, has made a partial report to the Board of Control with reference to the substitution of crude oil for gas and coal as fuel in the state institutions. His report recommends that under existing circumstances, oil should not be substituted for gas in the three institutions in Little Rock but that it might be used instead of coal at a considerable saving at the Confederate home.

It develops that crude oil may be bought at El Dorado on a year's contract at 25 cents a barrel. This would cost f. o. b. Little Rock, $1.11 per barrel and it would cost an extra 40 cents for delivery in Little Rock, making the cost at the institution $1.51 per barrel, or six times the cost of the oil at the well. The report says, "The actual cost of oil operation being slightly in excess of present operating cost, the present operation should be continued until such time as gas is not available or is increased in price." The board will make further investigations.
