NEW USE FOR ELECTRICITY

German Scientist 'Employs High Current in the Rapid Production of Mirrors.

A rapid and admirable method for depositing suitable metals on the surface of glass so as to produce mirrors, consists of decomposing the metal by means of a high-potential electric current. It is thus described in the Physikalische Zeitschrift by G. Runelin.

A metal plate is placed in juxtaposition with the glass plate which is to receive the coating. The two plates are then placed flat on a table beneath the receiver of an air-pump suitable for producing a high degree of vacuum.

A small quantity of an inert gas, such as hydrogen, is introduced into the vacuum and a high-potential current is then turned on by means of the negative pole of a suitable source of electricity, this pole being attached to the metal plate. Thirty seconds duration of this cathodic flow is sufficient to obtain a properly silvered mirror.

Besides silver the metals gold, copper, platinum, nickel, iron, palladium and iridium may be employed.

EUROPE YIELDING TO ORIENT.

Europe's production of the class of merchandise generally referred to as "luxuries" is steadily declining. Customs officials charged with the examination of fine arts goods and luxuries have declared that the stress of conflict in Europe was becoming such that, unless the war ends shortly, still lower levels of imports in these classes may be expected.

The local customhouse reports, according to the New York Times, indicate that, while Europe is losing its primary position here as an importer of luxuries, the far East merchants are taking advantage of Europe's misfortune to ship here unprecedented quantities of Oriental merchandise of all kinds, including objects of art, chinaware, silks, expensive window and door hangings and pearls. China, Japan and India are vying with each other in that trade.

Prayer Becomes Court Routine.

It was nothing more than routine business. The Argenta municipal court opened with the Lord's prayer, led by Judge Jas. Gerlach and followed by all present, Monday. The plan launched by Judge Gerlach Saturday worked very satisfactorily.

When Judge Gerlach went on the bench he held the Bible in his hands, and requested that the officers, deputy prosecuting attorneys, witnesses and all present take part in the service, which was readily responded to. In the future the court will always convene with the prayer.

John Wade, a white man, was the first to appear before Judge Gerlach. He was charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace. He was fined $5 for disturbing the peace.

The second case on docket was Lawrence Tally, negro, charged with disturbing the peace. Lawrence deposited $10 with the desk sergeant at time of his arrest, and did not appear in court Monday morning.

—Gazette.

Leap year is over but that is nothing. The women will continue to have their own way just as they have always done. A woman was elected to the congress in the leap year just passed and another flew from Chicago to New York. Women did notable things all over the world and will do more big things this year. Don't get it into your head that the women will not have another inning until 1920. If you count on that you will be left by the roadside with the women laughing back at you.

Before listening to the complaint of your children about the general fiendishness of the teachers, and getting all worked up and excited over it, it is better to reflect a little. Remember your one, or half dozen cherubs drive you crazy about half the time, and bear with the teacher who is making for you intelligent men and women out of unpromising raw material as you were twenty or thirty years ago. Remember that besides your boy, who of course everybody knows is an angel, she has to contend with that awful boy of your neighbor's and you know full well what a terror he is!—Picayune, Prescott.

After one of Billy Sunday's revivals a well known scape-goat of Kansas City applied to a Church for membership. The committee, knowing his reputation advice that he wait a month and prayerfully consider and the matter of his fitness. At the end of the month he returned and was asked to give his experience before the entire church. He arose, solemnly turned to the minister, deacons and audience and said: "Fellow sinners, daily for a month God has admonished me not to feel badly if I did not get into this church, for he had tried for 20 years and was not in yet."

Dad Burnett!—no we are NOT swearing—we started to say an old printer and later a saddle and harness man of Paris, Ark., who for the last few years has been traveling for his health and paying expenses taking pictures, came in to see us Tuesday. Dad Burnett is stopping near Popping with a relative, Mr. Cloninger. We were glad to meet him—Dad Burnett, we were.

Rural Rest Room.

The article in the Spectator several weeks ago describing a "rest room" and telling of its needs, met with the approval of the women of the rural communities.

If the wives of the merchants and business men of Ozark could appreciate the great need of such a place in Ozark, they would surely unite and make an effort to secure one. Many of our country women never go to town year in and year out. The long rough roads, the expense of hotel bills, and the care of little ones while there is too much of an undertaking for them. Many farmers from as far as 25 miles drive to Ozark with produce, ties, lumber, etc. Visiting friends from a distance are met at the depot. Some men go as jurors, some as witnesses during court, and others on other business. Their wives would often enjoy the trip with them, but there is no place where one can fix up a little and attend to the wants of the babies and smaller children without the expense of a hotel bill. As many can not afford this, and in fact would not occupy a room long enough to pay them to engage one, they stay at home, trusting their shopping to the men.

If you could see how many mail order catalogs there are in the homes of the farmers, and see the amount of parcel post delivered on the rural routes, you would soon be convinced that it would be a money maker for Ozark to have a rest room, it is a very unsatisfactory way to trade when one orders sight unseen from a catalog house. If one delays ordering until they need an article they will keep it many times and use it even if it is not satisfactory. In that way the people do not get the good of their money that they should, and they would much rather trade with the merchants of their home town, if it were more convenient for them to do so.

Then it is a fact that there is not enough interest taken in poultry, eggs, butter et. al. as there would be if the women could take them to market.

Convenient for you and we would not have time to accept your hospitality but you can make it pleasant for us and lift many hard ships from the mothers and daughters of the country by establishing a rest room in a convenient place at Ozark.

News of Arkansas Travellers

Stigler, Okla.—Editor of Spectator. Give me small space to give you the doings up here.

We are having some bad weather here just now. It snowed Sunday night.

Well, Mr. Editor, I am some better satisfied here than I have been. It seems more like Old Arkansas. The most of my neighbors are from Arkansas. John Rosson, Rube Whitehead, and Jess Barnes are my near neighbors, and are all well satisfied. They have gone to farming with a vim.

Jess Barnes is a changed man. He has quit his horse trading and joined the "Holy Rollers." He has prayer meeting at his house every Sunday night, and is greatly worked up. I know this will be a surprise to his old friends, never-the-less it is true. I think all of his old friends should write to him and give him all the encouragement possible. I sure believe he is in earnest. So mote it be.

Yours truly,

J. C. LOGAN.
