A Wonderful Cucumber Skin and Freckle Help

A local druggist tells some very interesting facts of the effect of vegetable juices upon the skin.

Generations ago women rubbed the faces and bodies of themselves and their children with freshly cut cucumbers, and found in this homely remedy an almost invariable relief from suffering and disfigurement caused by sunburn, freckles, chapping of face and hands, and the myriad skin afflictions of the race. We have found a way to make a compound, including cucumber juice, flower oils, and other ingredients, which not only impart a delightful odor of Lily of the Valley, but produce an exquisite liquid cream that cools, soothes, heals chapped, sunburned, chafed or other painful skin surfaces, and is the best thing for freckles and their prevention, ever known.

We call this preparation A. Ph. Lait de Concombre. It is at once a family comforter and the peerless of boudoir requisites. It is neither greasy nor sticky. Clothing, veils and gloves may be adjusted immediately after its application. 25 cents a bottle.

A. Ph. Lait de Concombre is made, sold and guaranteed by

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Biliousness and Stomach Trouble

"Two years ago I suffered from frequent attacks of stomach trouble and biliousness," writes Miss Emma Verbyrke, Lima, Ohio. "I could eat very little food that agreed with me and I became so dizzy and sick at my stomach at times that I had to take hold of something to keep from falling. Seeing Chamberlain's Tablets advertised I decided to try them. I improved rapidly." Obtainable everywhere.

THE WAR

Not much heavy fighting on the different fronts during the past week. But all the Allied armies have been nibbling at the German and Austrian lines.

The startling war news of the week was the announcement from Berlin of the resignation of Bethmann-Hollweg, German imperial chancellor. Several other high officials of the German government went out at the same time.

An Associated Press dispatch from London reports that, four of the largest and most modern of the German submarines were destroyed by American warships which were convoying the first installment of American troops to France, according to a report from German sources as contained in a Berne dispatch to the Rome News Agency and forwarded from Rome by the Central News Agency.

American reports are silent as to the correctness of the above.

At the State Capitol

DENVER, July 16.—In gathering data for use as an argument as to why the corporations of Colorado should pay an increased corporation tax, Secretary of State James R. Noland has brought to light several startling facts concerning the laxity of Colorado laws in the matter of the taxation of corporations. Mr. Noland's records show that there are now incorporated in Colorado 9,179 domestic corporations with a total capitalization of $1,900,000,000; in addition there are 607 foreign corporations with a total capitalization of $4,149,228,640, of which $251,417,359 is employed in the State of Colorado. These two corporations under the present law pay to the State of Colorado, it is pointed out by Secretary Noland, only a trifle more than $40,000 a year as a capitalization tax. Under a schedule prepared by the secretary of state and based on taxation charges made in many other states, it is proposed to collect from the corporations $312,100 a year instead of the insignificant sum now collected. Mr. Noland emphasizes at the outset that he nor any of the other state officials have the least desire to in any way gouge the corporations. He simply takes the stand that the present tax rate is a farce and that it had better be wiped from the books entirely than for the present joke law to be continued.

Secretary Noland's proposal to Governor Gunter last month that a measure be enacted authorizing the maintenance of public market places where such are needed to combat the food shark has been adopted and the bill will be introduced by Clem F. Crowley, Democratic Floor Leader and Representative from Denver. Mr. Noland has received assurance from a great many legislators, both Republicans as well as Democrats, that they will assist him in every way possible in having the corporation tax and the public market measure enacted.

During the first six months of this year the inheritance tax department under Attorney General Leslie Hubbard and Inheritance tax Appraiser Richard F. Ryan, has collected over a quarter of a million dollars. The exact figures are $252,348.54. During the last two weeks of June the department's collections were $16,751.31. The total figures for the half year almost approach the advance estimates for the entire biennial term.

Signs Point to Allied Victory

It is a long ways from the seat of war and the reports are none too elaborate or satisfactory; but it does seem as if the allied forces are fighting with more of hope and ultimate success than are the Germans. The French and British are enthusiastic and press forward with a vigor that presages victory, or at least victory is present before their eyes; and they are doing better work than two years ago.

Victory apparently must come slowly; there is no possible hope of a sudden cessation of battles; but the allied gain, now that the Russians are lending a hand, seems to be sure and certain with every added day.—Grand Junction Sentinel.

What's Wrong With Germany

To find out what is the matter with Germany it is necessary to go to the source of German ideas—to the thinkers who have fashioned her ideals for the last two generations, says the Colorado Springs Telegraph.

Following are some quotations which tell the tale. They are the words of the men who have been most widely read and most widely believed by the Germans of today.

These thinkers have put into unqualified statements the principles upon which the Prussian power was founded and has grown great. Like all philosophers they have simply reflected in their books the world about them. In turn their statements of the national ideals have had the effect of strengthening and crystallizing them. Here is the German creed:

"Not only must the state be obeyed, it must be venerated as a god. Success insured by might is the measure of right."—Hegel.

"Weak nations have no right to existence, and must be absorbed by powerful nations. The essence of the state is power. Nothing exists or can exist which is superior to the state."—Treitschke.

"The state can do no wrong. The observance of treaties is not a matter of duty but of advantage."—Adolphus Lassen.

"Love God above all things and thy neighbor as thyself. This law can claim no significance for the relations of one country to another. There never has been and never will be universal rights of men."—Bernhardi.

"Morality is a symptom of decadence. War is as necessary to the state as slavery is to society. Might is the source right. There is no right other than that of theft usurpation and violence."—Nietzsche.

There are Americans, says the Telegraph, who believe in such theories and try to practice them. For them we maintain penitentiaries and electric chairs. We do not honor them with decorations nor place them in the chairs of our universities. No American has ever successfully published a book upholding such doctrines. In Germany such books can be bought at any news stand.

Is it any wonder the Germans say we can't understand them?

War Levels All Classes

We overheard a "slacker" state a few weeks ago that this is a rich man's war and let them fight it out, or words to that effect. As a matter of fact, the well-to-do citizens of this country are stepping right out in front in every activity pertaining to the war. The rich men are giving of their wealth as never before in the history of this "money mad" country. The sons of rich men are enlisting on every hand and are anxious to go to the front. The Astors, the Arnolds, the Roosevelts and scores and hundreds of the young men of the richest and best of the men of this country are not holding back in the least.

In no other way is the evidence so strong that this is not a war of the money power or an effort to get something out of war conditions. The leading manufacturers, who were making millions out of the war-munitions contracts, have turned over their plants to the government work at a bare cost of manufacture and they are ready and willing to be taxed heavily on all "excess profits." In fact, the bill fixing the war taxes places the burden almost exclusively upon the rich of the nation.

There is not a single bit of justice in the assertion that the rich are in any way seeking to avoid their share of the war burdens, either on the battlefield or in the matter of financial support.—Grand Junction Sentinel.

A Historic Name

Butte, Mont., July 16.—Ethan Allen a direct descendant of the original Ethan Allen of Fort Ticonderoga fame, was accepted for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps here today. He has been principal of a school in this state for the last three years, and has also taught in Ohio and North Dakota.

Allen's enlistment recall the early days of American history when Fort Ticonderoga was held in turn by the French and British until finally captured by his illustrious grandsire in 1775. It is another reminder of wiping out of old differences between nations, happily now serving together against a common enemy.
