Winter Rye.

Winter rye is one of the most useful general crops that can be grown in this section. The work of the experiment station has demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt that this crop is well adapted to Northeast Minnesota. Winter rye has been grown every year for five years and has never shown injury from winter killing. In prairie sections to the west of us the exposure due to the blowing away of snow during the winter often causes failure, but the protection against winds and more abundant snow fall will generally insure a crop wherever timber is prevalent.

Winter rye may be put to a number of uses, all of which are valuable and timely. It makes an early growth in spring and is ready for pasture at least three weeks in advance of ordinary grasses. If pastured off it will come on again, provided the stock are removed for a few days, and can be browsed until it begins to shoot.

Winter rye may also be cut for hay. The best time to cut is soon after the heads form, while the food materials which afterwards are collected in the seed are still distributed evenly through the straw. If favorable weather is secured for sowing it will make good hay for horses and cattle.

The seed, when ripened, makes excellent feed for hogs or chickens, and if properly fed, does well for horses.

The one important point in the culture of winter rye, necessary to best success, is to sow the seed early in the fall. For the latitude of Grand Rapids the seed should be in the ground by Aug. 15. For regions as far north as Mora or Hinkley a week to ten days later will do no harm. Rye will grow if sown much later than this; but every week's delay means a lessening of the crop next spring. Should the plants in a warm season show signs of shooting they may be plastered off with sheep, or, if the ground is dry, cattle. The long period of growth in autumn forms vigorous plants, which stand the winter without injury. One and one-quarter bushels to one and one-half bushels of seed per acre is sufficient.

Rye will grow on almost any soil and will yield a crop on much poorer soil than any other grain.

HERMAN H. CHAPMAN.

SIDEWALK NOTICE.

MRS. LOUIS THORSEN

Bad Case of Cancer of the Stomach.

CURED WITH CASCARINE.

Alexandria, Minn., March 10.—[Special to the Journal].—An interesting case has recently developed in that of Mrs. Louis P. Thorsen, who lives at Nelson, this county. Mrs. Thorsen has been suffering for several years from that terrible affliction, cancer of the stomach. She had tried all kinds of remedies, different doctors and different systems of medicine. As a last resort she consulted a prominent specialist who prescribed Cascarine in her case. She began taking it at once, and in a very short time noticed a great relief, and a few month's treatment has effected in her a permanent and lasting cure. Cascarine is a great laxative tonic, made from roots, herbs and berries, nature's true remedies. It is purely vegetable and does not interfere with the most delicate stomach. It cures catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the liver, catarrh of the bowels and all stomach troubles. If your limbs ache, if you feel depressed, have a headache, a disgust for food, or if your stomach feels sore, if you feel like vomiting it is your liver that is out of order and you need a tonic. Cascarine as a curative agent has no equal. It acts as a stimulant, increases the flow of bile and helps the liver to perform its functions. Clears your complexion and makes one feel fresh and new. If you are in need of such treatment buy it at your drug store; price 50 cents for one month's treatment. Rea Bros. & Co., manufacturing chemists, will mail you a free book on diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels, and one week's sample treatment for 10 cents to cover postage. Cascarine is for sale at Mayo's Drug Store.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a serious attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days without relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured."
