Over 200,000 applications for insurance by officers and enlisted men of the naval service had been filed by March 31st. The average amount of insurance on each policy was about $7,300, making a total of more than $1,500,000,000. Payments on war-risk allotments are now about $1,000,000 a month.

Pneumonia surely must be a scourge to our soldiers more deadly even than German bullets, laying them low in the camps here as well as over in Europe. Last week in looking over some of our exchanges we noticed the following deaths of soldier boys: The Karlstad Advocate mentions that Sivert Spilde, of Halma, died at Camp Dodge from pneumonia. The Bemidji Sentinel states that Floyd Olson, of Island Lake, is dead at Cecaucaas, N. J., from scarlet fever that developed into pneumonia. The Middle River Pioneer gives an account of the funeral of Berger Satterstrom, a Marshall county boy, who died at Camp Devins of pneumonia. The Kennedy Star tells of the death of Louis Alfred Gravegaard, a Kittson county boy, who died at Fort Porter, Buffalo, N. Y., of pneumonia. The Fergus Falls Journal contains the account of the death of Hjelmer Sundberg at Camp Dodge, of pneumonia, and the Stephen Messenger states that Ed. Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Erickson, had died at Washington on April 10, also of pneumonia. In as much as the young men sent have passed a physical examination and are the strongest and most fit in the communities from which they go, the mortality among them from this cause is hard to account for. In all probability the change from an ordinary to a military life is too sudden and violent for their young and unhardened constitutions. The government no doubt does all it possibly can for the conservation of the health of its soldiers, but even more ought to be done, it does seem.

WARREN BOY WINS HONORS FOR MARKSMANSHIP.

Private Bert G. Magladry, son of George C. Magladry of Birchdale, recently proved his right to be called one of Uncle Sam's most efficient soldiers of the sea, by qualifying as a marksman. This coveted honor brings with it not only the privilege of wearing a silver marksmanship medal, but also extra pay.

Private Magladry enlisted with the marine corps last November. Since then he has made the most of his soldier-sailor training, and his recent fine achievement on the rifle range has resulted in this official recognition of his skill.

Private Magladry is one of the finest young men who have enlisted from this county and our citizens generally will feel proud of the record he has made.—International Falls Echo.

Bert Magladry is a Warren boy and a graduate of the Warren High School. No wonder he is able to make his mark in the world.—Ed.

NAVY LAUNCHES NEW DRIVE

After a temporary, enforced lull in navy recruiting, due to the filling of the complements of the training stations, the navy has once again unleashed its recruiting forces and is making a mighty appeal throughout entire United States for volunteers. No limit has been placed on the number of men to be taken, according to a telegram just received by Lieutenant George A. Treadwell, officer in charge of recruiting for Minnesota and North Dakota, from Commander James D. Wilson, inspector of recruiting, central division.

For the past several months the number of recruits taken from this section has been limited to 40 weekly. With all restrictions cast aside another rush similar to that of last December is predicted. All men accepted in the new drive will be enrolled in the Naval Reserve Force.

There are openings at present for apprentice seamen, firemen, hospital corpsmen, cooks, bakers, machinists, carpenters and painters. Painters and carpenters are particularly in demand for duty at the Great Lakes training station. Men in the draft may still enlist to the effect that they are not required to fill any current quotas of the national army.

Recruiting officers and men are planning a great campaign and intend to make the new drive one of the biggest in the history of the navy.

Mrs. Easton Receives a Kindly and Considerate Letter From France.

Dana Easton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Easton, of this city, is on the battle front in France doing his duty as an American soldier. On the day before he left for the firing line, a letter was written to Mrs. Easton by a French woman informing her of this fact. The fine spirit which prompted the letter shows the thoughtfulness and consideration of the French people, who are said to be the most genteel and courteous people in Europe. In the letter is voiced also the deep appreciation of the French people for the help received from America in the war. The letter is written in French. Translated into English it reads as follows:

"Camp due Cournean, France.
March 13th, 1918.

Dear Madam:

I do not know you, but I come as an intermediary of your son to make your acquaintance by letter and to tell you that tomorrow your son starts for the firing line.

I know that to you, Mother, this news will not make you feel pleasant or happy, but we French women have our husbands dead or wounded for the great cause. It is nice that the sons of America have come to France to help us. We all like and adore these fine soldiers. Mothers of America, it is your sons to whom we will owe our victory. Glory and honor be to them.

Dear Mother, your son is very glad that I announce to you his departure for the front, because it is strictly forbidden for him to write. He has promised to write and we will do all in our power to keep you posted on what is going on. Young France has suffered and is still suffering, but thanks to the children of that Great America, who will soon deliver us from the clutches of those German armies.

Accept, Dear Mother, with all our salutations, of our most profound respect, from the Reverend Sisters and from your son.

Marguerite Daycard."

THRIFT

The glorious Lincoln, through force of necessity, knew only too well the value of thrift.

But whether like he, we be of lowly origin, or whether we have the good fortune of first seeing the light of day in a palatial home, Thrift is, has been and always will be the sign of character and genuine worth.

The savings habit is a Thrifty habit. Have you started your savings account? If not, do so at once.
