Although not allowed to vote for president, there was intense interest felt at Fargo, in the action of the Chicago convention. Republicans were nearly all for Blaine and his alleged magnetism was evidently operative among them for they nearly all took an extra glass of beer or something, over the announcement of his success, and Saturday right they had the bands out and gathered in the park where speeches were made by clarion voiced orators, and Blaine and Logan pretty thoroughly ratified.

Col. Donan will have to keep his fair wards well in hand to resist assaults like this suggested by the Dakota News: "Col. Donan. of Fargo, was up at Devil's Lake recently. He is arranging for an excursion for a number of young ladies from various cities in the cast principally ladies engaged in literary pursuits. They are to remain several weeks at the lake seeing the sights and enjoying the country generally. This will be the time for our bachelors to spruce up and see if they can capture some of these blue stockings from the east. Go in young men and do vour best."

The Sioux Falls Argus says: Gov. Ordway was in the city this week, as were also the Hon. Alexander R. Boteler of West Virginia and Will Haight of the department of justice at Washington, who are specially assigned by the government to look into the manner in which business of the courts of the terri tory is transacted under the peculiar manage ment of United States Attorney Hugh J. The Turtle Mountain Indians. The Lakota News, in Nelson county, learns from Mr. Elkton, who has just returned from the Turtle Monntains, that the Indians are becoming very troublesome, inclined to be vicious, and are quite dissatisfied at being limited to the two townships assigned to them. Destructive fires have been raging in the mountains amongst the timber, and it is lieved the Indians have done it for spite. Thousands of acres of valuable timber have been destroyed. Then, if they win the Casselton grade, they will have but six or eight miles to build to make them a continuous line from Larimore to Fargo. If they lose the Casselton grade they will build on north midway between the latter and the main line until near the county line, and then divide, running one line into Grand Forks and the other to Larimore and on northwest. This is an outline of the course now intended. We are informed that $600,-000 is now ready in the hands of Mr. Kin dred at Fargo with which to build the road.

The Ward Murder Trial.

There is wide spread interest felt in the trial of the alleged killers of the Ward boys, which is expected to commence at Grand Forks on the 30th, In view of the importance of the case this statement of the situa-

Some fear a stoppage of navigation as they cannot be handled as rapidly as they are coming down, an old river man reports, that although within the next few days sixty million feet of logs will come down, arrangements are so perfected that no danger can ensue, as last fall those interested bought the slough called Qice Bay from the owners, and there from 25 to 30 millions can be put aside, thus taking much of the strain now upon the booms. Navigation will have to be kept open, as, should such be stopped, great loss will be entailed on different ones.

some of the leading thinkers of the times have said in regard to certain questions of life. It is affirmed, the preacher said, that this is an age of unbelief. But that is not true in any sense other than that every age is an age of unbelief. There is unbelief now but so there always has been, and in some ages much more than present. Here the preacher introduced llustrations from history in proof of the assertion. The preceding age had Paine, Hume, Gibbon, Bolingbroke, Roussean, Diderot and Voltaire, a galaxy of names that can be in nowise matched in this country upon that side. There is unbelief to-day, but the masses are not unbelievers. Rather are they believers and mostly found in the churches. They are so because belief is more natural than unbelief, and is necessary. Its inspirations are so great, its works are so beautiful and its consolations are so grand that men will not do without them. And the highest minds of the times are not all upon the side of unbelief. No, the majority of cultivated people are in the churhes to-day, or are believers. In proof of this the preacher introduced quota tions from Tennyson, Lowell, Longfellow, Bryant and Whittier, showing, not only that they believed in the future life, but that they believed in the larger hope of blessedness for all in that future life. That they believed with Tennyson that there is "One far off, divine event, To which all creation moves," And the preacher affirmed that this was of great importance, as more of truth was given to great and noble souls like these than to any other. People were exhorted to believe them and rejoice in the light so given.

HASTINGS, MINN.

The funeral exercises of the lamented citizen and solder, L. Vanslyke, were held to-day, June 9, in the Presbyterian church, of which he was a member. They were conducted by the Revs. J. B. Donaldson and Alex. Telford, under the Masonic fraternity. The universal esteem with which he was regarded was manifested by the immense throng which assembled to pay their last respects to the departed brother and friend, the largest ever assembled in this town upon a like oceasion. The procession was composed of the Masonic lodges Dakota and Mount Moriah, the lodge of Ancient Order of United Workmen and the legal fraternity. All the exercises were beautiful and impressive.

Considerable interest is manifested in the meeting of the city council, which is to be held to-night to act upon the proposition of the Milwaukee railroad, to erect a depot at this place if the city will give them Market square for the purpose. Considerable opposition is manifested to the scheme on the part of many citizens, who feel that it is a little cheeky on the part of the corporation after having insulted the city these many years with scarcely an apology for a depot with which to accommodate the traveling public to make this request for this valuable square, in return for which they only offer to build a depot of such pretension as their traffic demands. Sunday Regulation.

On Saturday afternoon the merchants and business men of Mankato were notified by the chief of police to close up their places of business every Sunday, commencing June 15. This was brought about by a petition signed by a number of our citizens, and, we understand, particularly by the saloon-keepers and some of the merchants who do no business whatever on Sunday. Soon after the edict of Mayor Palmer that no back or front door saloon business would be tolerated, a number of the saloon-keepers have been clamorous for the entire suspension of Sunday trade. An ancient statute has been resurrected and will be enforced to the letter. Drug stores and butcher shops will be the only exception, these two branches of business being considered necessaries in the eyes of the law, business every Sunday, commencing June.
