ST. PETER.

A Beautiful City of the Minnesota Valley.

Its Charming Surroundings, Elegant Residences, Public Institutions and

Business Enterprises. |Special Correspondence of the Globe. | ST. PETER. Sept. 17 .- St. Peter, with a population of 4,500, seventy-five miles southwest of St. Paul, is the county seat of Nicollet county, and one of the most beautiful cities in the valley of the Minnesota. Its site is pleasant, its drainage perfect, its streets broad and well graded, the principle one being nearly eight rods in width, with wide, well paved sidewalks fringed with shade trees, which give these public thoroughfares a most attractive appearance. The streets and alleys are kept scrupulously clean, and in whatever direction one's footsteps may lead him the eye is not offended by piles of rubbish, so common to large cities and too frequently seen in towns of smaller size. The private residences, so truly indicative of the character of the people, are substantial, and in many instances elegant. In driving about the city the prospect is charming, the sensation delightful. The business blocks are built chiefly of stone or brick, the material for their construction being found in abundance everywhere in this vicinity. In looking at them we are im pressed with the conviction that they were placed there to remain, and built with special reference to the purposes to which they are applied. The public buildings consist of the court house, one of the finest to be found in the northwest. It is 67x90 feet in size, built of red brick, manufactured in St. Peter, with a basement of lime stone, quarried within sight of the building. In architectural design and beauty of finish it has few superiors. It was begun in 1880 and finished in 1881 at a cost of $32,000. The public school building was erected in 1870 at a cost of $28,000. It is a magnificent structure four stories in height, including the basement, built of brick, heated with furnace and seated with single desks. It contains twelve school rooms each presided over by a competent teacher. The school is well graded and in charge of Prof. L. C. Lord, who has held his present position about six years. No better proof of his ability and worth as a teacher is present year is 650 with an average daily at-needed. The number of pupils enrolled the tendance of 500. The school is preparatory, embracing in its curriculum the English branches, higher mathematics, natural sciences and Latin, these fitting the student for the professional class in college. They ent and John Schutz, Esq., these two and have also a special teacher for music and no more. I understand Mr. Roberts has drawing. Too much cannot be said in praise of the able management by the board of education, and particularly of the efforts been elegantly spread by the management of tary of the board. This gentleman devised very unique design in the arrangement and papering of one of the rooms of the primary department in connection with the principal, and J. H. Snyder bore the expense. The result has fully justified their expectations. Gustavus Adolphus college is an institution under the control of the Swedish Lutheran church. The college is built of lime-and the rector's residence have been added to the buildings. The enrollment of students for the year will reach 200. Instruction is imparted in both English and Swedish languages, the former predominating. The college has an able faculty and fully merits the confidence and patronage of the public. The city hall was formerly the court house, but when the new court house was erected, and occupied by the county officials, the city purchased and refitted it. It has a seating capacity of 600, and a stage large stone, is four stories high, and is situated on a commanding eminence overlooking the eran, German Norwegian Lutheran and Second Norwegian Lutheran. These churches have an aggregate membership of nearly 1,500-a good showing for the moral and religious element of the city. The St. Peter Library association was organized five years ago, and they have now over 1,000 volumes of well selected reading natter.

The Minnesota hospital for the insane was completed and occupied in 1876. This institution, so well known throughout the state, it would seem almost superfluous to describe. But for the benefit of readers outside our state, as well as for those inside, we will mention some things which ought to be known by all. No description of the build-ing will be attempted. It is sufficient to ow that it covers a vast area of ground, is built of lime stone, is a massive and imposing structure, complete in every detail, with all modern sanitary improvements and accessories, and is capable of accommodating 800 patients.

The citizens of St. Peter originally donated 200 acres of land to the asylum. To this additions have been made by purchase till the farm now embraces 800 acres. There are kept on the place 12 horses, 5 yoke of oxen, 1 thoroughbred Holstein bull, 1 thoroughbred short horn cow, 45 graded cows, 9 graded heifers, 7 graded calves, 76 hogs and 125 pigs. Everything raised on the farm is carefully measured or weighed and fully ac-counted for. Although a considerable amount of grain and vegetables are produced on the farm, the institution annually pays into the hands of farmers and stock growers shoes from Mark Green; committed thirteen for additional supplies $35,000 to $40,000.

To which, if we add the salaries of officials and employes and other disbursements nearly all expended here we shall find that nearly $80,000 per year from that institution alone is expended in and around St. Peter. this is a good place to live. One other fact in regard to the hospital is not generally known, viz, that the cost of maintenance here per capita as shown by comparison with other institutions of like character is most favorable; the weekly cost for each patient being but a triffe in excess of three dollars while in many other states the cost is much greater. This speaks well for the manage-The officers of the institution are Cyrus K. Bartlett, M. D., superintendent and physician, who has been in charge sixteen years; John H. James, M. BILL OF DISCOVERY.

A Summary of the Bill Filed by the Defense in the Blaine-Sentinel Suit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 18 .-- In the United States district court, this afternoon, the atorneys for Mr. Shoemaker filed a bill of discovery in the Blaine-Sentinel libel suit. The bill begins by citing the fact of Blaine's bringing suit against fhe Sentinel and repeating the original complaint in the suit, the Sentinel's answer, the accompanying interrogatories and reply of Blaine's attorneys. The bill then states that after filing the interrogatories Shoemaker's attorneys, on the 6th of September, moved the court for a rule against Blaine, to answer the same within a specified time to be fixed by the court, which motion was argued on September 13 and overruled. The bill then goes on to say that in order to sustain the defense of justification pleaded by Shoemaker it will be necessary and material for the orators to and prove that Blaine illicit relations with and seduced the person whom he afterwards married, the result of said intercourse being the birth of a child in about three months after said marriage. The bill goes on to say that the orators nformed and believe the marriage of J. Blaine and Harriet Sherwood occurred ut the 29th of March, 1851, in Pitts burg, Pa.: that the matter was clandestinely arranged, secretly performed and hastily ac complished; that no license was issued by any authority for such marriage, none being required by the laws of Pennsylvania at that time; that no public official record was made for the same reason; that one Bryan, the minister who officiated at said marriage, has been dead several years, and that if any private memoranda or record of the marriage was made the same is lost or destroyed. the particulars of which marriage is fully known to Blaine. The bill then states that some time before the date of sald marriage Blaine was a professor at an institution of learning at Millersburg, Ky., that Miss Stanwood was an instructress in a female school at the same place, and that they there became acquainted.

Both were unmarried and Mr. Blaine addressed Miss Stanwood as a suitor; that he gained her confidence and illicit relations ensued; that a short time before said mar-riage Jacob Stanwood, a brother or uncle of Harriet, or some other person or unknown to the orators, waited on Blaine charged him with being the cause of Miss Stanwood's condition, and threatened him with personal violence unless he married her; that Blaine made no denial charge, and in consequence of being threatened agreed to marry her; that one of more persons were present at the interview between Blaine and the relative, but these persons were unknown to the orators. The bill then states that after the marriage Mrs. Blaine went to Augusta, Me., where the child was born about the 13th of June, 1851, and that said child was always recognized and acknowledged by Blaine as his own. The orator's further say they have good and valid defense as stated in their plea of justification, that the facts stated in the answer are true and that the same can be fully established by the answer of Blaine to the interrogatories heretofore propounded. All the circumstances being fully known to him and a full and complete discovery of said facts from and by Blaine is necessary to the Orators in their defense in

The Secretary of the Interior's Decision in Regard to the Price of Northern Pacific Lands.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The secretary of the interior rendered the following decision in regard to the lands within the granted limits of the Northern Pacific railroad re leased from the reservation for the Crow In dians: . That the even sections within this leased reservation should be sold at double the minimum price, two dollars and a half per acre. With regard to the odd sections, it is held that although the legislative intent in this case may not be entirely free from doubt, in that it was one of the sole purposes of the agreement to afford an opportunity for a speedy location and construction of railroads without tresspassing upon the rights of the Indians, yet in view doubt and the fact that when a definite location was made the release did not become such as to restore the land to the public domain. I concur in the opinion of the commissioner of the land office, and affirm the decision that the law in the case having been substantially settled by the numerous decisions of the department and other cases. In regard to the price of the odd sections to be disposed of, where a grant is made, declares that the alternate and even sections reserved to the United states shall not be sold for less than $2.50 per acre, the department is constructively authorized to treat the odd sections in the same manner as the even sections are treated. Therefore they should bear the same price.

The secretary says: It could not have been the intention of congress to fix differ-ent prices for the lands lying side by side in common limits and governed by the same rules of disposal, basing the difference on the fact that some sections bearing odd and others even numbers, in designating them. The description being merely for the purpose of survey and identification. This decision applies to all future disposal of lands within double minimum rates to be paid for lands
