GOOD FOR LABORING MEN.

Contractors and Others in a Position to Know Say the Prospect for

Work Was Never Better. If contractors and managers of employment agencies are correct in sizing up the situation, the coming spring and summer will be a most prosperous one for the honest man who supports himself and family as a day laborer. A GLOBE reporter made the rounds of several of the various intelligence offices, and at each of them in answer to the question, "what is the prospect," received the same answer—proprietor, was found sitting in his office "never was better." Just now the men engaged in conversation. As soon as his who have been employed in the lumber camps and who are not experienced drivers are returning to the city. A great many of them are a class of men who, after being in the woods all winter, cannot resist the temptation to paint the town a little, and the consequences are that they must begin Some of them, of course, save their money, but all of them want work, and they have no trouble in finding it just now. There is an unusually large demand for men to work on the railroads just now. Sault Ste. Marie and the Devil's Lake ex-tension of the Manitoba will give employment to several thousand men this summer, and agents say that the supply does not equal the demand. Shovelers, right of way en and tracklayers are offered from $1.75 to $2 per day now, and it is thought wages will be higher later in the season unless more men can be found. Inquiry at Col ton's employment office elicited the fact that never before has there been such a demand for railroad men. The man in charge said they could find places for 3,000 men within a week if they could get them. A few men are coming in now from Iowa and Illinois, but apparently the number of men from the South is smaller this year than in former years. There will be a good demand for farm hands this year at about $25 per month. But the greater number of men will be sent out on the railroads. Between 700 and 800 miles of road will be built in Wisconsin alone, and the Devil's Lake extension will employ about 2,000 men. White & Co. also say that they cannot get enough men for work on the railroads. The fare up to the Sault Ste. Marie is only $1.50 at present, but when the interstate commerce law goes into effect and the fares are higher the inducements will not, of course, be so great. They have recently ent a number of men to work on roads in Colorado and Indian Territory, and they all report themselves as well satisfied. They could send 500 men out to day if they had them, they said. They will send a large number of men to Escanaba next week. They had an idea that employment, could be turnished to fully 10,000 men in Dakota and Montana. A great many men will their places will have to be filled. This will create a demand during the greater pathy. part of the summer. L. Achilles, who makes a specialty of finding employment for ladies, said that if he could get girls enough to fill all the orders he had he would soon be richer than any of the Ashland boomers. It is generthis season of the year, but this year has been a marked exception. His orders are from families and hotels. He also has a large number of orders for farm had a large number of orders he anticipates a busy season. WHAT CONTRATORS SAY.

Paul and vicinity, and day laborers who do not care to leave their families for about 25 cents more per day will have no trouble in finding work. Messrs. Agnew & Cox are of the opinion that there are already enough men in St. Paul to meet the demands. Mc-Arthur Bros. anticipate a very busy season. They say the demand now for graders and masons is far above the average at this season of the year. The wages paid for com-moe laborers is now about $1.50 per day, but this scale will undoubtedly be raised in proportion to the demand for men. Employment will also be given to large numbers of stonecutters and masons. In fact, this will undoubtedly be a busy season for all kinds of laborers, both skilled and un-

Messrs. Shepard, Winston & Co. said they did not anticipate any trouble at all in getting all the laborers they wanted at reasonable prices. They have the contract to build the Manitoba road from Minot to Helena. It is expected that by putting on 5,000 men they will be able to have it com-pleted this coming fall. They can get all the men they want, who will come chiefly from Iowa, Minnesota and Dakota. The wages paid will vary a good deal in this business, according to capacity. Track-layers will be paid $2 per day. Ordinary layers will be paid $2 per day. Ordinary laborers $1.50. Their board will cost them $3.50 per week. Teamsters will be paid $26 per month and furnished board. borers of all kinds gather in the cities at this season of the year, and labor is found to be very plenty.

SEATS FOR WORKING GIRLS. The New Law Generally Obeyed in St. Paul -- What Girls and Proprietors Say. It shall be the duty of all employers of females in any mercantile or manufacturing business or occupation to provide and maintain suitable seats for the use of such female employes, and to permit the use of such seats by such employes to such an extent as may be reasonable for the preservation of their

So the law passed by the last legislature reads. A complaint that it was not obeyed was brought to the GLOBE, with a request that the matter be called to the attention of We are not having a very hard time now, we are not having a very hard time now," yentured a bright looking young lady clerk, as she looked up, smilingly, from an array of shinaware. "We just wish we had more to do. Of course, while the holiday season lasted last winter, and, for that matter, all through the winter, we girls used to get pretty tired. When we don't have anybody to wait upon we can sit down. There is never any complaining in this store, for all the girls are very ing in this store, for all the girls are very sicely treated."

This was at Dickinson's. Mr. Dickinson himself was observed waiting upon a customer. Then he had some telephoning to That attended to, he took a seat in a bran new rocking chair. The reporter, who had made it his business to investigate whether the law was complied with in this eity, approached him.

All my ladies have seats, either chairs or stools, said he. They have had them for years. I think it is as much in the interest of the proprietor as the clerk. When a lady has nothing to do she can sit down and rest, then when a customer comes in she feels refreshed when a customer comes in she feels refreshed and can wait upon him promptly, accommodatingly and with a willingness and manner that will invariably induce our customers to purchase. I tell them when they haven't tanything to do to sit down. Why, if you are standing on your feet all the time you get too tied to wait upon a customer. You rest upon one foot and then on the other, and when a customer comes in you wish he would go away. I know I would. I think the law is a good one—a very good one—and on mere atingly and with a willingness and manner at will invariably induce our customers to archase. I tell them when they haven't aything to do to sit down. Why, if you are fanding on your feet all the time you get too ned to walt upon a customer. You rest upon ne foot and then on the other, and when a ustomer comes in you wish he would go way. I know I would. I think the law is a cood one—a very good one—and on mere winciples of business policy it is more for included to the merchant or manager than apbody else, and certainly the customers itse to be waited upon by active and willing on the property of Harry Jay, upon tot, shock 13, Fairview addition, for $92.86 and costs.

"We have seats for our lady clerks," explained Jacob Mannheimer, who greets every lating them. You know girls can't stand it to be on their feet as men ean, so at the counters where we have ladies to wait upon people we have seats on the counters where we have ladies to wait upon people we have seats on the counters like this—see?"

Here Mr. Mannheimer bent over the counter and pulled out a movable seat away. I know I would. I think the law is a good one—a very good one—and on mere principles of business policy it is more for the benefit of the merchant or manager than the class and certainly the customers anybody else, and certainly the customers like to be waited upon by active and willing clerks. Fancy a fatigued person trying to be pleasant and cheerful!

"Oh, it ain't very bad." replied the one with large blue eyes, "they let us sit down when there isn't anybody to wait upon, but we must be ready, you know, as soon as anybody comes." "Oh, in some other stores in town. I know "Oh, in some other stores in town. I know what you are—you're a reporter," she continued. "Maybe, if I should tell. and the papers should get hold of it, they would treat their girls worse. I know my business, and I wont tell you. Now, please, don't put our names in the paper. If you do——!"

But three lady customers making their appearance cut her short. Then the "Golden Rule" establishment was visited. One lady employe only was sitting upon a box which had done its duty engaged in conversation. As soon as his visitor's business was made known this gentleman said: No, we don't have any seats. The girls got so lazy last January, February and March that we took the boxes away from them. They got so that we would have to go and lift them up off the boxes before they'd wait on anybody. As soon as the girls commence to dic tate to us what we should do we'll let them all go.

The gentleman was told that it was the Well, that's all right; but if my girls want to sit down they can all go, every one of them. I'll find out if any of them have been complaining, and if I find that any of them have I'll send them away pretty quick. Of course, if the laws of the state say that we

ROTUNDA RIFF - RAFF.

D. S. Dodds Says Dr. Collins Will Settle in Minneapolis for Various Reasons.

Dr. Groves Says Camp, of Brainerd, Stands a Good Show for Getting the Mayoralty.

Attorney General Templeton, of Dakota, Talks About Fargo Politics and Maj. Edwards.

Bob Miller Lets It be Known He Has a few Acres in and Around Ste. Marie.

Judge Chandler, of the Milwaukee road, sat in the rotunda of the Merchants yesterday amusing himself with sizing up the various specimens of humanity floating to and fro over the granite floor. Presently a well dressed gentleman with a smile on his face came up and, shaking hands with the judge, scated himself near him and opened up the following conversation: "How's the interstate commerce law?"

"Damifigo."

"What does it all mean anyhow?" "Damifino. "Does anyone know what it means?"

"Not that I know."
"How is it going to effect us?"

"Is it going to benefit the public?" 'It will help the railroads, wont it?"

"Are you not awful tired of having people k questions about it? At this the man handed the judge a cig ar and changed the subject of the conversation.

D. S. Dodds, of Lakota, Nelson county, Dakota, was at the Merchants yesterday. Mr. Dodds was a member of the house during the last session of the territorial legislature and was voted the homeliest man in that body, but he wore his honors easy and gave no evidence that his spirit was bloated with pride over the distinction. Mr. Dodds is a lawyer and a farmer, and represented very ably the agricultural interests. He was loyal to North Dakota to the last. He said yesterday North Dakota to the last. He said yesterday that Dr. Collins, of Grand Forks, would probably locate in Minneapolis, and he thought it would be policy for him to do so, as the people whom he represented in the territorial council were not feeling in a very friendly mood towards him. He regretted that the doctor should have followed the course that he did but he noticed that he did yet manifest he did, but he noticed that he didn't manifest much eagerness in pushing his famous rail-road bill to the front after the conference be tween the railroad officials and the railroad committee. He thought the doctor had an opportunity to make himself solid with the people and to make a good record for himself, but he seemed to lose sight of the advantage. In commenting on legislative matters he said he was surprised to see E. A. Williams, of Burleigh, take the part he did in legislative work. He had expected that he would be one of the most active members in the body. He said a few days before the house was organized he had twenty-five votes for Williams as a candidate for speaker, and he would have been elected to that position, but about that time Alexander McKenzle re-turned from the east, and three of the men who had pledged themselves to support Williams went back on him because they thought iams went back on him because they thought he was in collusion with Alexander McKenzle and they would not stand it. This left Williams with only twenty-two backers, and of course he slid through the scuppers. Mr. Dodds said he had understood 'that Williams ran for the legislature against the wishes of McKenzie and all the old-timers and political McKenzie and all the old-timers and political leaders, and that he introduced his famous charity bill appropriating $150,000 for the purpose of buying seed for needy farmers which Gov. Church was prompt in killing, to square himself with the farmers who had done much towards electing him. This was the only measure that Williams fought for, and it drew from him the most eloquent speech of the session, but it is doubtful if he dared hope that it would be-come a law. Turning from matters politic, Mr. Dodds said the farmers in the Devil's Lake country were busily engaged in pre-paring for seeding, and the majority of them were hopeful of big crops, but there were a

Dr. Groves, of Brainerd, the physician who had charge of the Sauk Rapids hospital after the cyclone last year, was found in the ro-tunda of the Merchants yesterday afternoon. The doctor is a full-fledged American, but he gives himself an English air by parting his blonde beard amidships. The doctor said blonde beard amidships. The doctor said there was nothing of a wild and exciting nature disturbing the serenity of the City of the Pines at present. Work was steadily being pushed on the new dam across the Mississippl at that point, and a good, healthy revival of business was looked for in the spring. The people are working to help out the scheme of building the proposed Brainerd & Northwestern railroad, connecting that city with Crookston via Leech Lake. He says Jim Hill is behind the enterprise, and the people are counting on it as a sure thing. people are counting on it as a sure thing. There is liable to be a ripple of excitement up there about April 17, when a special election has been called to elect a mayor to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mayor Sleeper, who, soon after his election as mayor a few weeks ago, was appointed judge of that district. Dr. Groves says the woods are full of candidates, the most of them Republican, but the Democrats and laboring men are well represented. The leading Republican candi-date is Dr. Camp, who is a public spirited man, well known and popular among all classes. Then comes Carl Douglas, in whose favor it is rumored Dr. Camp has withdrawn, but the rumor is not given credence, as a public announcement to that effect has not yet been made. W. W. Hartley, it is claimed, is making a bid for the nomination on the Republican ticket, though it is stated that he supported by the control of the con ported Dr. Ames for governor last fall. The laboring men have a can lidate in John Willis, and there are hints that Stivers, editor and proprietor of the Brainerd Journal, will reach out for the plum as a Democratic candidate with labor trimmings. If Dr. Camp will run there seems to be no doubt that he will get there with ease. Dr. Groves came down to St. Paul on private business, but he rather expected to meet Gov. Church and recommend to him Dr. Vidal, of Valley City, for the ap pointment of superintendent of public health. The appointment had been given Dr. Swain, of Wahpeton, on Tuesday.

C. F. Templeton, the young attorney general of Dakota, came down from Fargo yesterday and stopped at the Merchants, Jud La Moure said that Templeton had the softest snap in the territory. That he was the only man who could live in Fargo and make his living in Bismarck. Mr. Templeton was here on a brief visit, with no other object than the transaction of pursonal and private business. transaction of personal and private business. He left for home last night. Matters in his department of the territorial government, he asid, were quiet just at present, and he added that the business of the office would not compel him to move his family to Bismarck. He will undoubtedly continue his residence in Fargo. He says there is promise of a lively fight over the mayoralty of Fargo next month. Dr. Von Neida has been indorsed by the Knights of Labor, the Young Men's Political cub and the temperance faction, and the Knights of Labor, the Young Men's Po-litical club and the temperance, faction, and he will undoubtedly receive the indorsement of the Democrats. The same fight will be made that was made last fall, when John Haggart was knocked out of the shrievalty and Col. Benton won. With all this backing Yon Neida's chances for being the next mayor of Fargo seem good. Mr. Templeton said that Maj. Edwards would be the Repub-lican candidate for that office and lican candidate for that office, and would probably receive the party nomina-tion when the convention is held. There has been some talk of nominating Attorney Greene for the office on the Republican ticket but he refused to run, as the Republican ticket, but he refused to run, as the Republican party would not unite on him. If the major gets the nomination, with the Argus behind his back, he will make a fight to win that will fill the air with smoke and debris, but he seems to be the only man who thinks he has a show of winning.

Bob Miller, of Fergus Falls, the rattling, rustling secretary of the Democratic state central committee, was in the city yesterday, and he wore a smile of anticipation that was pleasant to look at. Bob says he has a string of lots in the center of the town of Sault Ste. of lots in the center of the town of Sault Ste. Marie and a few acres lying high and dry within the limits of that town, consequently he is in a wonderfully suppy mood, and since the Ashland boomers have set their faces in the direction of that town, he sees visions of gilded palaces, railroad stock and bank accounts. If the boom gets right lively he says he will go up there and invest.

W. S. Frany, of Fargo, is in the city. J. E. Wisner, of Lisbon, Dak., was at the Ryan yesterday. Isaac Usher, of St. Cloud, was a guest at the Ryan yesterday.

Jud La Moure, of Pembina, was at the Merchants yesterday. Hugh Blackburn, of Louisville, Ky., was at the Ryan yesterday.

C. J. Lane, of Reddield, and D. B. Johns, of Groton, Dak., were at the Merchants.
Edward F. Mues, of West St. Paul, has gone on a business visit to his old home, Winona.
