MINNEHAHA GETS IT.

The Soldiers' Home Goes to Minnehaha Falls. The Soldiers' home has been located at last, and Minnehaha is the fortunate spot. The result was reached by Capt. Christe, of Austin, and Col. Dunnington, of Redwood Falls, joining Messrs. Castle and Henderson, thus giving Minnenaha the necessary four votes. Seven ballots were taken at the meeting yes-terday morning, making ninety-seven in The seven ballots taken were:

Resolved, By the board of trustees of the Minnesola Soldiers' home, that the said home be and hereby is located at Minnehaha—provided that if the proposition of Mayor A. A. Ames, of Minneapolis, in behalf of said location, which proposition is hereby attached and made a part thereof, shall be in all respects fully and fairly complied with, to the satisfaction of this board, on or before Sept. 10, 1887, then this resolution shall be in force, otherwise null and void.

Hon. H. A. Castle, Chairman Soldiers' Home Committee—Dear Sir: On behalf of the people of the city of Minneapolis I offer as a site for the proposed Minnesota Soldiers' home a tract of fifty acres of land in the city of Minneapolis, situated on the west bank of the Mississippi river, near Minnehaha falls, and valued at $75,000. If the proposition is accepted I feel authorized in stafing that the said grounds will be connected with the present park system of Minneapolis and St. Paul in such a manner as to make it the most attractive and beautiful spot in the state. Very respectfully, A. A. Ames, Mayor.

The commissioners all appear to be satisfied with the result and the best of feeling exists between all the members of the board. The north, however, unquestionably feels a little sore over the south combining with Minneapolis and St. Paul, and had they to ballot again Litchfield or Waseca would be chosen. Taken all in all, it is a satisfactory ending to a prolonged and stubborn contest.

WHAT THEY SAY.

"I am satisfied," said Capt. A. E. Christie. "I would rather, of course, have seen it at Austin, and, in my judgment, it would have been better to have had it in a small town rather than in these it would have been better to have had it in a small town rather than in these cities. I, however, preferred to have it here rather than north of here, and I believe that is the opinion of three-quarters of the old soldiers in the state."

"We are beaten," said L. J. Brown, of Alexand ria, "and fairly beaten. We feel that we have given them a good fight and are satisfied. Of course we wanted it at Alexandria, but are satisfied with Minnehaha and prefer to have it there rather than farther south."

"I should have preferred," said Hon. T. F. Cowing, of Fergus Falls," to have had it located in any one of the towns we visited rather than in Minneapolis."

THE FEELING OF A-COMPETITOR.

THE FEELING OF A COMPETITOR. REDWOOD FALLS, July 12.—A telegram announcing that the soldiers' home had been located at Minnehaha falls was received to-day. As Redwood Falls could not obtain the home, the location is satisfactory to all. It was conceded that when St. Paul and Minneapolis joined hands in the location of the soldiers' home they would offer better inducements than any other locality. There are no kickers here. We will wait for some other public institution.

A GIRL'S STORY.

The Daughter of Respectable Chicago Parents Found in a St. Paul Bagnio.

A telegram was received at police headquarters from Chief Ebersbold, of Chicago, yesterday, stating that Annie Burnham, the fifteen-year-old daughter of respectable parents living on Division street, Chicago, had left her home and was supposed to be living in a house of ill-fame in St. Paul. Acting house of ill-fame in St. Paul. Acting on this information, Inspector Nugent found the girl in Lottie Avelyn's bagnio, No. 53 East Fifth street, where she was staying under the assumed name of Emma Hall. She was taken to head-quarters and after telling her story to Chief Clark, was locked up to await the arrival of her father this morning. She says she is seventeen years of age and doesn't want to go back with her father and says if she gets a chance she will and says if she gets a chance she will run away again. Her face and manners indicate that she is no "spring chicken" and she admitted that she entered a life of shame entirely of her own accord. She met the Avelyn woman at the Rock Island depot in Chicago a week ago last Sunday and told the madame that her father and mother were dead. The madame purchased her a new dress and a ticket to St. Paul and accompanied her here. Her whereabouts were made known to her parents through a letter she wrote to a friend upon her

DOVE INTO ETERNITY.

A Riverman Purposely Ends His

Life in the Father of Waters. A watchman on the draw-bridge of the Minnesota & Northwestern road saw a man standing near the end of the bridge making extraordinary demonstrations as if about to jump into the water about half-past 5 o'clock last evening, and he ordered the stranger away. Twenty minutes later the life-less body of the man was found floating in the river at the Jackson street docks. less body of the man was found hoading in the river at the Jackson street docks. The stranger was identified as Mack McGovern, or "Boston Joe," as he was known among the rivermen, an old deckhand, who has been on the Mississippi for the past eight years. For the past few months he has been employed on the government dredge-boat, working at Pig's Eye. He came to the city Saturday, and since that time had been drinking heavily. He was stopped by Policeman Dan McCort at the corner of Third and Jackson streets yesterday afternoon, and allowed to go on giving his name and explaining who he was. On leaving the railroad bridge he walked up the river, and is supposed to have jumped from one of the barges anchored above with the intention of suiciding. McGovern was a well-built man of apparently forty years, was neatly dressed, and wore a full sandy beard cut close to his face.

the contractors' and builders' board of trade; "they haven't yet declared the strike off as they agreed to do. If they would do so brick-layers would come into the city and we could get all the brickbayers we wanted, but as long as they don't declare the strike off, no bricklayers will come here."

Contractor George Grant says he has fifteen bricklayers at work and hasn't room for any more. The contractors generally do not say the bricklayers have gone to work. A meeting will be held by the union Thursday unless a special meeting is called in the meantime, and then some action may be taken formally.

The carpenters say the contractors' resolutions contained loopholes in the "same terms as before the strike," and "intimidation" clauses which might be easily availed of in case the contractors would wish to have a plausible excuse for breaking their agreement. If the resolutions had simply declared that nine hours should constitute a day's work for the season of 1888, without going any further, the carpenters, especially of the German union, say they would have gone to work. The contractors say they have no other proposition to make.

GIVEN A SWORD.

Capt. Price, of Company E, Is Presented With a Sword.

Last evening, after Company E had drilled about half an hour, Capt. W. W. Price called his company to a parade rest and J. P. Moore, the first captain of the company, delivered the following re-company, delivered the following remarks:

Fellow Soldiers: I feel that I have a right to say fellow soldiers. I feel great pleasure at your advancement. I need say nothing about my connection with the company, and whatever I say about myself will be in connection with another, now a member of the company. Five years marks a number of epochs. The youth of sixteen grows to the man of twenty-one. Six years ago a number of young men, ranging from sixteen to eighteen years, asked me to meet them and form an independent company. Shortly afterward the governor asked the company to fill a vacancy in the First regiment. The company was mustered in April 2, 1882, and I was the first captain. I speak with pride of this as I trust every other captain of the captain and first lieutenant two of the first and best in the old company. Shortly after the company had been mustered in I was surprised, affected and delighted one evening as one of the members stepped forward and presented me with a beautiful sword. No one was so active in raising the subscription as your captain. I have always cherished it, and nothing would have induced me to part with it. The thought occurred to me that I should do something to remind your captain of my appreciation. There are many weapons which have cost more, but none cost more than it cost me to part with this sword.

Then addressing himself to Capt. Price, Capt. Moore said:

It is with no small sacrifice that I now perform an act that is never performed by a man

Price, Capt. Moore said:

It is with no small sacrifice that I now perform an act that is never performed by a man save with dishonor, except in cases of this kind—I surrender my sword. I give it to you with the feeling that you will always wear it with honor, and I hope it will always be worn by a commander of Company E.

How Haggard Hit Upon a Name
When the author of She was a boy it seems that the Haggard nursery reckoned among its belongings a very ancient and battered wooden doll, which had been handed down from a former generation, and was regarded, ugly as it was, with peculiar affection by the girls of the family. The doll, which had lost its eye in the course of time, was known to all the children as She, this name having been bestowed, it is said, by a faithful old nurse in the family's employ.

GILFILLAN BLOCK, July 13, 1887.
Calling attention to the foregoing notice of Messrs. Cochran & Walsh, we beg to announce to our old customers and friends that we have made arrangements to occupy a portion of their office rind to handle real estate on our own account as agents. Our success, while acting for the past ten years, as commission salesmen for the above firm, we believe justifies our confidence that we shall still be able to satisfy both buyers and sellers who entrust their property to our care.

EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY

thusiastic Educators. CHICAGO, July 12.-Except at the national conventions of the two princi-pal political parties, no audience pal political parties, no audience has ever assembled in the Chicago exposition building of equal numbers and brilliancy to that gathered there tonight at the opening session of the National Educational association. It was estimated that 18,000 people, several thousand more than could find seats, were crowded into the great hall. The bulk of the throng was composed of active educational workers. There were three women to every man, and the audience seemed a sea of bonnets and light dresses. The great gallery was as completely crowded as the floor. The night was warm, but thousands of fans were fluttering, and the open windows admitted occasional breezes from the lake. Long before the proceedings were under way the aisles were overflowed by the eager crowds, and were filled with standing men and women clear up to the platform, while the steps to the rostrum were crowded from 8 o'clock until 9.

THE PROGRAMME was a Thomas concert. After the music was over the stage was rearranged, and the notables of the occasion ascended the rostrum, their ladies seated on the steps. Among those who reached the platform were the officers of the the rostrum, their ladies seated on the steps. Among those who reached the platform were the officers of the association, members of the national council, Mayor Roche and members of the Chicago board of education. President William F. Sheldon called the convention to order, and without further preliminary Mayor Roche began a hearty address of welcome. After him came preliminary Mayor Roche began a hearty address of welcome. After him came President Story, of the Chicago board of education; Supt. Howland, of the Chicago city schools, and County Supt. Lane, all welcoming the delegates to the convention. President Sheldon responded on behalf of the association. He closed by introducing the principal speaker of the evening, Richard Edwards, LLD., Illinois state superintendent of education. The subject of Dr. Edward's address was "The Problem of To-day." He was listened to with close attention, and notwithstanding the heat of the evening held the majority of the audience until the late hour at which the session ended.

A Small Excitement.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 12.—There was considerable of a flurry in the city at 11 o'clock last night when a rumor became current that a bloody fight had became current that a bloody hight had taken place near Little River, south of Fort Worth, on the Missouri Pacific, between robbers and guards. Little River is a watering station and no news can be received from there. It is certain that officials of the road have cause tain that officials of the road have cause to fear robbery, and secretly put guards on both the north and south-bound trains. The north-bound train reached here without molestation. The guards who went on the south-bound are Constable John Thompson and Deputy Sheriffs Jim Thompson and James Maddox. The train men were also armed. It is stated that Trainmaster Roy also accompanied the party.

The Great Lakes.

Who has not heard of the great lakes! But one can form no conception of the enjoyment derived from a trip on this succession of inland seas unless a journey is taken on one of the palatial steamers of the Lake Superior Transit company. Many thousands of summer tourists enjoy this trip greatly, and all express themselves in terms of the highest praise. Twelve days is the time required for a trip from Duluth to Buffalo and return, and $45 the amount asked for all the accommodations necessary to make this voyage enjoyable. Large state-rooms, delicious meals, modern improvements, delightful company and cool, bracing air go to make this a vacation of pure enjoyment from beginning to end. GILFILLAN BLOCK, July 13, 1887.
On July 1 we retired from the General Real Estate Commission business, in order to devote more time to our Mortgage Lejan and Financial department. We shall continue to act as agents however, for those properties in which we retain an owner's interest, or which we represent exclusively for correspondents who act upon our judgment in fixing the time and terms of sale of property which they own here. Messrs. A. H. Paget and B. J. Smith will in future have charge of this department of our business. We ask attention to their card and to that of Holdridge & Kenner, our former commission salesmen, below. GILFILLAN BLOCK, July 13, 1887. mission salesmen, below. COCHRAN & WALSH.

OFICE OF COCHRAN & WALSH, GILFILLAN BLOCK, July 13, 1887. Seferring to the above announcement of Messrs. Cochran & Walsh, we desire to notify both old and new customers, that we shall be happy at all times to quote prices and terms upon the property exclusively controlled by that firm of the real estate department of whose business we have taken charge since July 1. We shall also handle property on our own account, as commission on our own account, as commission agents, and invite buyers and sellers to avail themselves of our services.

No doubt about that; even the fellow who asks: "Is this hot enough for you," hasn't energy enough to propound his customary conundrum.

THIN CLOTHES.

That is the next expression that naturally arises after a realization of the state of the weather. Thin clothes is all the vacation that most of us get. Most of us are not able to go out of town and take a rest, so that the rest we do take is in clothing suitable to the season. We have a full line of Light Goods in Pongees, Drap d'ete, Silk Lustres, Mohairs, Flannels, Seersuckers and that sort of thing. Be protected against the hot wave by getting inside some of these. It wont cost you much. Come and see us about it.
