The grand jury had a freak letter sent in yesterday. Lucy Appleton had a man arrested for troubling her, and when Judge Bailey discharged him she was aggrieved. To the grand jury she water: "I consider this a conspiracy, and, gentlemen, I wish you to examine closely into this matter and dispose of it as you see fit. And I also ask your honorable body if they find simplicity and fraud on the part of the court that Judge Bailey be stricken from the bar."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Boston Ideals will give their last performance to night at the Grand opera in "Queen Topaz," The matinee bill will be "Faust."

Henry E. Dixey, the famous and versatile comedian, will make his reappearance in the bewildering burlesque "Adonis" at the Grand Monday evening. Several City Officials Called on for a Settlement of Fees Collected.

The trials and tribulations of Andrew J. Rinker, city engineer, furnished the element that enlivened the proceedings of the city council yesterday afternoon. The animosity that has been engendered between himself and members of the sewer committee is well understood, the sewer committee is well understood. and a reaction was expected. It came late in the afternoon, when Ald. Mc-Ardle offered a resolution requiring City Engineer Rinker to make specific charges against any alderman at whom his insinuations were leveled in an interview published in the Pioneer Press, Nov. 18, in which he is reported as say-

After the eight-hour law went into effect, there was a decided change for the worse, especially when certain aidermen became members of the swer committee. * * * Aldermen have been known to get into the trenches and call out. "Boys, don't work too hard; you are working for the city." Others have taken the men from their work and traited them at convenient saloons. * * * I think that with the aldermen scheming it is a physical impossibility to keep out abuses. * * * Every movement of some aldermen has been for political effect, not for the best interests of the city. * * * There were some kicks from aldermen when an attempt was made to discharge incompetent men. made to discharge incompetent men, there has been no sort of discipline in Downs should be appointed chairman, with power to send for persons and papers. The resolution slipped through without opposition and comment. Afterwards, however, Engineer Rinker gained the floor, in spite of objection from Ald. Kerr, and stated that the resolution was the last drive of a man who had, or who had at least attempted to persecute him. He wanted a thorough investigation that was not to be confined to the strip of sewer work mentioned, but which should include the sewer tunnel as well. An article in the Globe had confounded the connecting sewers with the sewer tunnel. He did not know whether this was an ending to the sewer tunnel. Kerr replied in a hot-headed speech, in which he said it would be proved that Engineer Rinker was in-competent as far as sewer building was competent as far as sewer building was concerned. He, too, wanted a thorough investigation, and one that should include the Broadway sewer in Northeast Minneapolis, as well as the South Minneapolis tunnel. He wanted the committee to go to the very bottom, and would show that improper cement was used by direction of the engineer, and that the work was faulty in general.

HUNT WOULD RUN IT. An Attorney's Scheme for the Hennepin Avenue Theater.

A scheme is now on foot by which the Hennepin avenue theater, over which there have been so many suits during the past year, may be again opened to the public, and the steady run of expense withoutany income at all stopped. In the district court yesterday C. N. llunt, attorney for the theater company, filed an application asking that he be allowed to open and run the theater allowed to open and run the theater for the next two years, during which time it is liable to be in litigation. Ralph Whelan, the receiver of the company, joins in the petition, and asks that his bill of $2,000, $1,000 for expenses and $1,000 for services, be settled. At present the theater is under an expense of $200 per month. Mr. Hunt proposes to give his bond for $10,000, and then by opening the theater save the $200 per month. He has received a number of month. He has received a number of applications, he says, from companies to rent the theater. Unless something of this kind is done the theater will have to remain closed for two years at least, being all the time under a heavy ex-striking a woman in the Bodega salooi a charge of disorderly conduct. He conducted his own case, and made a desperate attempt to be decidedly witty. His story was that the woman had injured herself, and had gone out doors to get fresh air. He had followed her to render assistance, when he was arrested by the officer. He did not endeavor to get a pair of knuckles from his pocket, he said, as the policeman charged. Leak roasted the police generally, and the patrolman he came in contact with in particular. The reason he had a pair of knuckles in his pocket was because he had some $2,600 in his pocket, and considered it necessary to carry some sort of a weapon. Leak looked and acted in a decidedly sullen manner, and succeded in getting himself called down several times. Judge Mahoney finally dismissed the case, but stated that he thought Leak had been guilty of carrying concealed weapons guilty of carrying concealed weapons and resisting an officer.

WORK OF THE GRAND JURY.

Scenes About the Court Room---Setting the Various Cases for Trial.

The grand jury has to date turne over about forty indictments, nearly all of which are against parties examined in the municipal court and bound over to await their action. When the jury adjourned last evening there were a large number of witnesses present who had not yet been examined, and it looks very much as though they might not get through with their word this week. The criminal calendar was called yesterday morning and most of the cases set for trial. The three cases against Ezra W. Aldrich, for receiving stolen property, were passed during the call, as were also the following cases: Charles R. Palmer, grand Jarceny, second degree; David Rafter, assault, second degree; Frank Burnham, grand larceny, second degree; Minnesota Transfer Packing company, maintaining a public nuisance; John H. Colwell, perjury; and a number of liquor cases. The case of W. F. Meader, indicted for selling wheat which he had received in storage, was set for trial Dec. 13. The case of John Sauer, who was convicted last spring in the second degree and sentenced to terday morning and most of the cases set Sauer, who was convicted last spring in the second degree and sentenced to serve three years in state prison, and who was afterward granted a new trial by the supreme court, was set for Dec. 17. The following cases were nolled: 1da L. Saekett and E. W. Wiggins, of the old dime museum, Sabbath breaking; Marenus McClain, selling liquor without a license, and Benjamin Rohrbach, assault in the second degree. The case against John R. THE FAMOUS CASE against Theodore Shotwell for obtaining money by false pretenses was passed for the present. The county attorney wished to have it set for trial this month, as John DeLaitre, the principal witness for the state, wishes to sail for Europe next month, but E. M. Wilson, attorney for Shotwell, claims that he will be unable to try the case before the middle of January. After the call of calendar the following parties, against whom the grand jury have returned indictments were arraigned: The culprit who attracted the most attention was Carrie Lamont, the astrologist, who is indicted for kidnapping Mabel Smith, an infant. When her name was called she walked up to the clerk's desk with an air of bravado, and while the clerk was reading the indictment she wagged her head and appeared to be greatly amused. She reserved her plea until this morning.

Eugene A. Bassett, of private detective fame, was called up to answer to the charge of stealing a span of horses of Thomas Gavin, the liveryman. He pleaded not guilty to the charge, and with an air of injured innocence took his seat. His trial was set for Dec. 17. George Clark, a mumber of Bassett's force, who is charged with being his accomplice, also pleaded not guily, and had his trial set for Dec. 10. Errick Dahlgren, an old man, charged with shooting at Charles Youngquist, was allowed to reserve his plea to an indictment for assault in first degree until next Monday. When the names of Max and Lewis Yoffiny were called, two very dirty, frowzy Russian Jews came forward; they were charged with running a "fence" at 123 Thirteenth ayenue north, and of buying a quantity of lead pipe, faucets and sheet iron which was stolen from the Steele block, near the corner of Washington and First avenues north. ITS REFORM IDEA. The Trades Assembly Unfolds Its Views.

The trades assembly last night had one of the liveliest sessions of its history. Most of the evening was spent in com-plimenting Engineer Runker with hot left-handers. The assembly has never been especially friendly to him in sewer works, and recent developments have not tended to increase the love and esteem. A delegate submitted a facetious communication on the engineer, which the assembly enjoyed immensely. The feature of the evening was the report of the committee on municipal reform, Mounted Offidetailed to work up the case, and yesdetailed to work up the case, and yesterday morning they arrested Eugene Bartlett, William Carney, Andrew Burns and George Hummell, the latter being a brother of the notorious Louis Hummell. The men were all taken before the grand jury, and their cases will be heard to-day. Bartlett, the youngest of the party, has agreed to turn state's evidence, and it is thought that there is no escene for the gang. The men were evidence, and it is thought that there is no escape for the gang. The men were arrested at George Speck's butcher shop, near the corner of Washington and Twenty-ninth avenues north. Speck himself was in the gang, but made good his escape, notwithstanding the fact that three or four shots were fired after him. It is alleged that Speck was the leader of the gang, and had the men steal the cows and bring them to him to butcher and sell. In his shop were found a number of robes and other goods supposed to be stolen.

Frost & Walton, Loan and Trust OUR BOOK DEPARTMENT has no equal in the Northwest for Real Bargains. Standard authors, in handsome cloth-bound books, 15 cents each. Dickens' works, 15 vols. Waverly Novels, 12 vols., $4.50 a set. Dore's Bible Gallery, 90 cents, and a vast quantity of other desirable books equally low. Syndicate Block, Nicollet and Fifth, MINNEAPOLIS.

We want to see you at the UTK. We have placed our Boys' Clothing within reach of any boy in Minneapolis. You see, we are going to leave on February 2d, and we would rather sell every Boy's Suit in our store at nearly one-half the original retail price than to ship them back.

We can give you any size from 10 to 17 years. Children's Suits, all sizes, go with the rest. This is no catch, but straight-ahead business. We will convince you that it is all right, and as big a bargain as you ever saw.
