Jack Ryan, the St. Paul Middleweight, Defeated by George Kessler.

NEW YORK, March 7.-Fully 2,500 people assembled in the American Institute building at 10 o'clock this morning to be present at the auction com sale of California trotting stock. They found that a trotting track nearly one-sixth of a mile in length had been laid in the building in order that the gait and style of the animals to be sold might be displayed thereon to good advantage. This sale, both in the number of animals offered and their character, was the most important of the kind ever known in the East. It was the greatest gathering of trotting horse men seen in New York this win-ter, and was mainly composed of men whose names are well known on every trotting track and stable in America. Prominent among these were David Bonner, J. H. Schultz, J. D, Fer-David Bonner, J. H. Schultz, J. D. Ferguson, Jack Splan, John Madden and W. J. CURLING BONSPIEL

Good Ice and Fine Sport at Winnipeg---St. Paul Rinks in Bad

WINNIPEG, Man., March 7.—The change in the weather has put new into the curling bonspiel. Playing was suspended at an early hour last night and the ice flooded. Everything was in good shape to-day, and there was some good play-ing. The rinks that attracted the greatest interest were the Crusaders, of Portage, Wis., and the Lindsay, Ont., men, who were drawn to oppose each other in the third draw. At times the greatest excitement prevailed, and the enthusiasm was very marked when one or the other of the skips made a good shot. Notwithstanding the Wisconsin quartette played a plucky game, they were vanquished by the Lindsay rink by seven points. On the fifteenth end the two rinks were a tie, but in the sixteenth and seventeenth the Outcome.

At its conclusion cheers were given for the vanquished and the victors. Though the Ontario men beat the the Wisconsin players they were in turn defeated by the Winnipeg Thistles in the fourth draw. The St. Paul rink was also defeated in the third draw by the Winnipeg Granites with a score of 19 to 14. Both American rinks are now out of the race for the Grand challenge cup. BUTTE, Mont., March 7.—Early this norning Jack Ryan, the middle-weight fighter from St. Paul, undertook to knock out in five rounds, George Kessler, middle-weight champion of Montana, near this city. Skin gloves were used, and after the first round it became evident to the spectators that Ryan was outwinded, the high altitude not agreeing with him, and Kessler began knocking him right and left. Ryan, near the close of the round, landed a right hander on Kessler's nose, making the claret come freely. In the second round Kessler got Ryan's head in chancery, inflicting terrible punishment on him. At the close of the round Ryan went to his corner rather groggy

Third Round—Everybody predicted that Kessler would knock out Ryan in this round, but the lad from St. Paul stood his ground. Although visibly worsted, Kessler's terrible right-hand ers sounded with terrific thuds upon his lips, cheeks and neck, while Ryan returned the compliment as well as his wasted strength would permit. Kessler wasted strength would permit. Kessler followed up his advantage and started in with the evident determination to knock the man out. Ryan's left eye became puffy and swollen, while his face and chest were spotted with blood. It was a foregone conclusion that it was Kessler's fight and he forced Ryan to his break forced.

Time of round, three minutes.

Last Round—Kessler came up smiling and by far the fresher of the two. Ryan was still game, however, and his pluck was commendable, but the Butte pluck was commendable, but the Butte boy forced him around the ring, against the ropes, and in fact planted blow after blow that staggered Ryan into a state of defense, although he occa-sionally got in some beautiful drives on Kessler's neck, head and ribs. The men clinched several times, and when the referee stopped the match he awarded the victory and money to Kess-ler.

He says: "I came East for the Jamestown Loan and Trust company, and stopped in Washington as any granger would do." From Pierce's conversation, it is a fair inference that he will sign an indorsement for Mellette to-morrow before going to New York. He is honest and sincere in saying the statements which his friends have vociferously made that he is a gubernatorial candidate and he is a gubernatorial candidate, and our correspondent is fully satisfied after seeing him that he has never sought the position since Mellette's candidacy was authoritively annunced authoritively announced.
