MANAGERS WILL WAIT

The Western Association Meeting Will Not Be Held Until in November.

Des Moines to Remain, but Omaha May Conclude to Drop Out.

A Surmise on the Composition of the Association Next Season.

The American Association to Close for the Year To-Morrow Afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Western association has been postponed by mutual consent from Oct. 15 to some time in November. This is done to see what is accomplished at the National league and American association meetings, and whether or not the brotherhood engineers a compromise or con-cludes to start on its own hook. It is broadly hinted that both league and brotherhood officials have made overtures to whole Western association clubs for transfer to the East in case there is a general rupture. Until this Fergu important matter is settled Western association managers don't know precisely what to do. When the meeting comes the first important business will be the naming of the cities to compose the league. It has been the general impression that Des Moines has seen all the base ball it wants to for ten years, but this view of the case proves erroneous. Des Moines is much more anxious to remain in the association than a year ago. The losses for 1889 footed up less than $2,000, and a move-ment is already on foot preparatory to putting a strong team in the field. The promoters of the enterprise will issue 200 shares of the value of $50 each, making in the aggregate $10,000, which wil be robust backing on which to open th season. It is settled, however, that St Joseph goes out. The attendance in the Missouri town was large and the salary list small, and yet wail goes up that there wa a deficiency of $9,000. The management of the club was evidently not of the best. The other half-dozen cities of this year's league will doubtless seek retain their membership, though is not absolutely certain that Omah will want to stax in another year. After a town has once won a pennant, its pec ple rather insist that it shall keep it up and the year following a pennant ye is pretty certain to be a losing one President McCormick has been prett busy lately selling players. He got good price for Crooks, has just so Nichols through Ted Sullivan to Cu einnati for $3,000, and it is under-stood a big offer has been made by a California elub for Clark. An Omaha writer says: McCormick sits over his desk these hazy October days figuring how he can get even on his $2,600 invested in the base ball business. His calculations disclose that he can probably realize $9,500 from the sale of players. This sum with the $2,000 in bank, comes within $700 of the amount invested in this association, and if realized would provide for a very satisfactory disposition of the base ball business in this city. The $11,500 does not include the grounds The $11.500 does not include the groun i improvements, and their sale would bably allow the stockholders to draw out

The remaining five cities are anxious to give the Western association another whirl. Among the new cities which will ask for admission will be Wichita, Ran.; Lincoln, Neb.; Oshkosh. Wis., and Duluth, Minn., and a shrewd guesser says Denver will be dropped owing to its distance from the association's natural center, and that the association of 1890 will be composed of clubs from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Omaha, Duluth, Oshkosh, Des Moines and Sioux City. The election of officers will excite some discussion. It would be a wise move to roll the offices of president and secretary together and choose somebody for the place who does not reside in any league

WHOSE PENNANT?

Brooklyn Hasn't Won the American Rag Yet.

The last days of the American association season promise to be interesting ones. The Brooklyn team will probably win the pennant, but St. Louis still has a chance to take the flag. The difference between the two clubs is but eight points, and if St. Louis wins to-day and Brooklyn loses, the "perennial champ-ions" will again assume the lead by a fraction so small that their figures will not show it. Then they have only to win on the following day to elinet the championship. The Columbus team, although not a winner tiself, has already been an interesting figure in deciding the championship by beating St. Louis three straight, and may yet return the flag to the Browns by defeating Brooklyn in the present series. The St. Louis team, however, is pretty likely to lose the flag this time. It must play to-day and to-morrow with Cincinnati, which is putting up a great game, and cannot afford to lose now, as the Athletics would thus secure third place. PROUD OF HIS PURCHASE. Col. Conley Says Axtell Is Worth His Weight in Gold.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 .- Col. John W. Conley, who last night paid $105,000 for the three-year-old trotting stallion Axtell, the highest priced piece of horse fiesh in the world, said this morning:

All am proud of my purchese, and if the horse lives it is only a matter of a few years when he will earn in stud fees and purses what I paid for him. His record of 2:12 yesterday at Terre Haute is four seconds better than the fastest mile by horses a year older, and soows Axtell to be without a peer among young horse. I have already booked thirteen mares to him for next season at $1.000 each, and can easily get all the others I want. Axtell will be shipped to-day from Terre Haute to Lexington, where he will remain until cold weather, and then will probably be taken to California. With the advantage of the coast climate Axtell will, in my opinion, be ready next summer to lower the regord of 2:08% made by Mand S. My horse will be entered and started in races next season anywhere there is money enough hung up to make tha it an inducement—that is after the early part of the season when he will be in the stud.

Col. Conley, the man who bought Axtell, is an Ohioan by birth, and has been a resident of Chicago twelve years. He has been interested in trotters for a quarter of a century. He is now owner of Johnston, the fastest pacer in the world, record 2:06%. the highest priced piece of horse flesh

YOUNG IS PLEASED. The New Rules Suit the League President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 .- "In all my experience in base ball," said President N. E. Young, of the national league, this afternoon, "I never witnessed such an interesting finish as the one Saturan interesting linish as the one Saturday concluding the season of 1889. Think of it, six clubs depending upon the last game of the year to settle their status. One notable thing the past season has been the marked improvement in batting, and as far as I have gone in the averages, this season just ended is far in advance in that respect of the one that preceded it.

far in advance in that respect of the one that preceded it.

"Take the case of Brouthers, of the Bostons, for instance. Had he maintained the pace at which he started his average would have been above 400, but for fifteen or twenty games toward the finish he was unable to get in a safe hit. Even with this drawback he leads the batters of the league with a splendid percentage, thus showing that the change in the pitching rules has improved work with the stick. I have not gone far enough into the fielding averages yet to determine whether there is an improvement or not over last year, an improvement or not over last year, but my impression is that fielding has suffered at the expense of batting."

Will Duluth Come In?

DULUTH, Oct. 12.—Duluth can have a ball team in the Western association next season if she will put up the necessary $10,000. J. W. Anderson, who has given the city all her best sports during the past half dozen years, will put up $1,000 and guarantee the team, provided the citizens will raise the remainder. John S. Barnes has taken a five-year lease of the old People's theater and will hereafter spend much of his time here, and will also go into the base ball management if he thinks it can be made profitable. In company with Mr. Anderson the Capital City sportsmen made a tour of inspection yesterday and found grounds at easily accessible distances which can be secured for a reasonable consideration. Preliminary arrangements being thus completed, all Duluth has to do is to go down into her pocket and fish up $9,000. Special to the Globe. DULUTH, Oct. 12.—Duluth can have a
