> THE PENAL CODE APPLIES. Important Ru ing on Prohibition in South Dakota.

Madison, S. D., Feb. 19.-Judge Aitkins rendered an important decision in a liquor case pending before the circuit court here to-day. The defendant had been indicted for selling liquor without a license under the territorial law of 1870. In dismissing the action the judge ruled as follows: The court holds that prohibition went into effect on the 2d of November upon the admission of the state into the union, and that it repealed all existing laws relative to licensing the sale of inlaws relative to licensing the sale of in-toxicating liquors as a beverage, and that by repealing those laws it repealed all the penalties for the violation of them, and necessarily repealed the law of 1879 relating to license, under which Boston would in effect thwart the will of the people as expressed in the constitutional convention and at the polls. In other words, I hold that we have a constitutional prohibition, and that adequate punishment for its violation is provided by law, and it does not depend upon the caprice or notions of the legislature whether or not it shall be enforced. This case I shall take from the jury and order the defendant discharged and his bondsmen released.

THE DEAD GIRL BURIED.

Miss Dietzen's Body Laid at Rest. The Inquest.

HASTINGS, Feb. 19.—Miss Dietzen's funeral, which occurred this morning from St. Boniface church, was very largely attended, the edific being filled to the very aisles. Rev. Father Cornelius Whittmann conducted the last nelius Whittmann conducted the last sad rites. Flowers from friends were sent in in large numbers, and when the journey to the grave commenced, the many carnages that followed the remains bespeak the esteem of the deceased while living. The father of the young lady is nearly wild with grief and the mother is almost prostrated. While returning from the funeral Wendelin Then, who had two ladies with him in a single carriage, was run into by the driver of a careless team. The buggy overturned, and Mr. Then suffered a dislocation of the shoulder and one of the ladies, Miss Hattie Panchot, received a severe and painful and one of the ladies, Miss Hattie Panchot, received a severe and painful scalp wound and sustained several bad bruises. The other lady escaped uninjured. Then's horse ran away and demolished the buggy. The inquest continued all day, several important witnesses being examined. All the evidence shows conclusively that Louis Sommers shot the girl because of jealousy. There are still several witnesses to examine, and the verdict will probably not be reached until Friday. Interest is still intense, there being about 150 persons present at the time of adjournment. Mrs. Conklin and Frank Scanlan declared the voice and gestures of the prisoner were similar to doctor and drove him to his death, but neither could positively identify him. Both thought the prisoner a much older man than the one who drove the famous white horse. DUBS ON HIS DIGNITY. An Evangelical Bishop Gives a Court the Shake, CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 19.—Bishop Randolph Dubs, of the Evangelical association, was placed on trial to-day, at Salem church, for conduct unbecoming a Christian. Fiften clergymen constitute the trial committee, and Bishops Esher and Bowman, of Chicago, are present. The charges against Bishop Dubs are that he accused Rev. M. Pfizinger, of Buffalo, N. Y., and E. B. Esher, son of the bishop, with having falsified a telegram which he sent several years ago and which referred to church business and that on two occasions he was familiar in his several years ago and which referred to church business and that on two occasions he was familiar in his conduct toward two women. One of the women was eating dinner at her home when he entered, and, placing his hand upon the back of her chair, he asked if her "uinner was good." The other instance of familiarity is laid in Switzerland, time twelve years ago, and the woman in the case a servant at a hotel. Nothing criminal is alfeged in either case. The Evangelical association is a strong denomination, having many churches in Illinois, the Northwest, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Bishop Dubs has always been a very popular man, and his friends declare that envy is back of the present trial. The investigation is being made behind locked doors, although Bishop Dubs was emphatic in his desire to have the public admitted. At the first session this morning he appeared at the church with two stenographers, but they were demorning he appeared at the church with two stenographers, but they were denied admission. He entered a protest against the admission of written testimony unless he was gived the privilege of cross-examining the witnesses. That was impossible, as the witnesses are not here. Bishop Dubs then withdrew, declaring that the Investigation should proceed without his presence, inasmuch as he had been deprived of all his rights. DIDN'T CALL A WITNESS.

Contractor Kavanagh, Accused of Jury Bribing, Acquitted. CHICAGO, Feb. 12 .- The building conactor, Thomas Kavanagh, a member of Camp 135, Clan-na-Gael, accused of being implicated in attempts to bribe possible jurors on the Cronin trial, walked out of court this afternoon a free man. He had just been acquitted without having to call a witness. Kayanagh's release took place after the evidence for the prosecution was all in, and was ordered by Judge Waterman, who ruled that States Attorney Longenecker had failed to make out a case. This leaves one man, Jeremiah O'Donnell, on trial, of the total of seventien indicted. When court opened this morning ex-Bailiff Soloman, one of the state's witnesses, took the stand. He detailed at some length a statement that Bailiff Hanks approached him saying there was "big money" in getting a man on the Cronin jury who would hold out for the defense. Hanks told him Graham was to pay the money. Then Joseph Dundas, a stenographer, testified from his notes of a statement or contession made by the defendant, Kavanagh, when the latter, with others, was, prior to the indictments, put through a course of questioning in State's Attorney Longenecker's office. According to Dundas, Kavanagh had confessed that he had made inquiries in regard to certain men to be summoned on the jury and had reported his conclusions to Lawyer Forrest, of counsel for the defense in the Cronin case. He said his inquiries were on BEHALF OF THE IBISH PEOPLE who he considered were on trial. The next witness, Edward Hoagland, a barber, testified that the defendant O'Donnell told him that he (Hoagland) would be summoned on the jury and that there was $1,000 or more in the job for him if he would get the defendants off as easily as possible, especially Beggs. This finof Camp 135, Clan-na-Gael, accused of being implicated in attempts to bribe ished the case on behalf of the state. Attorney Byam then proceeded to make an argument on a motion that the jury be instructed to acquit Kavanagh. Mr. Byam said the inquiries and actions of Kavanagh were entirely proper—precisely what the state's attorney himself had done a hundred times. Attorney Briggs, for O'Donnell, also moved for acquittal, arguing that but one witness, the informer, Hoagland, had testified against O'Donnell, and that, even if Hoagland's story were true, it would not convict of conspiracy, the charge upon which O'Donnell was indicted. After brief speches by State's Attorney Longenecker and his assistant, Mr. Neely, the motion of Mr. O'Donnell's attorney was overruled, Judge Waterman holding that the jury should be allowed to pass upon the testimony. As to Kavanagh, Judge Watermans aid that he could not be convicted on suspicion that he knew of corruption. He had a right too seek out the character of jurors summoned or about to be. The motion for acquittal was sustained. Adjournment till to-morrow was announced, and Kavanagh, shaking hands with his lawyers, left the court with a radient face.

MURDERED IN COLD BLOOD.

Hackman Shot Down by Wealthy Bookmaker.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 .- Daniel Downey, a well known hackdriver, was shot and probably fatally wounded by Hana Murphy, the bookmaker, about 3 o'clock this morning. Bystanders who witnessed the shooting say there was no provocation for it. Murphy, who is here from Tennessee on a visit, came out of Hogan's saloon at 340 State street about 3 o'clock. With him were Joe Ulliman and Charley Thomas, the wealthy Chicago bookmakers. All three were more or less under the influence of liquor. The three men were on their way to a carriage that was waiting for them, when Downey noticing the carriage in waiting asked them if they did not want a carriage. "Get away from me." Murphy is alleged to have said, with an oath, and without further provocation he drew a revoiver and shot Downey in the cheek, and as the unfortunate man fell, fired another shot which took effect in Downey's left side. The three men then entered their carriages and were driven rapidly away. Downey was 'taken to the hospital where the physicians express the opinion that he cannot live. Vall's attorneys in St. Louis doubted the authenticity of this statement, but to-night it is stated that Vail is under arrest and will be taken to St. Chester. will be taken to St. Charles. The body of Mrs. Vail will be exhumed, as it is understood that the relatives of the lady have withdrawn their objections to the exhumation. The position of the pistol ball wound from which she died will then be determined accuwill then be determined accurately, and it will be determined whether she could have been accidentally shot by a pistol in Vail's pocket, as he claimed. It will be very easy to determine from the course of the bullet the position or direction from which the bullet was fired. The examination of witnesses under outh will develop some bullet was fired. The examination of witnesses under oath will develop some interesting facts, and Mrs. P. J. Hayden, a cousin of Mrs. Vail, will testify that on the morning Mrs. Vail was shot she asked her husband not to carry his revolver and expressed a fear that something would happen to her if he did. This lady-denies that Mrs. Vail ever made any statement vindicating Vail of the suspicion of murder. Measures Defining Northwestern Judicial Districts Pass the House.

The Vocal Fight Over the Proposed World's Fair to Begin To-Day.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19.-In ransmitting the Sioux agreement to e senate to-day the president says that this agreement involves a departure from the terms of the general allotment act in at least one particular—it gives to each member of the tribe 160 acres of land, without regard to age or sex, while the general law gives that amount only to heads of families. There are, he thinks, serious objections to the basis adopted in the general law, especially in its application to married women, but if the basis of the agreement is accepted, it would, he believes, result in some cases where there are large families of minor children, in excessive allotments to a single family. Touching the question of the payment by the United States of the annuities which were forfeited by the act of 1863, the president thinks this should not have been considered in connection with the act in at least one particular-it gives been considered in connection with the negotiation for the cession of these lands, and says the forfeiture d-clared by the act unjustly included the annuities of certain Indians of these bands, who were guilty of no fault, and who rendered good services in the crup. who rendered good services in the army during the late war.

Mr. Rowell, of Himois, chairman of the elections committee, gave notice that he would call up the Atkinson-Pendleton case Wednesday next. Mr. Adams, of Illinois, from the judiciary committee, called up and the house passed the bill to divide the judicial district of North Dakota the judicial district of North Dakota into four district courts, to be held at Bismarck, Grand Forks, Fargo and Devil's Lake; also a similar bill providing for the pivision of South Dakota into three divisions, courts to be held at Sioux Falls, Pierre and Deadwood. The house also passed bills creating the Eastern division of the Northern Federal Judicial district of Georgia; providing for terms and places of holding United States courts in the District of Minnesota; regulating the sittings of providing for terms and places of holding United States courts in the District of Minnesota; regulating the sittings of United States courts in the District of South Carolina; and the senate bill authorizing the senate to confer brevet rank upon army officers for gallant services in Indian campaigns since 1867. At 1:27 p. m. the house went into committee of the whole on the bill for the appointment of an assistant secretary of war. After some discussion the committee rose and favorably reported the bill to the house, and then the house resumed consideration of the Oklahoma bill. Mr. Hooker, of Mississippi, questioned the authority of the United States to interfere with the internal affairs of these Indians. The bill simply proposed grand robbery of Indian lands. Mr. Baker, of New York, favored the bill, and Mr. Turner, of New York, opposed it. Mr. Washington, of Tennessee, declared that it would be a crime against civilization to leave the 90,000 people in the territory without any government. civilization to leave the 90,000 people in civilization to leave the 90,000 people in the territory without any government at all. EVERYBODY WANTS TO TALK. Congressmen Take Great Interest in the World's Fair Project.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. - So many embers desire to participate in the speechmaking upon the world's fair that it has been found necessary to make provision for a night's session tomorrow, in order that all who wish to speak may have the opportunity to do so. Mr. Candler, the chairman of the world's fair committee, will retain charge of the debate and will open the proceedings. He is uncommitted to any one of the four cities, but is heartily in sympathy with the general project, and fiss opening speech will be devoted to an explanation of the provisions of the bill and to an explanation of the strong reasons which, in his opinion, make the holding of a fair in 1893 desirable. Mr. Flower will open the debate for New York in a twenty-minute speech, and will be followed by Mr. Hitt in behalf of Chicago. It has not been determined whether Mr. Hatch or Mr. Frank will make the opening speech in advocacy of the algorithms. morrow, in order that all who wish to make the opening speech in advocacy of the claims of St. Louis. Washington, which has the last say, will have Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, as her orator. The opening speeches will generally consume about twenty minutes, and about nve minutes each will be allotted to the other speakers. Friday each city will have half an hour to close up its case, the order of speaking to be the same as on the previous day.

SOMEBODY LEAKS.

Senators Bewail the Fact That They Can't Keep Secrets. WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 .- In the secret session of the senate this afternoon the question of the secrecy of the secret session was debated at some length. Yesterday Senator Dolph called the attention of the senate to the fact that certain newspapers published most elaborate reports of the proceedings of the senate in secret session and that the press associations covered very fully evening all the business transacted by the senate behind closed doors during the afternoon. He was in favor of a sweeping investigation. The matter was postponed applied to of a sweeping investigation. The matter was postponed until to-day, when it was again discussed. Attention was called to the fact that in spite of the special injunction of secrecy placed on the proceedings of yesterday, the newspapers this morning contained the usual full and accurate reports. As the senators would not place the blame on each other, the possibility that reporters obtained accurate against the senators. place the blame on each other, the pos-sibility that reporters obtained ac-cess to the galleries during the secret session was discussed, as was also the possibility that the employes of the sen-ate leaked. It was proposed, among other things, that the entire senate wings of the capitol be cleared of all but senators and employes during the secret session. After some further dis-cussion the senate disposed of some routine business and confirmed several nominations.

Ontlived Its Usefulness. WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 .- The house mmittee on public lands to-day unannously agreed to report favorably a oill to repeal the timber culture law. The committee took up the bill intro-duced by Representative Pickler, of South Dakota, to allow timber culture claimants to commute their claims after four years cultivation at $1.25 an acre and instructed Mr. Pickler to report i favorably, but with the addition of favorably, but with the addition of a new section repealing the timber cult-ure law entirely. Mr. Pickler says that there is no longer any considerable sentiment in the West opposed to the repeal of the law, and that the prospect for the passage of the bill by the house is very good.

Chairmanships of Important Committees Corralled by Republicans.

Ex-Secretary Vilas Says Democrats Will Sweep the Country in 1892.

DES MOINES, Io., Feb. 19 .- To-day the lowa house of representatives suc ceeded in breaking the deadlock with which they have been wrestling for the past five weeks. The Democrats went into caucus this afternoon, and decided to accept the terms of the Republican compromise proposition. This gave the Democrats the speaker, the Republicans the chairmanship of the important com-mittees, while the minor offices are to be divided as equally as possibly be-tween the two parties. When the announcement was made that the Demo-erats had accepted the compromise proposition made by the Republicans, the house chamber was the scene of great activity. Up to date, in five weeks the house chamber was the scene of great activity. Up to date, in five weeks and three days' sessions, 91 ballots have been taken on temporary clerk, and 136 on speaker. The house was caled to order again at 4 p. m., and on motion of Walden, adjournment was taken till 7:30. The REPUBLICANS WENT INTO CAUCUS at once to nominate persons to fill the vacancies on the ticket and determine what committees they would have. In the senate this afternoon, Harsh introduced a joint resolution asking for the appointment of a commission to investigate trusts, combinations, etc. Woolson presented a report of the committee on rules. It was placed on file, and will be acted upon to-morrow. The senate then adjourned till to-morrow.

At the evening session of the house, on the 137th roll call, John T. Hamilton (Dem.), of Mills county, was unanimously elected speaker. Chutley of Mills, and Johnston, of Dubuque, members who were in the deadlock of 1874, were appointed a committee to escort the permanent speaker to the chair. The oath of office was administered by Mr. Hotchkiss, and after a few remarks Speaker Hamilton assumed the duties of the office. The remainder of the officers were then chosen. The rules of the Officers were then chosen. The rules of the Twenty-second general assembly were adopted until rules can be reported upon. A joint resolution calling for a joint session to-morrow, to can vass the vote for governor and lieutenant governor, was adopted. The house then adjourned till 10:30 to-morrow morning.

WILL SWEEP THE COUNTRY. TO BE REPEALED ENTIRELY. Col. Vilas Says the Democracy

prints a column interview on the cal situation with Col. William F. Vilas. late secretary of the interior. The article speaks of him as "Mr. Cleveland's favored confidant." When asked if, in his opinion, the discussion of the campaign of 1888 strengthened or weak-ened the cause of tariff reform, Col. Vilas replied: "Unquestionably it strengthened it. No man can review the strengthened it. No man can review the history of political discussion in this country and deny that the people understand and accept argument and are governed in their action by their judgment. It may happen at times, as in the last campaign, that the secret and corrupt use of vast sums of money, combined with sectional hate or some ephemeral frenzy, can snatch away a doubtful state or turn the scale of a close contest. But this cannot be when the people are awake to the peril.

of a close contest. But this cannot be when the people are awake to the peril, nor does it prove the people either fail to understand or fall to act

ACCORDING TO SOUND ARGUMENT.

The contrary is well established by the returns of 1888, tariff reform having made gains and progress wherever dis-cussion was most plenteous and failing where argument necessarily moves slowly to the reach of all." "The same where argument necessarily moves slowly to the reach of all." "The same they will have on the power of a healthy, vigorous youth," was Col. Vilas' answer when questioned as to the effect the lapse of four years would have on the sentiments of voters with reference to the tariff issue. "And surely," continued he, "the battle of 1892 will be fought on the same issue. It is my opinion that by that time the Democrats can sweep the country on that issue if the right men are nominated for president and vice president." Upon having his attention called to the administration of Mr. Cleveland and asked if he thought the future would regard it favorably, he said, after some explanatory remarks: "I don't hesitate to say it ought to be so." Col. Vilas took an encouraging view of the outlook for the Democratic state committee makes an aggressive, vigorous and wise campaign.
