Several Young Italians Offer to Pray for the Conversion of the Doctor.

Parkman in August Harper's.
The lay brother appeared at daybreak and told me that in fifteen minutes he was to join the Italians in retreat, and go with them to mass.

Mass was followed by a sermon, after which we were all summoned to coffee in the room where we had taken the evening before.

The report of my heresy had got about, and I found myself an object of curious attention. Several young Italian expressed sympathy for my unhappy condition, and one of them said that he should pray the virgin to convert me, and spoke in genuine kindness, and I thanked him.

After coffee we were dismissed to our chambers for an hour, and then listened to another sermon in the chapel. This concluded the morning. At 1 o'clock when a bell rang for dinner, and the monks and laymen together moved in solemn procession to the refectory.

The monks went first, the superiors at their head, then followed the laymen, and while the procession was forming in the corridor they all kept up a dismal, unintermitted chanting.

The refectory was a long, high, dimly lighted hall. A table of bare wood was stretched across the farther end for the dignitaries of the convent, and was continued down both sides of the hall.

Here, on right and left, sat the rest of the monks, forty or fifty in number, and the laymen sat below them, nearer the door. The seats were of bare wood, and placed on the inner side of the tables only. On the wall over the heads of the dignitaries were portraits of the saints.

On the side walls hung pictures of saints with upturned eyes and palms pressed together.

High up, near the ceiling, was a small picture. The entire hall was white-washed above and paneled with oak-below.

At the head of the table stood the superior, a tall, portly man with a stern and austere countenance.

The monks, motionless and in dead silence, stood ranged on either side of the superior, and first a stern, and robed in black from head to foot, and wearing on the breast the badge of their order—a heart surmounted by a cross.

Big Sales by Hutchinson Something to Do With the Weakness.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—The wheat market was up and down within one cent all day, and came nearer being under the control of Mr. Hutchinson than for many weeks. This big trader was credited with depressing the market early to buy on, and later he was charged with putting the price up to sell on.

The truth is that when legitimate news became known, the trade begins to move, and traders to see what they are doing, and a poor excuse of a market is the result. On the whole, to-day, the market was bearish, and the wheat price reached a low of 1.07 1/2 o'clock. The very best price reached was 1.08 fraction under the close yesterday. The trade acted bearish. The news was shaded that way also; Liverpool was dull and easier early, and the closing cable was latter with 10 decline for Indian wheat.

There was no export clearance of wheat at New York or Baltimore. Alleged Russian cables were received saying the crop is well gathered and above the average. The selling of wheat was retarded by Bloomer, Green and Hutchinson. Comstock and Brosseau also sold freely. The buying was done largely by scalpers expecting an up-turn. Receipts at Minneapolis and Chicago were 428 cars, and here 115 cars, with but 92 cars Saturday. The action of the market was as follows: September, 1.07 1/2; October, 1.08 1/2;
