TROUBLE IS BREWING.

The Revolt of the Afro-American Voters Will Not Easily Be Quelled.

Republican Organs and Leaders Suspiciously Silent as to the Organized Protest.

The news of the Afro-American mass neeting, published exclusively in the GLOBE of Wednesday, was read with wry faces in the rooms of the Republican state central committee, and while some of the more hide-bound old partisans gave the movement little consideration, counting on the long-time allegi-ance of the colored man to make him proof against the incitement to revolt begun at Tuesday night's meeting, the more thoughtful men on the committee at once perceived that danger lufks in the present mood of the colored citizens, especially of Ramsey county.

Many of the men who attended the mass meeting yesterday expressed themselves that the GLOBE's statements were not too strongly drawn, and Lawyer McGhee, whose grievance was the primary cause of the meeting, said the report of the meeting and the senti-ments entertained and uttered was, if anything, too mild in its language. E. P. Wade, who presided, was sought for an expression of opinion, but when the reporter sighted him on the steps of the capitol, in the midst of a group of officeholders, he was so busily engaged in re-citing the unalterable allegiance of the black man to the Republican party under all circumstances that the inter-view was abandoned. There is trouble brewing sure, and its manifestation will come in a way long to be remem-bered by the men who imagine they can use and abuse the colored voters at their

Those Sensational Charges Simmer Down to Very Little.

The Mayor's Crushing Charge Failed to Come to the Front.

Everything Hoyt's Way on the First Day of the Hearing.

The six members of the special committee, Dr. Hoyt, C. D. O'Brien, E. A. Hendrickson and a small-sized lobby attended the meeting of the investigation committee yesterday afternoon. As soon as the meeting convened C. D. O'Brien stated that he and Mr. Hen-drickson represented Dr. Hoyt as counsel, and desired to know if there were any objections to such appearance

The doctor, he said, was willing and anxious to answer all questions relating to the affairs of the health department, and would be glad to furnish the committee any information it desired.

In relation to the indorsement or approval of bills of the Azotine company, Mr. O'Brien said the indorsement by Dr. Hoyt had not the least legal effect. The commissioner was not a party to the Dr. Hoyt had not the least legal effect. The commissioner was not a party to the contract made between the city and Fleishman, who was first awarded the contract, nor had heanything to do with the transfer of the contract from Fleishman to the Azotine company. The bills had been approved by Dr. Hoyt after the council committees had approved them. The fact that the doctor was not the city auditor and his approval of the bills had no legal or binding effect on the city should be taken into consideration. None of the bills approved had been paid, newsuaper reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Gould Matter.

The Gould Matter.

In the matter of one Gould, an employe in the department, having been paid salary for the month of May, 1891, when he died on May 6, Mr. O'Brien made the tollowing explanation: Some time in May or June the then mayor explained to Dr. Hoyt that it was customary when an employe in any of the departments died to continue his salary to the end of the month in which he died. On this statement Gould's name was placed on the June pay roll, the notation being made that it was for salary for part of the month of May. Whether or not the city had the right to recover from the bank to which the pay was assigned or from Dr. Hoyt for the amount was a question with which the committee had nothing to do. In order that the committee might be convinced as to the statements made, they could, if desired, examine the records which were before them as to the azotine bills, and further call on members of the old council and officers of the Azotine company. As to the Gould matter, the evidence of the ex-mayor would bear out the statements made. The Gould Matter.

the corporation attorney decided the Azotine company had not defaulted in their contract. The health commis-sioner at the time informed the committee that the work was not being antitee that the work was not being done according to contract, in that the garbage was not being disposed of by the Merz system. The Azotine company representatives claimed at the time the garbage was being removed from the city, and that in the near future another plant would be built to replace the one destroyed by fire place the one destroyed by fire.

The committee ordered the Azotine company to go ahead and do the best they could under the circumstances. It was under the advice and suggestion of the committee that the bills for five months were approved by the health commissioner. The corporation attor-ncy at that time had in a written opin-ious said the daims were legal under the ney at that time had in a written opinion said the claims were legal under the action of the committee in ordering the company to go ahead. These facts, Mr. Hendrickson said, were matters of record which could be ascertained by the bills now in the hands of this committee. He also called the attention of the committee to the fact that none of the bills so approved by the commissioner had been paid, and that the indorsement had no legal effect so far as the payment of the bills was concerned. A Fatherless Statement. While the statements of counsel were being made Mr. Doran had furnished being made Mr. Doran had furnished, the reporters with a communication which had been sent in, probably in answer to the request for statements about the administration of the health department. The communication was neither signed nor sworn to, and in this connection Mr. O'Brien said he hoped the compittee would take cornigance of connection Mr. O'Brien said he hoped the committee would take cognizance of the position in which Dr. Hoyt was placed, and, in admitting so-called evidence, have the charges formulated so that recourse could be had against the individuals making the charges in case they were not correct. This was but proper and fair, as rumors and not substantial evidence could be talked about, which, while not true or having any foundation of truth, would affect an official in his present and future standing. After this talk the committee decided not to consider the communication and requested the reporters not to use it. If an investigation were to munication and requested the reporters not to use it. 1f an investigation were to be had, Mr. O'Brien requested it be conducted in a legal way, and he also asked that meetings be held evenings. This he anticipated would be best, as even the aldermen he thought must have business which demanded their attention during the day time. Tech nically Admitted.

Mr. Hickman said the commissioner through his counsel, had admitted tech nically that the charges were true. It would be proper, he thought, for the counsel for Dr. Hoyt to say to what extent the investigation should now be made.

Mr. O'Brien, in reply, said the statements that had been made in explanation had not been controverted, and the mere fact that they should be sworn to would make them no stronger. As to the Azotine bills, the papers and records were now before the committee and could be used to prove the correctness of the statements. Regarding the payment of Gould's salary for the twenty-three days after his death, it was customary in all departments to carry men iy-three days after his death, it was customary in all departments to carry men on the pay rolls for the balance of the months in which they died.

Assistant Corporation Attorney M chael corroborated the statements of Mr. O'Brien as to the practice of paying salaries to employes in city departments for the months in which they died. Mr. Michael also said it would be proper to have further charges if there were any made in writing, as he did not care to listen to verbal charges and pass care to listen to verbal charges and pass ppinions on them.

Irresponsible Talkers. Mr. O'Brien said Dr. Hoyt or counsel did not want to be present at any meeting when the committee were talking with people about alleged charges, and he also suggested that such persons could see the committee privately. What the counsel did not want was to be present when the formal charges were made or presented to the committee.

Mr. Pike said the committee had accomplished part of what it was appointed for. An informal explanation had been made, and an opportunity given for any other matters to be presented. The committee, he thought, would prefer to consider the matter in a private conference, and determine how they should proceed.

After a whispered consultation, the chairman announced an adjournment would be taken to next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The members of the committee had an executive, or, as they termed it, an informal talk concerning their proposed action after the adjournment, but decided not to say what conclusions, if any, had been arrived at.
