Teacher Is.

GOV. NELSON'S WELCOME.

St. Paul Commercial Club Gives a Reception to the Delegates.

At yesterday morning's session of the Indian teachers' institute the interesting subject discussed, from the industrial point of view, was the lace-making by a class of ten Indian girls from Birch Coulee. The girls were pupils of Miss Sibyl Carter, who has been for many years a missionary among the Indians. She studied lace-making in Japan, and has turned her knowledge to good account in her work among the Indians. She told the teachers that she was working independently, receiving no aid either from the government or the churches. She had found in her missionary work that the great difference between the whites and the Indians was that the former knew how to help themselves and the latter did not, but were perfectly helpless when forced to take up the ways of civilization. Miss Carter stated that she first taught the art to the Chippewas and the Dakotas, and later on to other tribes. She now has twelve classes, which include pupils all the way from twelve to sixty years. The Indians take readily to the work and make quite a success of it. Miss Carter contended that the reserve parts, the bad thing for the Indian, as it kept him in a dependent state. She argued that they should be taught to work independently among the whites and become just the same as other citizens.

Supt. Hallman delivered another lecture on methods in school work, in which he contended that the teacher was more of an artist than a scientist, inasmuch as she, like the artist, must always see an entirety, while the scientist sees but the separate parts. He claimed that in mathematics the child should be given the whole number, and from that it could find the parts.

Supt. Rakestraw, of Lincoln, Neb., delivered an interesting talk on school management, in which he dwelt particularly upon the need of greater harmony between the superintendents and teachers and agents and inspectors.

The afternoon session was opened with a short address by Gov. Nelson, on "The Indian of the Past and Present." After the paper by Charles F. Pierce, on "Playtime in Indian Schools."

Gov. Nelson was introduced to the teachers. He made a few happy remarks, in which, as the chief representative of the executive department of the state, he welcomed the visitors.

Continuing, he said: "I have not come to make any formal address, but just to welcome you on behalf of the state, and to bid you good speed in the great work which you have in hand. It is very appropriate that you should be in this state, which was at one time the battleground of the Chippewas and the Sioux, and it is to be regretted that some historian has not written the story of these early struggles. The Indian problem used to be approached much in the same way as the mission: approached the heathen in foreign lands. You teachers, have solved the difficulty, however, by striving to make out of the Indian a good American citizen, and by teaching him to take the responsibilities of that citizenship upon him. His excellency then referred to the law of the land which makes an Indian a citizen just as soon as he cuts loose from all tribal relations, and consequently gives him all the advantages, educational and otherwise, that belong to the white man. He urged the teachers present to encourage the pupils to take advantage of the higher opportunities to be had in the university, the state agricultural college, and the state normal school, and to then the benefits to be derived therefrom. Concluding, he reminded them that there was room for all the educational institutions, state and otherwise, and that they should see to it that the Indian takes part in all the privileges for which he could fit himself.

The remainder of the afternoon session was devoted to listening to Supt. and Mrs. W. S. Hallman (who were obliged to leave for Washington last night) on points of interest in educational work.

After adjourning the institute, by a rising vote, expressed its gratitude to Supt. and Mrs. Hallman for the help and encouragement they have given the workers by their advice and instruction.

Commercial Reception.
The Commercial club, in its usual hospitable way, opened its doors to the visitors last evening, and between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock received the teachers in attendance at the institute in an informal way. Vice President Chittenden presided at the opening session of the evening, at which several supervisors who were present were called upon to say a few words regarding the work of the Indian teacher.

With a few remarks, in which he welcomed the guests of the city, Mr. Chittenden introduced Supt. C. D. Rakestraw, who, in a few words, referred to the meeting of Indian workers and a representative commercial body as being eminently appropriate, as the teachers of the institute need the help and support of people in the business world.

Supervisor Heinemann and Capt. R. H. Pratt followed. The latter gentleman said that the great necessity in the Indian work was to make American citizens of the Indians, and that this would be in the development of the nation more than anything else. Supt. Bell, of Genoa, Neb.; Miss Collins, of Dakota; and Mrs. E. Bryant, of Hampton, Va., all gave brief addresses outlining the work. Miss Mosker, of Bismarck, N. D., gave an interesting sketch of her work in the reservation school at that point.

C. C. Painter, a member of the board of Indian commissioners, spoke of the difficulties that the commission had encountered, especially in the way of finding honest men to handle the property of the government. All this, however, has been overcome, largely by appointing supervisors of the work. Capt. Pratt, of the Carlisle school in Pennsylvania, brought to the institute a message from the great friend of the Indian in Minnesota, Bishop Whipple, whom he met recently at the Williams park. The good bishop sent words of encouragement to the teachers, and made them take a backward step in the great work which they have in hand.

After this portion of the evening programme had been handled by Mr. Chittenden, in his usual graceful style, adjournment was made to the dining room, where refreshments were served. All the guests expressed their hearty appreciation of the courtesy shown them by the club, and left having spent a delightful evening.

We have just secured, at an enormous sacrifice from an overstocked importer, two of the greatest bargains in

.....FINE HOSIERY.....

It has ever been our good fortune to get. A large lot of RICHIEU RIBBED LISLE THREAD STOCKINGS, with fast black boot and colored uppers, and an excellent quality of fine, fast black BALBRIGGAN HOSE, with silk embroidered fronts. Both of these lines of Hosiery were imported to sell at high prices. As a particularly strong attraction for today we offer both lines at
