BIDS FOR CREMATORIES. Aldermen Concurred With the Assembly in Appropriating $20,000

FOR THE UNEMPLOYED. Resolution Censuring Contractors for Paying Less Than $1.

The board of aldermen held an unusual session last evening. The garbage matter, the condition of the gasolene street lamp, and the pay roll of the judges and clerks of election were the only important topics passed upon.

The garbage problem was presented to the board in the shape of a recommendation by the joint committee on garbage that the city clerk be instructed to advertise for the collection, hauling and disposition of garbage by means of two crematories, one to be located on the West side, level some distance down the river, and the other to be built out near the post house.

Specifications covering all requirements were prepared by the corporation attorney, and were read to the board last evening. The conditions regulating the operation of the two crematories are practically the same as those previously drawn when the city advertised for bids for a crematory. They are framed as follows:

To Protect the City on all sides, and permitting it to declare the contract at an end whenever the contractor fails to perform the work in a satisfactory manner. After the reading of the specifications, the roll was called on the resolution instructing the city clerk to advertise for bids under the specifications. All present, save Ald. Hare, voted "aye," but the latter was excused from voting, as he was not satisfied that the proposed location of the crematory on the West side would be agreeable to his constituents.

The special committee appointed to pass upon the election expenses sent in a resolution providing for the payment of all the judges and clerks of election, and the city clerk and clerks. The committee recommended that the judges and their clerks be allowed $30 each, and that the ballot judges and their clerks receive $6.50 each for their services on election day. The total amount to be paid out for this purpose will therefore be $13,500.

The expense incurred by the rental of polling places will increase the amount a few hundred dollars. The board passed the pay roll without debate.

The report of the gas committee regarding the gasolene lights was also considered. The report recommended that the resolution of Ald. Kartak, instructing the city engineer to repair and improve the gasolene street lights, be adopted, and charge the cost to the contracting firm. "The Acme Vapor company," the city attorney had advised the committee that he would file a bill to take the work out of the contractors' hands and give it to the city engineer. Accordingly, the report was adopted, and on motion of Ald. Markham the matter was referred to the corporation attorney, with instructions to prepare a resolution that would give the city some redress.

The resolution from the assembly pledging the council to vote to appropriate $20,000 out of the general fund to be entrusted to the park board to be expended for the relief of the unemployed was adopted.

The American Holist and Derrick company was granted a lease of a piece of ground under the south end of the Robert Street bridge on which to build a rivet shop.

Aid. Hare's resolution that $173,000 be included in the next tax levy to pay for the widening of the south end of the Washington street bridge, was referred back to the committee on streets.

Ald. Milhan introduced a resolution censuring certain contractors engaged in doing work for the city for paying some of their men less than $1 a day, and declaring it to be the sense of the council that the city henceforth employ only contractors who pay living wages.

The police pay roll was passed. The assembly resolution appointing three members to serve jointly with three aldermen as a committee on legislation, was recommitted to the assembly, as the board has a standing committee on legislation.

Globe Readers. "Queer People" and "Sweetest Songs" have been in such demand that the supply on hand is temporarily exhausted. All orders will be filled on and after Friday, Nov. 23.

WILL WAIT FOR WAINMAN. Committee Reconsidered its Vote on the Telephone Matter. The aldermanic committee on streets held another conference with the representatives of the Northwestern Telephone company yesterday afternoon, and simply undid the action of the committee at Saturday's meeting. The action consisted in recommending the passage of an ordinance granting the company the privilege of making drill holes to their conduit on Wabasha street in order to obtain an outlet for their wires, in return for which the company was to furnish the city departments all telephones free of charge. This the company objected to, saying that it was already furnishing the city twenty telephones free of charge, and asking only a half-rate for the remaining ninety.

Yesterday the matter was reopened. Supt. Reynolds and Manager Freedy represented the telephone company. After presenting their arguments against furnishing the city with a free telephone system, Ald. Hare suggested that they give the city forty phones free of charge instead of twenty. Supt. Reynolds answered that he hardly thought the company would approve of such an arrangement, though it was possible some compromise might be effected upon the return to the city of General Manager C. P. Wainman. The superintendent was of the opinion that the city was pressing the company to insist upon such terms as those demanded in the proposed ordinance. The fact that an ordinance compelling the company to put its wires underground had already been passed, implied, so the superintendent contended, the right to drill holes to obtain an outlet for their wires, and the ordinance was recommended at the previous session was reconsidered, and the ordinance was laid over until the return of General Manager Wainman.

A petition from citizens living on McMeuany street, asking that the name of the street be changed to Westminster, will not be reported favorably by the committee.

The city attorney will be allowed $2 a month for six months, with which to pay telephone fees.

INSANE FROM SORROW. Wife's Paralysis Proved Upon Mr. Bailey's Mind. D. E. Bailey, at one time prominently connected with the Pioneer Press Job Printing and Manufacturing company, was taken to the city hospital yesterday suffering from aberration of the mind, caused by total blindness and the fact that only a few days ago his wife was stricken with paralysis. Mr. Bailey lost his eyesight last March while he was in Chicago. He and his wife have been living at 453 St. Peter street. Last week Mrs. Bailey was stricken with paralysis and ever since then her husband has been out of his mind. Mr. Bailey is thirty-eight years of age.

GARLAND A PESSIMIST. GREETED AT THE PEOPLE'S BY A SMALL HOUSE. Styles Himself a "Veritist"—He Would Be the Tolstoid of America. A dismally small audience, probably seventy-five persons, listened to Hamlin Garland's lecture on "The Modern Novel," delivered at the People's church last night. It is to be regretted that the audience was not larger, so that more of us might have learned the lessons we have learned with chagrin from his writings—how he misrepresents the West and its factors in life. Beyond his sincerity there is no element in Mr. Garland's theory of what the literature of this age should be, that appeals to any intelligent mind. His sincerity of ignorance, the vaunting self-esteem of him who would be to America what he thinks—and erroneously, too—Tolstoid to the Russians. His lecture, in fact, is a target for the works of every eminent writer in the past, save a few judicious favorites, among whom there is one author to whom he is in debt for the reluctant gift of an introductory chapter to one of his books. It is Mr. Garland's opinion that he would stand for is the only panacea for the literary ills of the times—but in an hour and a half of contradictions, in which the sound of his voice ruined his every sense of logic, he utterly failed to give anybody an idea of what the modern novel is or should be. The grand presumption with which Mr. Garland presumes himself to represent the West, or, as he styles himself, a "Veritist," is ludicrously inspiring to a mere specialist. If a speaker, he represents a highly bred hen, egg represented by Mr. Garland. But his sincerity is really pitiable, in that it leads him to realize what his mind and where his person—fresh from the hay-mow—is a bewildered and floundering stranger. His pessimism is expressed in one massive continuous our-next-neer at culture, at the true canons of art, at the happier philosophy of life, at music, at everything, in fact, but the narrow range of his own little utilitarian mind, which is enervated by the same old picket fence that at same dear farm in the gray and early days of his country boyhood. It is the suffering and toleration of the Westerner of his, at music, at everything, in fact, not their admiration or acceptance of his "Veritism," so-called.

M'CARDY NOT IN IT. COURT HOUSE WILL BE HEATED BY LIVINGSTON. Even Though the Comptroller Hasn't Signed—City and County Attorneys Opine. The hearing and lighting of the court house will be done by the St. Paul Gas Light company, notwithstanding the fact that Comptroller McCurdy will not approve the contract. That matter was agreed upon by the joint court house and city hall committee at a special meeting yesterday. County Attorney Butler and Corporation Attorney Chamberlain have given the board of public works their opinion on the contract, and on June 1 can be enforced. This contract will save $4,000 to the taxpayers, but the comptroller refused to approve it on the theory that it is for a longer term than one year. Mr. McCurdy still says that he will not affix his signature unless compelled to do so by the court.

The joint committee passed a resolution yesterday requesting the St. Paul Gas Light company to carry out its contract under June 1, and granted it an extension of time until Dec. 20 to get ready to do the heating and lighting.

Mr. Livingston was present, and stated that the company did not make the request for an enforcement of the contract, but after the situation was explained to him he said that the company would not stand a lawsuit, if brought to enforce the contract, but would go on and make the connection by tunnel across the street and try to comply with the terms of the agreement.

The joint committee then opened bids for coal to heat the building for a period of thirty days. Mayor Smith stated that he had gone securely for the coal used for the past few days, and he would want to carry the load any longer. A number of bids were opened, and the lowest was awarded to C. R. Schlicht at the price of $3.50 for Yonkougheney lump.

JUDGE WILLIS WILL HOLD. Question Settled by the Supreme Court Years Ago. To the Editor of the Globe. I notice an article in the GLOBE this morning that raises the question as to whether the law is to be applied to fill out the unexpired term of the late Judge Simons, or for the full term of six years prescribed by the constitution of this state as the term of a district judge.

This question was passed upon and put at rest by a decision of our supreme court so long ago as 1864, where it was held that under the constitution, the person who may be elected on the expiration of a vacancy to fill the office of a judge, whether of the supreme, district or probate court, holds the office for the full constitutional term prescribed by the constitution of this state.

Howell vs. Lambert, 9 Minn., 282 (Gilfillan edition, 267), was the case referred to, the office involved that of probate judge, but the court held that the provisions of the constitution applied to district and supreme court judges as well as to probate judges. Yours respectfully, ROBERTSON HOWARD, St. Paul, Nov. 20.

Mr. Bell states that the wheat crop of Manitoba is already largely marketed, and the flouring mills of the province have been making a large output. Referring to the growth of Winnipeg, he says that from 300 to 400 dwellings and business blocks have been put up the past season. He says further that the coming winter and cold weather has not seemed to affect building operations. He returned to Winnipeg last night.
