

THE WEATHER:

In St. Paul and vicinity today
Fair.

THE ST. PAUL GLOBE

READ THE GLOBE.
THE ONLY LIVE NEWSPAPER
IN ST. PAUL.

VOL. XXVI.—NO. 363.

TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 29, 1903.—TEN PAGES.

PRICE TWO CENTS. On Trains, FIVE CENTS.

RUSSIA GIVES REASONS
FOR HOLDING MANCHURIAChina Is Informed That a Change Would Be Unsafe
During the Negotiations With Japan—Latter Takes Control of Seoul-Fusan Railway and Outbids the Russes for Two Italian Cruisers.

PEKIN, Dec. 28.—Lien Fang, first secretary to the board of foreign affairs, visited Russian Minister Lessar today and requested information concerning the intentions of the Russian government regarding the evacuation of Manchuria.

Minister Lessar in reply said that nothing could be done at present with a view to evacuation for two reasons. In the first place, the cold weather made it impossible to remove the troops from their present positions, and there were no accommodations to be had elsewhere, and in the second place, it would endanger Russia's interests to undertake evacuation during the negotiations between Russia and Japan, as Japan might seize the opportunity to invade Manchuria.

The Chinese government is so alarmed at the prospect of the situation seemingly involved in the prospective war that it would prefer that Russia remain in control of Manchuria. As an alternative the foreign office has indicated to the ministers that a settlement satisfactory to China would be that Russia and Japan should retain their respective treaty rights in Korea and Manchuria if they agree not to attempt to obtain further advantages in the country. The Russian commander imperatively requested the Tartar general to disband his militia and to disarm them.

The Tartar general issued an order in accordance with this request, but it is understood the men are concealing their arms, supposedly with the Tartar general's connivance.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—According to the Daily Chronicle, the Japanese government outbid the Russian government and actually purchased the warships Moreno and Rivalavia, both of which are now nearing completion at Genoa.

Other papers print a report that the Japanese ministerial council has decided to transfer $2,000,000 from the educational fund for emergency purposes.

The Daily Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says:

"The Japanese officials already have taken over control of the Seoul-Fusan railway. The president of the railway has been dismissed and replaced by Mr. Furukawa, chief of the Japanese railway board. The Japanese fleet has been organized and disposed in divisions and squadrons, prepared to check any Russian movements from Vladivostok or Port Arthur."

The latest report credits Japan with insisting that Russia shall reply to its last note before Jan. 10 on the ground of the rapid approach of Russian naval reinforcements to the scene of action. Inquiry in the best informed Japanese quarters, however, fails to find support for this statement.

TOKIO, Dec. 28.—An extraordinary meeting of the privy council today approved the issue by the cabinet of an emergency ordinance authorizing the guarantee of the principal and interest of an issue of 10,000,000 yen debentures for the purpose of expediting the work on the Seoul-Fusan railway, which is expected to be finished by the end of next year.

The ordinance also provides for all possible military expenses for the protection of the railway and other interests. It is believed that unless Russia modifies her reply, Japan will immediately safeguard Korea, though such a step will not necessarily mean war with Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 28.—In official circles here the delay in presenting Russia's reply is not regarded as ominous. On the contrary, the fact that Russia, in accordance with Japan's request, is actually reviewing the matters in dispute, is regarded as a favorable sign. It is pointed out that if Russia replied immediately unfavorable deductions might have been drawn, and although Russia believes her proposal was extremely satisfactory, containing all the concessions she can make, this does not exclude the possibility of finding alternative proposals, which may more closely coincide with Japan's wishes. If careful reconsideration discloses the possibility of such a course, it is said there is no reason to believe that it will be gladly embraced.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Mail's Pekin correspondent sends an unconfirmed report that in the event of war China will join forces with Japan and that Japan will send an army corps to Pekin.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 28.—The firm of Getz Bros. & Co. has contracted with the Russian government to supply 3,000,000 pounds of beef, and Getz Bros. & Co. are making demands upon all the big packers in the West.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 28.—The firm of Getz Bros. & Co. has contracted with the Russian government to supply 3,000,000 pounds of beef, and Getz Bros. & Co. are making demands upon all the big packers in the West.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 28.—The firm of Getz Bros. & Co. has contracted with the Russian government to supply 3,000,000 pounds of beef, and Getz Bros. & Co. are making demands upon all the big packers in the West.

The School Teachers Are In Town.

COMPETITION AIDS
RED MEN MIGHTILYThey Are Further Enriched at Cass Lake by the Necessities of Weyerhaeuser.

Special to The Globe.

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 28.—Frederick Weyerhaeuser's spirited bidding for Chippewa pine, as disclosed by the record-breaking prices submitted today at the second sale at Cass Lake, will put many thousands of dollars into the pockets of the Indians. Through the agency of the Rock Island Lumber and Manufacturing company, of which Weyerhaeuser is the head, the price of $5.84 obtained earlier in December was advanced to $6.80 today—a figure which is unprecedented in the history of reservation sales. All of the eleven bidders were well up to this figure. It is stated authoritatively that Weyerhaeuser and his associates now control three-fourths of the pine stumpage in Minnesota, and that while they were not especially anxious to get this particular tract, it was necessary that they bid up the price in order to keep it from falling into the hands of others at a low figure, and coming into competition with their present holdings. The Indians will reap all of the profits of this competition.

Special to The Globe.

CASS LAKE, Minn., Dec. 28.—The pine sale at the United States land office here today was a great success. The rush for pine was fierce. Bids were opened at 9 a. m. by the Register and receiver, assisted by Messrs. Pollock and Walker, for Washington, Special Agents Colter and McNery, Superintendent of Logging O'Neill and Maj. Scott were also present. One hundred

Continued on Seventh Page.

PRELATES GRACE THE BANQUET
BOARD OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Archbishop Ireland and Bishop Spalding Are Guests of Honor at Banquet Given by Hennepin Council of the Knights of Columbus—Many Notable Clerics and Laymen Take Part—T. D. O'Brien Is One of the Principal Speakers.

Archbishop Ireland and Bishop John Lancaster Spalding were the guests of honor at a banquet given by the Knights of Columbus at the West hotel, Minneapolis, last evening. The gathering was graced by the presence of distinguished clerics and laymen to the number of 250.

The banquet had been originally planned as an affair of the Hennepin county Knights of Columbus, but it was postponed in order that the presence of Bishop Spalding might be secured.

The banquet was spread in the main dining room of the West and the hall was handsomely decorated. The Rev. J. M. Cleary, of Minneapolis, presided as toastmaster. The following was the menu:

Cottlet Bays
Celery
Golden Bouillon in Cup
Raspberries
Planked Whitefish, maitre d' hotel
Potato Croquette
Fried Sweet Potato
Green Peas
Lobster en casserole, a la Newburg
Asparagus on Toast, Sauce Hollandaise
Punch au Cardinal
Philadelphia Squab sur canape au cresson
Fried Sweet Potato
Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Biscuits Glaces, Fancy Cakes
Fruits
Camembert Cheese and Crackers
Demi-tasse

On the right of the toastmaster was the archbishop, Bishop Spalding having the place at the left and Bishops Cotter, McGillicuddy and Shanley, of this

THE NEWS INDEXED.

PAGE I.
Diplomats Depend Upon Powell.
Urges Teachers to Form a Labor Union.Second Cass Lake Pine Sale.
New York Supreme Court Decides for Labor Union.
Year's Crop Production and Values.
Russo-Japanese Tension.
Defies Military and Is Wounded.
Break Up of Standing Rock Reservation.PAGE II.
Educational Association Officers' Controversy Is Still on.
Robert Mannheimer Dies at His Home.
Kane Is Again Ignored by the County Board.Mrs. N. C. Wallace Dies Suddenly.
Northern Roads May Drop Colored Porters.
Kittson Estate Finally Administered.PAGE III.
News of the Northwest.
Minneapolis Matters.
News of the Railroads.PAGE IV.
Editorial Comment.
Admiral Coghlan Visits Colombians.PAGE V.
J. E. Grillo Succeeds Hickey.
Races.
Hockey Season Opens.PAGE VI.
Of Interest to Women.
Short Story.PAGE VII.
Affairs Abroad.
New Passenger Business for Port of Seattle.
Attempted Double Lynching at Council Bluffs.PAGE VIII.
Olney an Avowed Candidate.
Wants.PAGE IX.
Markets.
Smoke Ordinance Is Declared Valid.PAGE X.
Ask Board to Commute Sentences.
Teachers' Examinations.
Design of Gold Medal for Firemen.

Council," going into the history of the organization in Minneapolis.

In addition to the distinguished clerics at the table of honor, there were present many ladies and the following Knights:

Thomas E. Cootley, P. J. Kennedy, Hubert Kelly, past grand knight; W. H. Donahue, present grand knight; D. W. Woulsey, grand knight-elect; J. M. Schutts, J. M. Gleason, P. J. Downs, deputy grand knights, and George Flynn, deputy knight-elect. Anthony Hahn, John S. Ryan, J. C. Sheehan, W. McGrath, J. Shaughnessy, Peter Carter, C. D. Hager, M. J. Sexton, F. E. Murphy, W. E. Bates, John Meagher, M. C. Cavanaugh, Thomas Hay, J. F. Foley, H. J. Bauman, Rev. F. H. Dugan, Rev. Francis Jager, George Lenhard, J. S. Foley, U. L. Egan, J. B. Duffy, J. W. Vanderhoof, Rev. F. Danahy, J. F. Doherty, J. J. McCarthy, J. J. Dorsey, Rev. Father Cassidy, M. J. Gaven, J. T. Gaven, A. A. Kane, P. L. Clarity, W. E. Scanlon, H. C. McMahon, M. J. Lohy, Dr. J. C. Crowley, W. E. Wines, William Archer, J. J. Schmorenberg, T. F. Davey, J. E. Mooney, Father Cullen, J. F. Williams, W. L. Hurley, F. E. Rochester, J. P. Coleman, J. Swift, J. C. Burke, J. Benning, Dr. Barber, F. Rice, C. J. Delaney, J. Horton, James Crowley, John Mayer, E. A. Stewart, J. Connelly, J. J. Ahern, L. F. Kennedy, J. Callahan, William Maxwell, William Griffin, M. J. Gill, Frank Conway, John Sullivan, J. C. O'Keefe, M. F. Williams, Vincent D. Murphy, J. C. Geraghty, Rev. J. J. Lawler, D. Quinn, Father Archard, Rev. F. Moore, Rev. R. Fitzgerald, T. P. Flynn, P. Crotty, Dr. Deziel, P. H. Hoy and J. F. Lynch.

RT. REV. J. L. SPALDING,
Bishop of Peoria.

archdiocese, ranged to the right and left.

Father Cleary made a felicitous address of welcome and happily introduced Thomas D. O'Brien, of St. Paul, who responded to the toast, "The Knights of Columbus," reviewing the history of the order and its rapid and gratifying growth.

Archbishop Ireland had no set toast, but took occasion to tell his hearers, while complimenting them upon the strength of the Hennepin council of the Knights of Columbus, that "What St. Paul lacked in quantity was compensated to Minneapolis," he believed, "was quite made up in quality."

Bishop Spalding talked in a reminiscent vein and told anecdotes of the early life of Archbishop Ireland.

"I have known and loved your archbishop for more years than I like to recall," said Bishop Spalding, "and I must say that the Northwest and Catholicism in the United States owe much to his piety and progressive ideas."

Judge William H. Donahue, of Minneapolis, responded to the "Hennepin

COURT DECIDES
FOR LABOR UNION

Refuses to Restrain Stereotypers From Interfering With Newspaper Foremen.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Justice Leventritt, in the supreme court today, denied the application of Louis Quanchi and Charles Bailes, respectively, foreman and assistant foreman of the stereotyping department of the New York Herald, for a permanent injunction restraining the New York Stereotypers' union from interfering with their employment on the Herald.

The plaintiffs, who have been employed on the Herald for nearly thirty years, also asked the court to issue an order restoring them to membership in the defendant union.

A stereotyper named Freel was discharged from the Herald and he made charges to the union against Quanchi and Bailes as responsible for this, the result being that both were dismissed from the union. The stereotypers' organization notified the Herald, according to the plaintiffs, that unless Quanchi and Bailes were discharged from the union would withdraw its men from the Herald. The Herald refused to discharge the foreman and assistant, but consented to suspend them under salary until after the courts had passed upon the merits of the case.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

The court holds that the men's relations with the union make them amenable to the rules of that organization, and that the court cannot interfere, and suggests that the plaintiffs can appeal to the general body with which their local union is affiliated, which had been held to be a condition precedent to the right of maintaining an action to invoke the aid of the court of equity.

SAYS TEACHERS SHOULD
ORGANIZE A UNIONSuperintendent A. W. Uhl, of Detroit, Minn., Stirs Up
Warm Discussion by Advocating Adoption of Tradesmen's Methods to Secure Better Pay and Conditions —Convention Opens With Large Attendance.

"We work for wages as do other wage earners, and it is a matter of social honesty that we should be recognized with the laboring interests. It is time that the teachers organize to advance their interests and to secure opportunities for them to assert their initiative. The teachers should have a larger voice in the financial affairs of the school; they should have more to say concerning the conditions of service, and also concerning the pleasure in their labor and of their labor. Today they have nothing to say concerning these matters."

So spoke A. W. Uhl, superintendent of schools at Detroit, Minn., last night at the Commercial club before a general conference of the teachers of the state, who are in St. Paul to attend the state convention of the Minnesota Educational association, which will formally open this morning at the Central Presbyterian church.

The conference, which was informal, was attended by nearly 500 teachers. About 2,000 teachers are expected to be present at the convention.

Besides the talk of Supt. Uhl, there were addresses by Hon. Silas W. Leavitt, a member of the board of control, on "The Board of Control Law in Its Relation to State Educational Institutions," and Supt. John D. Brown, of the Indians in Minnesota. President F. A. Weld, of the state normal school at Moorhead, presided and made a short address, in which he urged a more united effort among the teachers of the state. The speeches were interspersed with vocal solos by Miss Enid Allen Watts, teacher of music at the Moorhead normal.

Supt. Uhl read a resolution passed last winter by the Northwestern Teachers' association at Fergus Falls, in which it urged the Minnesota Educational association to take steps to form a state federation of teachers, which might, as in Illinois, be joined with the State Federation of Labor.

Causes Warm Discussion.

The urgent need of a labor union among the teachers as laid down by Prof. Uhl evoked a heated discussion, and an attempt to sidetrack the movement was made by some of the more conservative by sending it to the committee on resolutions. After some ardent reports had passed, a substitute motion was adopted instructing President Weld to appoint a committee to draft resolutions, and a report on the question, which will be submitted to the state association.

Continued on Seventh Page.

"It may seem queer," said Supt. Uhl, "for me to urge an organization of a federation by members of the state educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

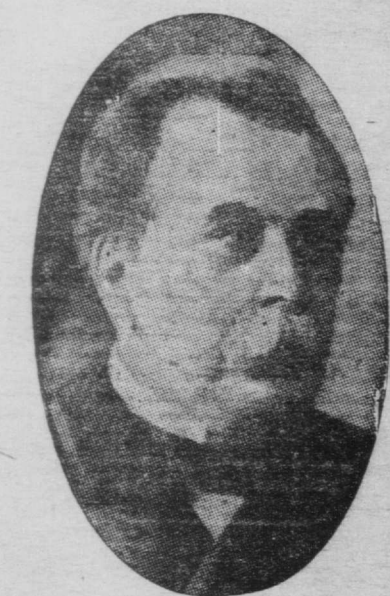

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

"We do not usually recognize the fact that as a matter of social honesty the teachers should organize. We do not generally recognize our place socially and economically. We work for

educational association, but the educational association has for its purpose the advancement of education; the proposed state federation of teachers would seek to advance the interests of the teachers. They would work together, but each would have its separate mission.

GLOVER DEFIES MILITARY AND IS SHOT IN THE ARM

JOHN G. GLOVER.

Former Missouri Congressman
Has a Bout With the Soldiers
at Cripple Creek, Col.,
Calls Governor "Cheap Anarchist," Challenges Military to Take His Guns, Barr