LEBANON.

Miss ALTHEA ARMSTRONG.

We laughed last week about the rhyme
By sister Matthews, Truly,
To laugh is but a wholesome draught.
If cause comes not unduly.
For life is full of smiles and tears
And changes and disaster,
So mingle in the jingling rhymes
For laughter's what we're after.

While guarding the feeding door of the barn Tuesday evening as his father was driving the horses into the barn, Willie Lane was knocked down by his pony which gave a bound to enter the doorway. Mr. Roper of Carthage, who is Mrs. Phillips' brother, visited at the Phillips home Sunday. Mr. Carrick and family visited at Robert Wolf's Sunday. Mrs. Mary Lyman visited at the home of her son William Lyman Sunday. Our hearts were made sad Saturday morning, to learn of the death of Mrs. C. F. Sweet. She was a true honored and worthy citizen, a Christian character of remarkable steadfastness, and a friend and benefactress to everyone in need. And as we looked upon her face in death's repose, we could but say—
Asleep in Jesus' peaceful rest,
Whose malice is supremely blest;
No fear, no woe, shall dim that hour
That manifests the Saviour's power.
