A QUEER CASE.

An Ohio Girl Whose Tears Seem to be Turned Into Glass.

Friday, O., Jan., 26.—The physicians and oculists of this city are greatly puzzled over a case which is as remarkable as any that ever came under this observation. This was the taking from the right eye of Jennie Sutton, a 15-year-old girl, of 64 pieces of broken glass by Dr. T. C. Tritch. While this of itself would be very much out of the ordinary, when it is considered that the eye was not at all affected by these foreign substances, and that there was no inflammation or obscurement of vision, as well as no pain, it is a fact that these pieces of glass were taken from the eye of this girl for the past month, and only day before yesterday Dr. Tritch removed every evidence of glass in the eye, and announced that all were taken out.

Yesterday she came back and had fifty-four more pieces removed, and no one knows how they came into the eye. The girl is a domestic in the family of Ex-Surveyor Stringfellow, whose wife has been taking these particles of glass from the girl's eye for a month past, but becoming alarmed at their reappearance almost as soon as removed had Dr. Tritch undertake to cure the young woman of her peculiar affliction. The case puzzles the doctors quite as much as it has the girl and her employers, as she met with no accident by which the glass could get into the eye, and the fact that the particles give her little or no pain is equally as inexplicable.

It is estimated that over 100 pieces of glass have been taken from the eye since the case first attracted attention. The glass has been tested and found to be pure crystals, and as the girl has no means of putting the pieces in the eye, and as a matter of fact, would hardly have intelligence sufficient to carry out a system of imposition, not to speak of her ability to do so without pain, the matter has aroused the liveliest sort of speculation, and the only theory thus far advanced to explain the matter is that the girl has some sort of a chemical nature and that the crystals are formed by her tears. Another examination will be made to-morrow, the girl being closely watched in the meantime to prevent any fraud, and the outcome of this test will be awaited with interest. All in all, it is a strange case.

INGALLS LEFT

The Alliance Scores a Victory in Kansas and Elect Peffer to the Senate.

Wild Enthusiasm at the Result—Hats Waved and Shouts Rend the Air.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 27.—[Special.] An immense throng gathered in the house to-day to witness the vote of that body for United States senator, many of whom were ladies. The gallery, lobby and floor were crowded to suffocation. At 12 o'clock the speaker brought down his gavel and announced that the election was "on." As the members' names were called, they called the name of their preference. When Ingalls received a vote, vociferous cheers were given. When Peffer's name was answered the grand army adherents hooted, shouted "rats," and similar taunts.

The vote stood, Peffer, 96; Ingalls, 23; Blair, democrat, 5. When the speaker announced the vote the scene beggars description. Shouts rent the air. Ladies waved handkerchiefs. Books, hats and papers were hurled through the house in their crazy enthusiasm, while one wild eyed man with oat straw protruding from his shirt collar took off his coat and whirled it around and around in the air shouting in a voice that was a cross between a fog horn and a buzz saw. In the senate the election was tame, the vote there was Ingalls, 35; Peffer, 4; Elder, speaker of the house, 1. Senator Senior, from Coffey county, republican, voted for Peffer, the alliance candidate. The two houses meet in joint session at noon to-morrow. Peffer received 35 majority and Ingalls can dig sassafras after March next.

JUDGE PEFFER'S CAREER.

William Alfred Peffer is a man of education, ability and culture. He is a pioneer of southern Kansas. His grandfather, William Peffer, was a soldier in the war of 1812. His boyhood was spent upon a farm near his birthplace, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, until he was nineteen years of age. He applied all his savings to acquiring books, and at that age had a library of 100 volumes. From the age of 15 to 19 he taught school a portion of each year, principally in the winter months. At 19 he was attracted to California, where he spent nearly two years in the mines, with but little pecuniary success, but as a young man of ability so attracted public attention as to be tendered a nomination to the legislature, which he was compelled to decline on account of his age, though older heads advised him to evade the question of minority and accept.

In 1852 he returned to his old home and his pursuits as a farmer and teacher, but, in 1853, being married, he immigrated to St. Joseph county, Indiana, where he spent six years as a farmer. In 1859 he removed to Morgan county, Missouri, where he remained teaching and farming until the breaking out of the war, when he removed to Warren county, Illinois, and enlisted as a private in company F, Eighty-third regiment Illinois volunteer infantry. He was soon promoted to a lieutenant.

On being mustered out of service the young lieutenant settled at Clarks-ville, Tenn., where he practiced law from 1865 to 1870. From Tennessee early in 1870 he immigrated to Kansas and located in Wilson county, pursuing his profession, and in December of the same year purchased the Wilson County Courier which he conducted for three years. In 1874 he was elected a senator from Wilson and Montgomery counties on the republican ticket. He was chairman of the centennial committee and committee on public printing and an active, useful member of the judiciary committee. As a laborious, working member he had few equals and to his legislative labors was largely due the success of the centennial display at Philadelphia.

In 1875 Judge Peffer removed to Coffeyville, established the Coffeyville Journal and continued the practice of law.

He was originally a democrat, but on the organization of the republican party became a republican. Some time ago Judge Peffer joined the Farmers' alliance and became devoted to the principles of the new party which has come to power in Kansas. For ten years he has edited the Farmers' Alliance. He is 60 years old.

Woodville, Miss., Jan. 28.—The case of S. A. Bradford who some weeks ago wrecked the pay train on the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas R. R. having been acquitted and escaped punishment for his crime through a technicality of the law, was discussed at a mass meeting of the citizens of Wilkinson county, held here yesterday, and this was adopted: Resolved, That we will no longer tolerate said Bradford in our midst for one day, except that he may return at the next term of court to stand trial on the remaining charge against him and leave instantly, and to that end we hereby solemnly warn S. A. Bradford, if he still stays in the county, to leave immediately and not to come again within the limits of the county except as above ordered. If he does we will instantly put him to death.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Miss Anna Luther of Rosedale Shot by a Would be Suitor.

Kansas City, Jan. 29.—A sensational tragedy, shocking in its details and awful in its results, horrified the little village of Rosedale last night. Maddened by unrequited love, Charles Goble attempted to assassinate Miss Annie Luther, and then with the same murderous pistol ended his own worthless life by a bullet through his brain. For several years Goble, who is a young man about 30 years old and an iron worker by trade, had known and loved Miss Annie Luther, a handsome, accomplished and popular young lady of Rosedale. She has persistently refused his addresses and last night he attempted to make good his often made threat that she should not live to marry any other man. Last night, at a few minutes after 9 o'clock, Annie Luther and her sister, May, sat reading in the front or sitting room of the cottage. The aged mother had retired to her bed upstairs and the two girls were alone on the first floor. Suddenly came a crashing sound as if the outside door to the kitchen was being broken in. With the instinct of fear, they rushed out from the sitting room to the kitchen. As they came out of the sitting room door, Annie in front, they were confronted by the desperate lover, revolver in hand, with his mind fully made up as to the awful deed he was about to commit. Only once did he speak. With hate glaring out of his eyes he ejaculated, "My time has come now." As he fired the first shot from the revolver which he held ready in his hand, Annie involuntarily threw up her left arm to defend herself. The ball struck her arm penetrating the flesh below the elbow, then going through the arm again near the shoulder. Annie screamed and May threw herself upon the murderer in a vain attempt to stop him. Throwing her aside, tearing an ear-ring from her right ear in the struggle he pursued his fleeing victim, who was trying to find a refuge in the sitting room. Just as she got inside the door he fired twice more. One ball struck the frontal bone just over the left eye, inflicting a jagged wound and probably glancing off. The third shot struck the right side of her neck and passed up through her mouth. Faint and bleeding the wounded girl sank to the floor. Believing that his work was finished the murderer stepped inside the sitting room and putting the pistol to the top of his head sent a bullet crashing through his brain. As he fell the pistol slipped from his hand to the rocking chair by his side, one load out of five remaining in it. Crazed, almost, by the awful scene which she had witnessed, May Luther ran out into the yard screaming "murder!" at the top of her voice. Awakened by the shots and screaming, Mrs. Luther made her way down stairs to find her daughter weltering in her life blood and Charles Goble dying upon the floor. Attracted by the screams of May Luther, Mr. A. N. Todd, who lives a few hundred yards away, was the first to reach the scene. What he saw is told below. Other neighbors were soon on the scene and the wounded girl was put on a bed which was put up in the sitting room. Dr. B. M. Barnett soon arrived and set about relieving the sufferings of the girl. Meanwhile the body of the murderer, who breathed for half an hour after he shot himself, was conveyed down the hill to an empty store next to the Catholic church, there to await the arrival of Deputy Coroner Gates, who was notified. Shortly it was taken to Mr. Gates' undertaking establishment, where the body was cared for and the bullet cut out from just back of the right ear, where it had lodged under the skin.

IN JOINT SESSION

The Kansas Legislature Elect W. A. Peffer to the United States Senate.

Enthusiasm Still at Fever Heat in Topeka and the Alliance Happy.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 28. (Special)—The house and senate convened in joint session at noon, the lieutenant-governor presiding, for the purpose of electing United States Senator. Upon the call of the roll the following was the vote: W. A. Peffer, 101; John J. Ingalls, 58; C. W. Blair, 3; Lucien Baker, 1; H. L. Morrill, 1; H. B. Kelley, 1. W. A. Peffer was elected to the United States senate, for six years, beginning next March. The result created the wildest enthusiasm and the air was rent with cheers, and for a long time after the session dissolved, hand-shaking etc., was indulged in.

The State Capital.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 29.—Senator Miller yesterday offered a resolution instructing the committee on federal relations and public buildings and grounds to visit St. Louis, to thoroughly inspect the Missouri institute for the blind, for the purpose of ascertaining the feasibility of selling the present grounds and buildings and re-locating in more suitable quarters. The resolution was held up, pending the report of the committee appointed to visit the state institutions. Senator Cochran of St. Joseph poked the senate in the ribs rather rudely this morning, by introducing a resolution withholding any appropriation for the World's fair until after congress had taken action on the force bill. Senator McGinnis said he wanted to point out some of the incongruities of the resolution. He started to make a speech against it, but had his attention diverted by close questioning and the resolution went over under the rules. The senate committee on elections has decided to report the Australian ballot law restricting it to cities of 1,000 population and over. As a very general demand has been made to have the law apply to the entire state, it is expected that a warm fight will be made when the report is presented. Just what reasons the members of the committee have for restricting the law to cities of 1,000 and more is not known, but it is said to be chiefly on the ground of the enormous cost to the people of the state. The senate committee on judiciary will report favorably upon the mechanic lien law bill introduced by Senator Stone. The committee on private corporations has decided to report favorably upon a bill compelling telegraph companies to accompany each message sent with a file showing time sent, received and delivered.

PORTER ACQUITTED.

A Notorious Tennessee Murderer Gets Off Luckily.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 28.—Fortune has once more proved kind to Kenneth Porter of Paris, Tenn., who has figured in as many murderous affrays as any man of his age in Tennessee. This time he has been acquitted of the charge of murder in the killing of Will Edmunds, his brother-in-law. Porter is the third son of ex-Gov. James D. Porter. Edmunds was equally well connected and about as reckless as young Porter. The trouble that finally resulted in the killing originated in a scandal connecting the names of Kenneth Porter and Edmunds' sister, whom he subsequently married. In a quarrel about this time Edmunds shot and dangerously wounded Porter. When Porter had become convalescent he met Edmunds on the street and a second encounter ensued, in which Edmunds was killed. An hour later Dudley Porter, brother of Kenneth's and a son-in-law of Gen. J. D. C. Atkins, who was commissioner of Indian Affairs under Cleveland, was shot and killed by a young bank cashier named Alexander White, with whom he quarreled about the killing of Edmunds. White was tried and acquitted. The conduct of his sons blighted the political prospects of Gov. Porter. He would have been elected United States Senator two years ago but for his withdrawal from the contest in consequence of the Edmunds killing.

Conductor Killed by Cars.

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 29.—Conductor H. F. Johnston, in charge of a Frisco freight train, was killed to-day at Winfield by being caught between the platform and a moving train.
