Gen. Miles says the Spanish war was without a defeat for the American side. Not a prisoner, a flag or a rifle was lost. The record of success is extraordinary.

Oliver Wendell Holmes use I to be an amateur photographer. When he prasented a picture to a friend he wrote on the back: "Taken by O. W. Holmes &

Two little steamers to be built by an English firm are to have a speed of 40 statute miles an hour. Crossing the Atlantic in three days has reached the stage of possibility.

'An English newspaper having offered a prize of £5 for the best reply to the question, "Who makes the best wife?" should have given it to that loyal soul who wrote: "Dear Sir: Mine. Yours truly, Bertram Boggs."

A German biologist says that the two sides of a face are never alike. In two cases out of five the eyes are out of line; one eye is stronger than the other in seven persons out of ten, and the right eye is generally higher than the left.

A ship building firm in Belfast, Ireland, has received instructions from a Liverpool company for the construction of a cargo steamer to be 680 feet long and 75 feet of beam. She will be the largest cargo steamer in the world. and will be able to carry more than the once famous Great Eastern.

It is said that Saturday has been a fatal day to the royal family of Britain for the last 185 years. William III. Queen Anne, George I., George II. George III., George IV., the duchess of Kent, the prince Consort, the duke of Clarence, the duke of Albany, and Princess Alice all died on that day.

It has been less than two years since the law making life imprisonment instead of death penalty for murder in Colorado went into effect and vet agitation has already begun looking to a revival of the death penalty. It is asserted by those who wish a reestablishment of the gallows that the life-imprisonment law has resulted in an epidemic of crime.

The Siamese government has informed our government that it is about to reestablish its legation in Washington after a lapse of many years, during which all of its diplomatic correspondence has been carried on through its legation at London. The new Siamese minister has arrived and has presented his credentials at Washington. His name is Phya Visddha Suriyasakti.

A company with a capital stock of $800,000, in which several wealthy Mexican capitalists of Monterey are interested, has been organized for the purpose of developing the oil fields of Mexico, and to place the product on the market in that and other countries. There are several productive oil fields in Mexico, one of the richest of them being located in the state of Tamauli-

Adjt. Gen. Corbin's annual report shows that the total strength of the regular and volunteer armies during the war with Spain was 11,108 officers and 263,908 enlisted men-a total of 275,-016 men. That report also states that the total deaths from wounds and disease up to October 3 were 107 officers and 2,803 enlisted men-a total death list of 2,910 men, and a death percentage of less than 1.06.

Yankee girls at Bridgeport, Conn., have formed a matrimonial trust to regulate the market on a better basis. The girls have organized what they have named "The Anti-Chair Warming Society of Marriageable Maidens," and will limit the supply of entertainers for the frivolous young men by forcing them to a declaration of intentions on the third visit. This will tend to kill off some of these old ten-year "steadies" that are the despair of every unmarried

The railway system in the United States employs 36,000 locomotives, 26,-000 passenger cars and 9,000 mail and regiments had arrived in Savannah baggage cars. These figures seem large till the number of freight cars is stated which is 1,250,000. The system, with its gigantic equipment, is practically the growth of a single generation. With the additions of another quarter or half a century posterity ought to stand and gaze at its stupendous proportions. But it will probably be gradually educated out of all its capacities of wonder, as we have been out of many of our own.

The duchess of Madrid, the wife of Don Carlos, the pretender to the Spanish throne, recently declared before leaving Lucerne that her husband was perfecting arrangements for the seizure of the throne and that within one year he would be the reigning sovereign in Spain. She expressed it as her opinion that the queen regent will abdicate in favor of her son, and will then allow Carlos to take the throne in order to avoid civil strife and bloodshed, which she says will surely follow in case he is refused his rights when next he makes his demands.

Capt. Sigsbee, who commanded the battleship Maine and later the big auxiliary cruiser the St. Paul, will be the first officer in the navy to secure an allotment of prize money. Capt. Sigsbee has been awarded $975 and his crew $5,-525 to be divided according to their pay, for the capture of the collier Restormel off Santiago, to which port the collier was bound in an attempt to deliver coal to Cervera's fleet. Had Sigsbee not stopped the Restormel Cervera would have received his coal and more probably have been out of the harbor before be could have been blockaded.

The old Bradlee house at the corner of Tremont and Hollis streets in Boston is being torn down to make way for a modern one. It is one of the most interesting historic landmarks in Boston. In its wide old kitchen the leaders of the Boston tea party disguised themselves as Indians on the evening of December 16, 1773, before going to the wharf where the cargo of tea was thrown into the waters of Boston harbor. The old South church and Faneuil hall are the only two buildings beside the Bradlee house now left which sheltered the patriots on that eventful day.

MISSOURI STATE NEWS.

For Better Rural School State Superintendent of Schools John R. Kirk speaks of his recommendations to the general assembly as follows:

We should cease our wasteful experimenta-tion and profit by the example of older states, whose school organization is more perfect than ours. I shall recommend legislation providing for the abandonment of existing isolated, and often impoverished, independent small school districts and their consolidation into larger ones, at least five or six miles square, with au-thority to furnish transportation for punits to thority to furnish transportation for pupils to and from school. The plan of having two three and four-room buildings at the center of a large district and hauling the children to and from school in covered wagons increases the attendance, reduces expenses and greatly im-proves the instruction.

I shall also recommend state aid of from $500 to f1.000 to each high school organized accord-ing to the approved standards and admitting without tuition fees, all students of high-school grade who wish to enter from surrounding rural schools. I shall also recommend legisla tion looking to the earliest possible adoption of a free text-book law.

Miscellaneous.

Congressman Bland's official majority over Robertson in the Eighth dis-

Jacob Samuels, of Columbia, was sentenced to five years imprisonment for forging a check for only $2.50.

Incendiaries set fire to the buildings of the Bouse milk dairy at Dug Hill, near St. Joseph, and 19 cows perished. Scarlet fever developed near Little Rock, Saline county, but every precaution was taken to prevent an epidemic. A St. Louis dispatch said Col. R. C. Kerens would again ask the republican legislative indorsement for United States senator.

President Luckey, of the Missouri State Teachers' association, has issued a circular letter requesting a large attendance of teachers at the next meeting of the association at Jefferson City December 29.

At Carthage the other night Charles Carroll, the "cowboy evangelist," was assaulted on his way home from church by Cad Northup, who alleged that the evangelist was interfering in Northup's love affairs.

Gov. Stephens appointed delegates to represent Missouri at the good roads and public improvement convention, which is to be held in St. Louis, November 21 to 23. Every part of the state is represented. E. W. Stephens, of the Columbia Herald, has purchased the controlling interest in the Daily and Weekly Tribune, at Jefferson City, and will take charge immediately, still retaining his Columbia paper. While Rev. W. B. Hanna and wife, of the Promenade street M. E. church at Mexico, were absent from the pastoral residence, thieves entered in daylight and carried away some cash, a gold watch and other jewelry.

Miss Minnie Muir, of Bunceton, month ago married George A. Barker, salesman in a St. Louis dry goods store A few days later a woman arrived on the scene from Indianapolis, Ill., and claimed Barker as her husband.

V. L. Penland, ex-representative from Howell county, shot and killed his brother-in-law, James Kelly, in the public square at West Plains. The tragedy grew out of a divorce suit now pending between Penland and his vife, Kelly's sister

A candidate for office in Greene county filed the following statement of election expenses: "Blank paper, 10 cents; cigars, 10 cents; bananas, 20 cents; loaned money, 5 cents; certificate of nomination, 25 cents; cigars, 25 cents; chewing gum, 20 cents. Total, Martin Baldwin, an aeronaut, was sent to the insane asylum at St. Joseph recently. Last September Baldwin made an ascension from the fair grounds at St. Joseph, and in descending alighted on the roof of a six-story building, receiving injuries which afterward made him insane.

C. N. Mayers, a pioneer and wealthy resident of St. Joseph, is dead from a broken heart. When his wife passed away three months ago he told a physician he could never survive the blow Just before his death he gave away valuable business property and several residences in the city to old friends.

A telegram from Savannah, Ga., where the Sixth Missouri regiment is camped, said Col. Hardeman would ask the war department for permission to recruit the regiment up to a point near the maximum. About 40 men from the Third and Fifth Missouri and were divided among the eight companies. A. J. Hamil, of Lincoln county, aged 75 years, had his first ride on a train last week. He boarded a train to go to Winfield, and his acting as if he were not used to it caused inquiry, which led to his admission that it wa his first experience. He was born and reared in Hurricane township, in Lincoln county, and has lived within three miles of the Burlington railroad ever since it was built.

The recent annual convention of the Missouri Federation of Women's clubs was held at Springfield last week, the sessions being largely attended. Officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: Mrs. Ellen D. Lee, St. Louis, president; Mrs. Homer Fuller, Springfield and Mrs. W. P. Wallace, Lebanon, vice presidents; Mrs. L. T. S. McClelland, Sedalia, recording secretary; M. Defoe, Columbia, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Emma Tausig, St. Louis, treasurer. The next meeting will be at Columbia.

Several stockmen in Audrain county who bought big herds of cattle in southwest Missouri learned that a great number of the cattle had been

J. B. Barber hung himself in a wood shed at Cabool. This was his third attempt at suicide. He was despondent because of the conduct of his son who is serving a jail sentence in Spring-

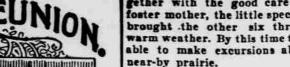

Preston Roberts, Sr., who died at Independence recently, was a Jackson county pioneer and was identified with mail contracts, freighting and river transportation in the early days of Kansas City.

At Chillicothe, a 5-year-old child of Sherman Peters died from concentrated lye that was given him by his small sister, who thought it water.

Louis E. Norton, the world famou steeple climber, is in jail at St. Joseph charged with burglary.

It is reported that Gov. Stephens, in his message to the next legislature, will urge the creation of a board of Mrs. Fannie Goggins, of Hannibal, Mrs. Fannie Goggins, of Hannion, tried to start a fire in the kitchen stove from this cause that the next day one enthusiastic in his praises of Noah. He turkey killed you want to speak about with kerosene. The can burst and of the young turkeys died. But the finally came to boast that Noah was it, not go around thinking I can read Mrs. Goggins did not live to tell the eareful nursing of Mrs. Dasay, to the finest turkey in the United States your pesky thoughts. I'm ready to to shelter 7,000 men at one time.

HERE are forty of u And we always ge together when Thanks giving journey here; But we wouldn't miss Thanksgiving if we

We fill the dear old homestead to the attirafters quite,

And the bees could scarce hive closer than de we, Thanksgiving night. We bring a host of children, but there's no distinction found; We're all a pack of children when Thanksgiving comes around. You ought to see us playing tag behind the old red barn, All running, twisting, tangled, like a living of Mutton hill, take a jolly spill. Oh, what an appetite we have when mother blows the horn!

How good the crisp, brown turkeys smell all fattened up with corn!

The puddings and the pumpkin ples, th tellies white and red-Ah! mother's cooking is a boast from Maine to Marbichead! When dinners over, all round the wide old hearth we sit, And live our youthful pleasures o'er, and crack our nuts and wit. O happiest day of all the time that through the hour-glass runs, Thanksgiving in the old-time was at Grand na Robinson's!

spread herself as wasn't equal to it.

"Melvira," remarked Mr. Dassy to his wife, as he looked into the coop, joy at the sight of him. "Melvira, if I didn't know different, I chould say you was a natural-born "William Henry," snapped Mrs.

Dassy, "I am a natural-born fool, or I'd never married you." "Mebby you're right, Melvira," he said, uneasily. "But I wish you'd explain why you didn't pick cut a bigger

"That hen was the biggest one on the place that wanted to set," returned Mrs. Dassy. "I suppose you'd have set those eggs under a hen that didn't want to set, wouldn't you?" "Well, not exactly that, Melvira. A hen that hasn't fully and thoroughly made up her mind to set isn't a very stationary critter. But why didn't you keep the eggs till a more sizable hen got the setting notion into her "Would you have kept those eggs on ice, or would you have boiled them, William Henry?" inquired Mrs. Dassy, with vigor.

"Well, I dunno what I'd have done," sighed Mr. Dassy, "but I'd have done something 'fore I'd set nine turkey eggs under a little speckled hen like that. You'd better sew a fringe on that hen so she can cover the outside eggs. Though what do we want a lot of turkeys gawking round for anyhow?"

"Well, you'll see what we want of them about next Thanksgiving. Willitm Henry, if you don't eat your share of those turkeys, then I lose my guess.' "All right, Melvira, all right," assented Mr. Dassy, cheerfully, as he went back to the pump. "Only I don't like the gobble of the pesky "Only I things. Makes me want to choke

The Dassys lived on the northern en-hawks never made any more at- on the blue platter!" edge of Nebraska. Their farm lay on the open prairie, but right at the head of Lone Tree canyon, an abrupt crack on the ground which ran down to the rapidity. The speckled hen was soon him, for he waxed bigger and bigger Niobrara river. The lone tree which gave the name to the canyon was a self following behind as he wandered casionally, but no more than was nechigh and spectral pine standing a dozen yards from their barn.

Never was tree so deserted by its to roosting on the ridge-pole of the kind before. There was not another in sight anywhere, although there were others down the canyon and along the river; but as you stood on the prairie you looked over them, and son came on, and he developed wonder- burned a circular firebreak a quarover the river and canyon as well, so ful skill in catching these insects, to ter of a mile out around the buildings. that in whatever way you turned your eyes from the Dassy ranch you saw nothing but treeless prairie; though of an evening the wind sighed through turk in Nebraska that can gather in the pine, where he gobbled some more the top of the lone tree quite industriously, and did what it could to suggest | You ought to watch him. He sees a a forest. The Dassy boys, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and George not thinking about anything. and he Washington, often talked about just up and points him like a pointer other fowls were useless. Even the climbing the lone tree, but they never dog, and creeps closer and closer, cold winds of November did not seem did so.

One day a month later Mrs. Dassy came out of the coop and said: "Well, she didn't do so bad. I think." "How many?" inquired Mr. Dassy.

"Seven." "No, that isn't bad, considering. Are they likely-looking critters?'

"Well, they don't handsome much now, of course. Young turkeys never besides watch a turkey eatch hop-do. But I'm reckoning that next pers!" answered Mrs. Dassy. "Though Thanksgiving the biggest one of 'em, I hope he'll get a right smart lot of baked to a turn, on the blue platter, them, because we don't need the hopwith his legs sticking up in the air, pers, and they do say there's nothing will be just about as pretty a sight like a hopper-fattened turkey for tenas you'll see, William Henry!"

Her husband smiled and rubbed his hands. "Oh, I'm not saying a word against julcy young turkeys on plat- in five states and two territories, and ters 'bout Thanksgiving time. What I've never seen anything like it! Never I object to is their gobbling and strut- knowed him to miss. I calculate he ting around and feeling so big." "Don't say anything, William The hot, dry Nebraska summer wore Henry," replied his wife; "I've known away, and Noah continued to thrive.

you to gobble and strut around and The grasshopper crop was good-bet-It was still early in the spring, and never failed to get his daily share of the weather was cold. Perhaps it was it. Each week Mr. Dassy grew more able to make excursions about the certainly was a fine bird. near-by prairie.

But their troubles were not over. At the first rain the whole flock crowdforward so hard that one of them later a chicken-hawk swooped down and carried off another, although side. the little hen fought desperately and lost half her feathers in the struggle. There were but four left now.

But the worst was yet to come. week later there was a great rainstorm. Shortly before its coming Mrs. Dassy had seen the turkeys under the barn, so she supposed them safe; but, in point of fact, when it began they were twenty rods out on the prairie. At the first drops the hen began to flutlead them back, but they refused to weathered it out, and when the rain world below. ceased and Mrs. Dassy discovered them she found three of them drowned.

"There the fools were," she cried, one left,"all drowned standing up, with thought he could have done it!" And, like as not, get "slewing" round and their mouths open so's to get the most of it. There never was such fools as young turkevs!"

> Mr. Dassy, gloomily. "They're the biggest fools in all creation. That ends our plans for Thanksgiving." "No, it don't, William Henry," returned his wife, vigorously. "This one's alive, and he's going to stay alive!"

And she rolled him in a flannel cloth and put him in the oven to dry. Mr. Dassy shook his head. "No hope, Melvira, no hope," he anwered. "He'll turn up his toes inside of a week. It's bound to come! I've felt it in my bones all along. Why, if he'll up and go off and commit suicide! "Stop your croaking. William Henry," said Mrs. Dassy, sharply. "This turkey is going to live till Thanksgivfor turkeys." "Oh, well, I hope so, of course. He did pull through the flood first-rate, there's no denying that. Almost as well as Noah did through his flood. That's what we'll call him, Melvira-Noah.

"All right, William Henry; his name s Noah.

Mrs. Dassy was right about Noah's hances for living; a half-hour in the oven made him as sprightly as ever. In fact, he wriggled out of the oven did this one, but it was of no use; she himself and went plaintively peeping away out of the open door to the speckled hen, who was delirious with The storm seemed to mark a turn-

"NOW YOU PUT THAT GUN RIGHT BACK."

no more trouble. The rains either | like, once or twice, and then you'll see ceased or he defied them. The chick- -slap!-head's off and we've got him had trouble in carrying him off, since night in the lone tree. The flight he grew with the most astonishing seemed in no way to disagree with a hopper like that Noah of ours! and stayed till the next morning.

From this time on Noah roosted each to sweep him off; but he clung to his

It was late Tuesday afternoon be fore Thanksgiving. Mrs. Dassy had been bustling about with the work since dinner time, but her husband had sat by the fire and scarcely spoken.

She knew that he was thinking of Noah, but she said nothing. She had her own private feelings about Noah,

After some time she said: "Well,

William Henry, I'm waiting for that "You are, are you?" snapped the man, impatiently. "Well, why didn't you say so? What am I here for?

What have I been setting around all the afternoon for? Andrew Jackson you and George Washington go out and

The boys started out, and Mr. Dassy went on: "Melvira, when you want a turkey now."

catch the critter."

but she knew that he had got to die.

essary to keep him in good voice.

tacks. Indeed they would shortly have the smaller of the two, and found her-here and there. Then he began to ignore her entirely, and at night took

This was too much for the hen; she gave him up, and he went his own way hopper sitting on a blade of grass and steady, never saying a word, his head getting a little lower all the time, till he's just right; then he makes one shoot and puts up his head sort of like this, and swallows the hopper,' and Mr. Dassy twisted his neck about in a ludicrous attempt to look like

"Well, I 've got something else to do

"That's so, Melvira. But you ough to watch him snatch them. I've lived gobbles 400 of them every day."

ter than any other crop-and Noah der eating and flavor."

the great delight of Mr. Dassy.

barn.

Noah.

gether with the good care of their if not in the whole world, and that foster mother, the little speckled hen, he habitually caught and ate 1,000 brought the other six through to grasshoppers each day. Dassy, without warm weather. By this time they were intended it, exaggerated; but Noah

It was one evening early in September, just after sundown, while Mrs. Dassy was finishing getting supper ed under a haystack, and they pressed and her husband and two of the boys were in their places at the table waitwas smothered to death. A fortnight | ing expectantly, that a wild shout was heard from George Washington out-

"He's done it, pop, he's done it!

all rushed out. "There he is-see him!" went or George Washington, leaping around like a kitten. "Look at him! I saw him do it!"

The others looked up in the direction the boy pointed. Far out on a long and scraggy limb of the pine tree, ter and cluck wildly in an attempt to a dark blot against the red of the western sky, sat Noah, craning hisneck budge. There on the open prairie they this way and that as he gazed at the "Good gracious alive, Melvira," cried and spattered out through the puddles Mr. Dassy, when he fully took in the situation, "he has done it, sure's you're born! Noah's flown into the coming back, carrying the only living lone tree to roost! Who'd have

"It was a big fly, and that's a fact," assented Mrs. Dassy. "Big fly!" roared Mr. Dassy, "I should say it was a big fly! It's the biggest "I always said it, Melvira," replied fly any turkey in America ever made That Noah is the most-" Just then the turkey stretched out his neck and gave a loud gobble, the first he had ever been heard to utter

Mr. Dassy stopped short, struck one fist against the other, and went on: "There, it's begun! I knew that pesky gobbling would have to come Nothing else but gobble, gobble, gob ble, now!'

"Well, come in before supper all gets cold. Let him gobble if he wants to. that turkey can't die any other way, You'd gobbie, too, if you'd just flown up into the lone tree.' They went in, and Mr. Dassey seemed to forget, or at least to forgive, the gobble, and said: "No, sir, Meivira; there isn't another turkey like that ing, and then he'll die a natural death there Noah in America. I wouldn't take a quarter section of the best land in Keyapaha county for him." "You'll get so took up with him." an swered his wife, "that you can't kill bim when Thanksgiving comes." "Oh, pshaw," retorted her husband "I'll show you. Think I'm a woman, hey? What are we raising Noah for? I like him, of course, and I've got respect for him, but we raised him for Thanksgiving-that's what he's forand when the time comes, whack! off goes his head." Mr. Dassy paused and seemed 'est in thought; then he continued: "Of course, to kill Noah-just to kill him plain, you know, in cold blood, as they say-might be a little hard, but I'll ing-point in Noah's life. There was just wait till he's gobbled at me, sassy kill that turkey any time you want & killed.

He turned to the other boy and said: "Thomas Jefferson, you go out and chop his head off when you get him. You'll find the ax by the grindstone. It's time you boys learned to do such things.' Thomas Jefferson disappeared, and Mr. Dassy peeped cautiously out of the window. Mrs. Dassy said not a word. Andrew Jackson and George Washington were having a good deal of diff culty in capturing the turkey. They Noah's done it! Come and see!" cried had at first tried to approach him and the boy, in huge excitement. They pick him up as they had often done, but something unusual in their manner alarmed him and he walked off.

After several attempts they gave up and Andrew Jackson said: "We've got to run him down, George," and they both started after him. They were good runners; but Noah was also a good runner. Around and around the barn they went twenty times, the boys two steps behind the turkey, who had his head lowered, his wings tight folded, and was taking steps quite as long as they were. At last, however, the boys gained a little upon him. "Fall on him, fall on him!" shouted

Thomas Jefferson, from the grindstone. Andrew Jackson fell forward on his face, with George Washington on top of him. But they counted without their host

-Noah was not there; with a fierce beat of his wings he shot out, and then sailed away to the top of the lone tree. There he stood up and uttered a defiant gobble. "Hear that!" cried Mr. Dassy, in a rage. "I'll fix him now!" and he snatched down his rifle from the wall. "Now you put that gun right back," said his wife, firmly. "You know perfectly well if you shoot at him so far off that you are liable to wound him, and I won't have him suffering. Wait till morning, when you can get up close to him and shoot him right and so he'll never know what hits him.' Mr. Dassy snorted once or twice and put up the rifle. It was just before the first sign of dawn next morning. The house was dark, and the only sound to be heard was the sharp rush of the wind through the pine.

Suddenly there came in the morning stillness the jangling gobble of Noah. No one heard it. Then it came again,

Mr. Dassy half awoke and said: "Consairn that turkey!" and turned over. There was another gobble; Mr. Dassy half opened his eyes and saw a strange light playing on the ceiling. and then one of the boys began pounding furiously on the stovepipe, and shouled excitedly from above:

"Fire! fire! There's a prairie fire coming! It's right on us; it's got inside the firebreak!" In two minutes the entire Dassy family were out fighting the approaching fire. It was a long hour's work. But the grass had been grazed on and trampled down, and at last with much beating of brooms, shotels, pieces of boards and old blankets they subdued the flames and saved their stacks and buildings. Then, tired but happy, they It was then too late to return to bed and Mrs. Dassy got breakfast. After they had eaten they sat around the stove for an hour. The sun was well up. Noah was walking about cautiously outside, carrying his head high and still somewhat alarmed. After awhile he gobbled. Mr. Dassy arose and took down his rifle. "William Henry," said his wife sharply, "what are you going to do?"

"What am I going to do? Well, I reckaned I'd take a turn along the edge of the canyon and see if I couldn't knock over a jack-rabbit. To-morrows Thanksgiving. Do you think we can have a Thanksgiving without any fresh meat?" Then he went out. It was the next day and they were all gathered round the table. Mrs.

Dassy's brother from Sand Lake was with them. He looked at the blue platter and said: "'Pears to me, William Henry, that's a powerful queer-looking Thanksgiving turkey you've got. I'll bet a dollar there ain't any wish-

"You've hit it right, Hiram." returned Mr. Dassy. "Our Thanksgiving turkey ain't much to brag of, but we've got a right smart heap of Thanksgiving. Hear that rascal Noah gobbling out there! I tell you he's got the clearest and the musicalest gobble of any turkey in the whole pesky world!"-Hayden Carruth, in Youth's Companion.

Mrs. Smith-Did you give your mother the invitation to take Thanksgiving dinner at our house?

Tommy Jones-Yes, ma'am. "And what did she say?" "Said she supposed we'd have to go, but she'd rather stay at home and ges a square meal."-N. Y. Journal.

A Heavenly Foretaste. If there is one week in the year more than another, when our burdens and cares, and vexations, and complaints ought to be forgotten, and our mercies counted, and talked, and sung, and prayed over, it is this Thanksgiving week. In Heaven every day will be Thanksgiving day; but there ought to be for us, at this season of the year, at least, a foretaste of the Heavenly joy. - United Presbyteriau.

Extent of a Single Tree. A single banyan tree has been known sars, buszing, snapping sounds, severe headsches and disagreeable discharges, is permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not dally with local applications. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla and make a thorough and complete cure by eradicating from the blood all scrofulous taints and giving health and vigor to the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5. Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

No Chance for a Conflict.

'A conflict of arms," he said, "is a terri-"Of course," she replied, blushing prettily; and so inexcusable, too. I hold that the disposition a man makes of his arms is none of a girl's business. After that, of course, there was no chance for a conflict.—Chicago Post.

Go South This Winter. For the present winter season the Louis-ville & Nashville Railroad Company has ville & Nashville Railroad Company has improved its already nearly perfect through service of Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars and elegant day coaches from Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis and Chicago, to Mobile, New Orleans and the Gulf Coast, Thomasville, Ga., Pensacola, Jacksonville, Tampa, Palm Beach and other points in Florida. Perfect connection will be made with steamer lines for Cuba, Porto Rico, Nassau and West Indian ports. Tourist and Home-Scekers excursion tickets on sale at low rates. Write C. P. Atmore, General Passenger Agent, Louisville, Ky., for particulars.

Reflected Greatness "Pa, what is a lineal descendant?"
"A lineal descendant is a person who has to fall back on some praiseworthy ancestor for his own importance."—Detroit Free

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O! Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomachs receive it without distress. 1-4 the price of coffee. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

of Her Mind. "There's a load off my mind," said the Italian lady, as she deposited the seven bush-els of coal that she had picked up along the railroad tracks.-Chicago Evening News.

Hot or cold, Neuralgia will come. Use St.

"Don't say you work like a slave;" say you "work like a fool."—Atchison Globe. To Cure a Cold in One Day Take Lazative Bromo Quinine Tablets.. All lruggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Our enemies point out our faults, else we might never improve sufficiently to retain our friends.—L. A. W. Bulletin.

Winter set in with Rheumatism. Set out with St. Jacobs Oil and cure. Less than one-half the things one hears are true.-Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

Do not think for a single moment that consumption will ever strike you a sudden blow. It does not come that way.

It creeps its way along.
First, you think it is a little cold; nothing but a little hacking cough; then a little loss in weight; then a harder cough; then the fever and the night The suddenness comes when

Better stop the disease while you have a hemorrhage.

it is yet creeping. You can do it with You first notice that you cough less. The pressure on the chest is lifted. That feeling of suffocation is removed. A cure is hastened by placing one of Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plaster over the Chest. A Book Free.

It is on the Diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Write us Freely.

Have written to tell us how muchyoucan afford to pay for an Organ? Do it now.

Estey Organ Co., Brattleboro, Vt.

