ALL OVER THE COUNTY.

Forbes.

—Pulum brought in the first goose of the season.

—Some sleighing in this part of the country this week.

—The meeting north of town is still in progress, with the interest increasing.

—Saturday seems to be a jolly day with some of our citizens, they being in possession of a little beer feel quite rich.

—We noticed a man in our town with a fine lot of small fish which he had caught with a seine, and was so bold as to have his seine in the wagon while selling the fish. It is to be hoped that the Grand Juror from this township will bring such grand humbugs as this to the notice of the Grand Jury.

CITIZEN.

Lake Shore.

—Not much sickness.

—Corn gathering still continues.

—Mr. Romine has been unwell, but is now convalescent.

—Mr. Ashbrook bought of Messrs. Romine, Hinkle and Hegler 127 hogs. Price paid $5.50.

—Because of the failure of the corn, most men will sell their hogs earlier in the season than usual.

—A protracted meeting of some interest was lately held in the M. E. church, (South) but was discontinued on account of the inclemency of the weather.

LONE FISHERMAN.

Burr Oak.

—Look out for corn thieves.

—Henry Minton is at his post again.

—Jack Frost has filled all the sickness.

—Cattle buyers have been thick in this vicinity.

—Wonder what Jim Rhodes thought the other night.

—Christmas is not far off; we all expect presents.

—Wonder how John Minton likes to buggy-ride in the country.

—Elias Richey has bought the John Stroud farm, containing 40 acres—price paid, $300.00.

—Hank Pulver has sold his farm to new comers—Messrs. Crocket and Trussell; price $250.00.

PETE EVERGREEN.

Mound City.

—Uncle Levi Dodge is up and about again.

—Mrs. Tompkins is still improving slowly.

—The new bank building will be ready to occupy soon.

—Corsaut and Meyer move into their new store-building this week.

—Mr. Cavanaugh and wife, of Graham are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Brink.

—The cold has greatly interfered with plastering and there are several jobs not yet done.

—Corn, 40 cts.; potatoes, $1.50; beef, 10 cts.; sausage, 12 1-2 cts.; cabbage, 10 cts; apples, $1.25.

—There are three butcher shops in town now and rumor says another will be opened in a few days.

—Mr. Davis, of the M.E church South, preached at the M. E. church here Sunday morning and evening.

—Rev. Wetzell finds himself homeless since his wife left last Thursday for a two months visit to her parents in Illinois; rather he finds that he has many homes here.

—The meeting at the Christian church continues. Mr. Pinkerton, of Falls City, Neb., is expected to arrive this (Monday) evening to assist in the meeting. Wonder if help could not have been found nearer home?

—People will litigate some yet. There was a jury trial before Esq. Durham Saturday. Mr. Aiken appeared for the plaintiff, and A. H. Jamison for the defendant. The amount involved was $21 and the costs were about the same, but an appeal has been taken to the Circuit Court, and by the time it is determined there will be a pretty sum of costs for someone in the case to pay.

BERT.

Forest City.

—Items are very scarce this week.

—D. Kunkel & Sons shipped 10 bales or 3,004 pounds of wool to Chicago last week.

—Thomas Quick, an old citizen of lower bottom died on the morning of the 22d inst.

—We understand there will be quite a number up to attend the concert at Oregon this evening.

—Three new coaches for the Denver & Northwestern railway, went up the road on flat cars this week.

—D. Bombeck & Co., St. Joe, were here on Wednesday doing some work for the East Forest City Mills.

Craig.

—Our merchants all enjoyed a fine trade last week.

—Mrs. W. M. Boyer is now pronounced convalescent.

—Thanksgiving day will be generally observed by our people.

—No firm in the county are handling more grain than Meyers & Ward.

—Sheriff Frame made a brief call at Craig on Monday morning last.

—It is said that the Craig Literary Society will be organized at an early date.

—E. W. Hooper, of St. Joe, was in town on Monday last and closed a big corn contract.

—Our public schools, under the supervision of Mrs. Lizzie Welch, is progressing finely.

—The ladies of the M. E. Church will feed the hungry multitude on Thanksgiving day.

—Has that Georgia planter's daughter caught J. Foster Marshall sure enough? [It looks that way.—ED.]

—Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wren were called upon last week to mourn the loss of an interesting child. Diphtheria.

—Mrs. W. B. Wilson will soon visit her accomplished daughter Miss Jennie who is now attending school at St. Charles.

—Dr. J. H. Bond, of Kansas City, was called home last Wednesday to attend his mother who has been quite ill, but is now recovering.

—Mrs. Vona Richardson nee Price, of Colorado, is now visiting relatives and friends in and about Craig. She is delighted with her Western home.

—Two young men were arrested at Craig last Monday thought to have been connected with the Maitland depot robbery, which proved to be a mistake.

—Frank Allen and bride are expected to put in an appearance within a day or two. A hearty welcome awaits them.

TRUTHFUL JAMES.

Lincoln

—Health is very poor with a great many.

—Mrs. Fuqua is lying very low with intermittent fever.

—Mr. Samuel Reiffer is still on the sick list with rheumatism, he is improving slowly.

—Mr. Josiah Proud, of Pottawatomie county, Kansas, has been visiting friends and relatives in Holt county.

—We wish that young man who likes to wear a ring so well, would get one of his own, and let the ladies' rings alone.

—Mr Wm King and Mr. James Proud, who have been visiting friends and relatives in Holt county, started last Monday to their homes in Indiana.

—Mr. Ned Guthery, one of our young men, has been lying with consumption for about six weeks. We cannot see any change in him for the worse or for the better.

—Our school is in charge of Mr. S. O'Fallon, who is a good teacher and is loved by all his scholars. If we could always get such teachers, we would be well pleased with them.

QUEEN ANN.

BURGLARY AT MAITLAND.

The Depot Safe at Maitland Relieved of its Contents.

The safe in the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs depot at Maitland was opened Thursday night, and robbed of about $900. But little is known of the manner in which the robbery was perpetrated, as it was done in the night, and it was not discovered till morning. Mr. Chas. Leach is the station agent at Maitland, and it is his custom to leave the depot at about eleven o'clock, leaving his assistant to sleep in one of the rooms of the depot. This he did thursday night, locking the safe before he left. Some time during the night the burglars effected an entrance through the window and by some means opened the outer safe door. It was not blown open, nor was the lock broken, but it was simply unlocked by some one who evidently understood the art of opening safes. The outer door being out of the way, the burglars broke the inner doors with a hammer, and then took out all the money and valuable papers that had been left in the drawers. The young men in the depot heard no noise, so it must have been done very quietly and scientifically. Of the money taken, $500 belonged to the United States express company, and the remainder to the railroad company. The station agent, Mr. Leach is confident that he locked the safe before going home.

The station at Bradyville, on the same road, was also entered, the safe broken open, and $192 taken. The entrance was made through the window and the safe broken open with a sledge hammer. Of the money taken, $130 belonged to the express company. Railroad men have seen three suspicious-looking characters on the trains within the past few days, and these fellows have been spotted. Should they turn up very soon in this vicinity they will be gobbled without ceremony. The whole of Northwest Missouri seems to be infested with thieves and housebreakers, or else those who have been committing similar depredations in this city have a faculty of distributing themselves quite rapidly and promiscuously over the country. It is more than probable that they have their headquarters here and make their incursions into towns in the surrounding country for the purpose of coming on the villagers unawares and getting what plunder they can. There must be a goodly gang of them, for there is hardly a night passes but some housebreaker in St. Joseph suffers at their hands.—St. Joe Gazeett.

LIFE AMONG THE GREASERS.

An Interesting Description of How Things are Done by the Lazy Mexicans.

TIPTON, NEW MEXICO, Nov. 14, 1881.

EDITOR COUNTY PAPER:—Since my last letter, I have been roving over the snow capped mountains, up the great canons, into the mining camps, studying the country, the natives, their habits and their language, and will attempt to discribe a few things that I have seen.

First, let me say that I have seen no country or section of country anywhere in the west that can offer such great, or as many indusements as the Old Platte Purchase in Northwest Mo.

The majority of the people in this country are poor, and very poor; where one prospers a dozen do not. It is a first rate country for a large man with a large capital, but not so good for a small man with a large capital, and still worse for a small man with no capital at all. They say its a very healthy country, but that's a joke; the hemp and lead diseases rage fearfully and are generally sudden and fatal. However, there is little need of doctors or temperance drug stores, for the pure, bracing mountain atmosphere is calculated to drive off and keep at bay anything akin to malaria. It is a very expensive country; butter is 50 cents per pound, bacon 25, lard 20, sugar 17, green apples 12, dried 25, flour 5, potatoes 5, beans 10, eggs 25 per dozen, wood at the rate of $3 to $4 per cord or 50 cents a burro load, and board from $6 to $10 per week. Carpenter wages $2,50 to $3.50 per day, railroad section hands $1,75 without board, and common laborers by the month $15 to $25 and board. Teachers in the public schools get from $40 to $50 per month. The school in this place is a mission school, the teacher is paid $20 per month by the mission board for teaching the five Mexican orphan children, and the balance is made up by subscription at $2 per month per pupil. Counting all good pay he will average about $46 per month for the ten months term, but from this he furnishes his own school wood and boards himself. I have endeavored to give facts, and readers can draw their own conclusions.

Last Tuesday the superintendent of missions came along, invited me to a seat in his buggy, and we traveled a circuit of 100 miles, up the valley and among the mountains, returning Saturday. When six miles up the valley we stopped at Fort Union, it contains the most extensive and expensive works in the Territory, and at present quarters four companies of soldiers. The buildings are all double and all flat-roofed except the arsenal and hospital. In the guard house are two Apachee Indians, chained down in their narrow cells. They are of the tribe that lately made raids into the Territory, but at present it is reported that there are no Indians on the war path, yet who can tell what a day may bring forth.

We continue northward from the fort with massive mountains on either side, passing only one house in 20 miles. On the left a snow storm was raging, but above and beyond the cowd, we could see the mountain tops. We spent the first night at an old stage station, or ranche, where we made the acquaintance of an interesting family just from distant New England. The next morning "the beautiful snow" was falling thick and fast, and so continued without intermission for 45 hours, and was then 31 inches on the level. We continued our journey thirty miles and then halted at Coyote, a Mexican town of about 400. Here we were snowbound for three days, and then had to hire a Mexican to pilot us out. In this town are one American family, one English and one French. The first has a mill, the second a copper and silver mine and the third a store. The mission minister is an American but has a Mexican wife. The school teacher is a very intelligent lady, lately from Memphis Missouri, the balance are Mexicans, commonly known as Greasers. It is not uncommon to find an American rearing a Greaser family, but the pure Spaniard is seldom seen. The natives all live in adobe huts, lighted by one window of two or three panes, a ground floor and a little fire-place in one corner. They have no stoves, but do their cooking in little mud ovens outside the hut. They sleep on the floor, sit on the floor and eat on the floor. The woolly side of a sheep skin is their mattress at night, and the fleshy side of it their breadboard and table cloth in the morning, their principle diet is beans and chili (red pepper), together with tortis, (little cakes). They milk goats instead of cows and always do their stripping from behind. Here imagination must take the place of description. The little burro (dwarf donkey) is their wagon and their buggy. It is curious to watch the lazy, but patient and docile little things, as they trudge along with their heavy burdens, often larger than themselves. It is not uncommon to see one little burro, without saddle or bridle, carrying a whole family, man wife and children. If they are to carry provisions, two deep baskets are filled, tied together and thrown across their back, one on either side. If they are to carry wood to market, it is cut, tied together, and strapped around their body.

There are a few of their peculiarities that continually remind us of the patriarchal bible scenes. Such is life among the natives in New Mexico. Not one in a hundred of them can speak the English language.

We entered Coyote from a deep and winding canon. It is located is an open space of about 100 acres, with lofty mountains all around it, the scenery is indescribably grand and picturesque even in snowy winter. There is said to be considerable game in the mountains such as mountain lions, bear, deer and turkey, and plenty of speckled trout in the mountain streams.

The first building that attracted our attention as we emerged from the canon, was a quaint old Monte Catholic kind of mosque or church. It had a flat roof but peaked point, in which was a large hole about the size of a wagon wheel, and a bell suspended. A little door in one end and three small windows on one side. I could not enter or see through the dingy windows, but was told that it contained no seats, Last week the Matachenos held forth here in commemoration of Montezuma, [illegible] and return, etc., but space will not permit a description of their bonfires, dances, etc.

The Englishman before mentioned invited me up to look at his mine, where I procured some pretty specimens of ore.

Some other time I may discribe the mines and miners.

We were treated very hospitably by all classes but did not weep at parting. We bid the town adue, and now bid you the same. Long live and thrive THE COUNTY PAPER.
