After the oath office was administered by Chief Justice Valiant, Gov. Hadley delivered his Inaugural address and was interrupted many times by enthusiastic applause. His speech outlined his policies and was applauded by both Democrats and Republicans.

The inaugural ball at night was similar to those previous except that a larger crowd was present.

Educational Notes.

Saturday evening (night), March 20 is set for the final Spelling Contest at Butler. The township chairmen and teachers should now make definite arrangements for the township contests.

The following is from Miss Laura Clapp, teacher of the Mulberry school in Homer township: "Your December Bulletin is received and carefully read. With reference to the ten questions, I can safely say that I can answer nearly all of them in the affirmative. Our attendance is good and the pupils are progressing nicely. We are working hard on the Spelling Contest."

Much interest is being manifested in the Spelling Contest. Teachers and pupils are at work in earnest. Mr. J. N. Hunt, the author of the spelling book to be used in the contest, has offered a fourth prize, a handsomely bound volume of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary. This prize does not in any way disturb the other three prizes. There will now be four winners in the final contest in stead of three. The fourth winner receiving the dictionary.

Referring to the December Bulletin sent out from the county superintendent's office, John R. Kirk, President of the Kirksville State Normal School writes: "I should like to tell your school boards how sensible the suggestions are, especially as to school buildings and grounds. And then the suggestions as to school government I should like to plead with your teachers to take those suggestions to heart. Civilization means quietude while we work, and much shouting and romping out of doors while we play. And the ten questions. Each teacher ought to write a 10-page essay on those questions."

Mr. E. F. Carpenter, teaching the Haynes school in Hudson township sends some of his pupils' arithmetic papers for inspection and then says: "Our eighth grade had a box supper recently and made enough money to buy an International Dictionary and stand and some Maps." So the Haynes district is waking up, too. Now, if the people will repair and paint the old school house and furnish a good black-board and library and some other apparatus, then the teacher will be able to do really efficient work, and the children will find their school work a pleasure instead of a drudge.

The county superintendent has received from the Missouri Library Commission a professional library for teachers, consisting of 53 volumes. These books contain some of the best thought of the world concerning the teacher and his work. The library will be kept in the superintendent's office for some time and is open to all Bates county teachers free. Books may be borrowed from the library and returned when they are read.

This is a splendid chance for teachers to read some of the best pedagogical books without any cost. Certainly our teachers will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Supt. A. L. Ives.

The ponds and lakes around Rich Hill were made lively Thursday and Friday by skaters. The ice was good and large crowds from here took advantage of their opportunities.

The latest is making the explosion of fireworks play a tune.

Second Quarter Ended The Workers Worked Him

School Year is Half Over in Rich Hill--Examinations are Being Held.

Supt. Robinson informs us that this week closes the second quarter in the Rich Hill schools. Examinations are being held now and he requests us to state that the grade cards will be sent out in a few days and desires that parents examine them carefully, sign them and return to the teachers.

The Rich Hill schools are doing good work and Mr. Robinson states that the hearty co-operation of the parents is appreciated. During the last half of the year parents should see that children get their work, and the instructors say that more home work should be done by pupils in the higher grades. Everybody should take an interest in the schools. The future of our community depends upon them.

First The Farmer.

Missouri is a farm State, a State of agricultural and rural life. But three great cities have been permitted to grow up within the borders of this Commonwealth and these three have been pushed so far to either side of Missouri as it is possible for them to be and remain Missouriian.

Missouri cities and towns rest upon the country. They depend for raw material and for market upon the regions around about. The country can get along without the city—not well it may be admitted, but still it can get along. There would yet be left to the dwellers without the city gates blue sky and elbow room, a trinity of blessings inestimable. But the city cannot so well exist, and never prosper without that region which we call rural.

Missouri does well to train for agriculture, to lay emphasis upon those things which conserve and add to the resources of the farm land for here, in last analysis, is the foundation of the Old and the New and of the Greater Missouri.—University Missouriian.

Numerous Statement of Expenses Filed by Defeated Democrat.

According to the Springfield Republican, the Democrats of Greene county have a man who would make a strong candidate against Mark Twain for first honors as a humorist even if he didn't prove to be much of a candidate for the Legislature. Followin is the statement of his campaign expenses, as given by the Republican, and the Herald thinks it proves conclusively that the idea that all candidates lie when making such statements is not invariably true—we believe this one states the actual facts: "To the Honorable County Court of Greene County.

"Gentlemen—I suppose you are wondering whether or not there was a Democratic candidate for representative. Unfortunately, I will have to plead guilty to being 'it.' I will try to give you an account of my expense.

"First—Thirty days' time which my wife says ought to have been put in at the wood pile. Second—Printing, $2. Third—Campaign contributions, $10. Incidentals, about $10, $5 of which was paid to workers who worked only me; and 50 cents put into the collection box in church because a Republican was sitting next to me. The balance, $4.50 was handed around. A total—besides the time I spent—of $29, in becoming a thirty-three member of the Down-and-Out Club of America. It is useless for me to tell you that the ticket I drew in the political lottery was No. '23.'

"Billie Hattannus returned to his work in Joplin yesterday afternoon.

Anthony Sartorius is reported as having killed eight dozen rabbits Tuesday.

O. T. Holland of the Sprague neighborhood was in town yesterday on his way to Butler.

Judge Armstrong was a business visitor to Butler yesterday.

E. P. Lampkin, of St. Louis, visited his father, Dr. L. Lampkin, in this city last week.

Mrs. Nora Miller, of Kansas City, who had been visiting her parents here since Christmas left for her home Friday.
