"I see a wonderful light in the heavens," said the astronomer; and thereby hangs a tail.

"What Missouri needs most is more intensive farming and less intensive politics."

This country has developed so rapidly that the number of producers has not kept pace with the number of consumers—Governor Hadley.

Regular Republican government for Missouri! My! my! what a calamity that would be for the Democratic leaders! It makes them dizzy to think of it.

Looks like Francis and Reed Democrats have elbowed former Governor Folk out of the senatorial race, though the friends of Folk have not yet discovered where the laugh comes in.

Not a discordant note was sounded at the Republican county conferences held in May. Missouri Republicans, always regular and loyal were never more devoted to the principles and policies of their party.

Old fashioned Democrats taught that "to the victors belong the spoils." The new school of Democrats have gone a bit further and hold that the spoils once seized should be held when the other party gets the victory.

The three large cities of the state will be given by Republicans the largest measure of home rule consistent with the moral interests and public safety the state must maintain. No home rule bill emanating from saloon sources, such as that passed by the Democratic senate in 1900, will ever be approved by a Republican legislature or governor.

HIS PROMISE AND HIS DOUBT.

Oh, be my own sweetheart, and say
Will climb the heights together;
My inspiration you shall be,
In love and loyalty together;
We'll pluck the stars by the way
The world shall stand and hear us;
For I'll achieve with you, my love,
With you for my own dear one.

And with you my love I'll
And furnished together
So that you might be content to live
With public admiration;
You would not go with girls, boys,
And, choosing all the while,
You'd think that I had lost my track,
Even though you never said it.

—Chicago Record Herald.

MISSOURI, THE ALL-ROUND STATE.

Speakers at the Land Congress in the Ironton region of Missouri agreed in the statement that Missouri has scarcely an equal in opportunities for homeseekers. Some of this class will listen to nothing but the call of the wild. In their minds going on the soil is associated with the idea of a wilderness, a sod house, and years of privation while waiting for civilization to catch up. Few such places remain in the United States and it is a waste of energy and money to settle in them. Plenty of cheap land of good quality can be found in Missouri and many newcomers have made a handsome profit by selling high-priced farms in other states and investing in lands in this state. The central position of Missouri, its general geographical advantages, favorable climate and transportation facilities by land and water insure, as a rule, a steady appreciation in the value of property in both country and city. There is no easier or more agreeable way to make money.

Going back to the soil in Missouri is an operation well guarded against a disastrous failure. Schools and other social requirements are found in every county. The industries of the state include a widely distributed system of mining and manufacturing, affording a home market that fails and a steady demand for various forms of labor. In former years many landseekers had political objections to Missouri. But the state is no longer a reservation for a Republican party. It is debatable and has recently given its electoral vote to the party in control of the government. Improved farms in Missouri are of first-class quality as a rule and comparatively low in price. The products include everything between corn and cotton, and the raising of all kinds of domestic animals. Looking over Missouri before locating a new home is a wise step. No region can be found where more that is desirable is obtained for a given amount of money.—Globe Democrat.

It appears from the last financial statement that Bates county has outstanding about $30,000 of protested warrants. These draw 6 per cent interest. This should not be. There should be revenue enough raised from taxation to pay the running expenses of the county without allowing warrants to be protested. To say the least, this is not good business. For some years it has been the same story over and does not seem to be improving. Bates county should not be paying interest at the rate of $1,500 a year on protested warrants. There is wealth enough in the county to pay its legitimate running expenses without levying an exorbitant rate of taxes. This is a question that the people should study carefully and devise some way of avoiding this unnecessary drain on the public treasury.—Adrian Journal.

A western exchange says: The home paper is always interesting to you, whether you take it or not. Some people who do not take the paper, borrow it from their neighbors, and while this inconvenience the neighbors and also themselves, it cannot help but make us feel proud that they really care enough for our paper to walk a mile each week to get it and also save two cents. It shows that these people are economical and that when our advertisers put an ad in our paper they will be sure to read it carefully and take in all the bargains.

No Josephus, you need not feel that you are bound to vote for the candidate because you accepted a cigar from him. He gave you the cigar because he likes you and besides if he is elected you will help pay for it.

SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY.

She walks in beauty like the night, as some romantic singer said; her eyes give forth a starry light, her lips are of a cherry red; across the floor she seems to float; she seems to me beyond compare a being perfect—till I note the way she has done up her hair. She must have toiled through half a day to build that large, unwieldy mass; she must have used a bale of hay, and strips of tin, and wire of brass; her sisters must have helped to braid, her mother wrought and tinkered there, and butler, cook and chambermaid all helped to wrestle with her hair. And after all the grinding toil and all the braiding and the fuss, the one effect is just to spoil her beauty and make people cuss. She walks in beauty like the night, where nights are most serenely fair; but, Julius Caesar! she's a sight, when she's got on her (Sunday hair)—London Tit-Bits.

Judge Charles Denton of Butler stopped off here an hour or so last Friday evening between trains while enroute from Clinton where he has been holding court to his home in Butler. Judge Denton was elected to the bench six years ago on the Republican ticket, defeating Judge W. W. Graves, who had held the office a number of years. Judge Denton has made good on the bench and has given such universal satisfaction that his friends and the Republicans of the district are insisting that he stand for re-election. While the district is normally Democratic, it is believed that Judge Denton will stand a good chance to be re-elected, and he has consented to again make the race. There are no better men in the state than Judge Denton and he should be given another term by the people of his district, which is composed of the counties of Bates, Henry, Benton and St. Clair.—Nevada Herald.

A representative of an Eastern muckraking magazine declared in an address at the Missouri University, when the editors were gathered there, that "colorless truth is the ideal of news." If that is true, what are we to think of the sensational newspapers, the yellow journals and magazines—such as he is representing—and the political "insurgents" who are busily engaged in spreading highly colored truth, not to say absolute falsehood, throughout the West? The fact is, the highest duty of the newspaper reporter, magazine writer or political officeholder is to present the truth in plain unvarnished terms; but if that were done, the occupation of not only the above mentioned class of writers but of the political demagogues would be gone.—Kansas City Journal.

The Sub-committee of the State Committee to prepare a bill for redistricting the state into senatorial districts is making progress and will have the measure ready before June 15. Then the work of securing 22,000 names on the petition for submitting it to a vote of the people will begin. The bill will probably provide for twelve reliable Republican and twelve Democratic districts and ten doubtful. It will be a fair proposition. No partisan arrangement will be attempted by the committee.
